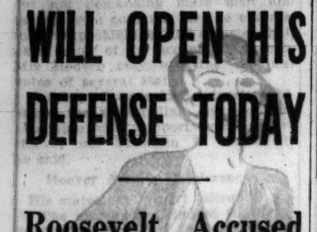
MAYOR WALKER WILL OPEN HIS DEFENSE TODAY



Roosevelt Accused as 'Prosecutor.'

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The prosecution of Jimmy Walker, mayor of New York, rested today. The defense will open tomorrow.

Gov. Roosevelt, presiding over a hearing intended to help him determine whether he will oust the mayor from office, was accused today by the mayor's chief counsel, John J. Curtin, of playing the rôle of "prosecutor" instead of judge.

Samuel Seabury, chief counsel for the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee, has been singularly silent during the hearing, and although frequently invited by the governor to join in the cross-examination of the mayor, he has asked Mr. Walker less than a dozen questions.

Wants Other Charges Heard.

Mr. Curtin's assertion that Gov. Roosevelt had assumed the mantle of prosecutor as well as judge came immediately after the governor announced the close of the mayor's examination. The lawyer sought to determine whether other evidence might be put in later, and he wanted another set of pending charges heard before putting in his defense. In this connection, Curtin said:

"I do think that there are two sides, at least, to everything, no matter whose side that is. I have one side of this controversy and somebody must have the other side. According to the record so far, you, your excellency, seems to have that other side. I had assumed, until I came here, that Judge Seabury and others had that side."

Fee Splitting Charges Up.

The charge that Dr. William H. Walker, a brother of the mayor, had split fees with other doctors who received city compensation was discussed at length. Mayor Walker declared he had questioned his brother and had been told that it was "a business arrangement between him and the doctors."

The plans of the defense were not disclosed tonight, either by the mayor or by Mr. Curtin. But one thing they seemed to have agreed upon and that is that the defense will back down on their demand for the summoning to the hearing of every witness who testified against the mayor before the legislative committee.

The defense has been insisting they were entitled to a right to cross-examine all the mayor's accusers and the governor has held them down with a ruling that only those witnesses whose cross-examination may have material import shall be summoned. But today the governor took what many observers thought was a pretty long draw and he appears to have won the draw.

Wants All Witnesses Called.

This was how it took place:

MR. CURTIN—I ask now that there be produced for cross-examination all the witnesses whose testimony appears here that has not been received by you in evidence. [In legislative hearing record.]

GOV. ROOSEVELT — Counsel, you are asking—will you repeat that?—that subpœnas be issued for every witness who appeared?

MR. CURTIN—Every witness——

GOV. ROOSEVELT—In these eight volumes?

MR. CURTIN—Yes, for cross-examination.

The governor took a deep breath and then he snapped out his decision.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Motion granted and I will hand you the list of witnesses and blank subpœnas and you can get them all in here.

MR. CURTIN—[Uncertainly]—They are not my witnesses. I will do the best I can to locate them. They are witnesses in substantiation of your charges.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Right.

Curtin Objects to Burden.

MR. CURTIN—I don't want to take too much of a burden upon myself because I have burdens of my own—my own witnesses. On that, I will take subpœnas on my own witnesses, and pay all the necessary expenses. On witnesses called against me, that is a totally different situation. I don't want to assume too much of a burden about it.

MARTIN CONBOY—[Legal adviser to the governor]—We will furnish you with subpœnas for all witnesses who gave testimony.

MR. CURTIN—Are you asking me to take the burden of producing witnesses who are against me? That

BOSTON BRAVES FIGHT LONGEST 1932 STRUGGLE

Bud Tinning, Young Pitcher, Day's Hero.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Cubs battled through nineteen innings of stirring, flawless baseball yesterday at Wrigley field to defeat the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, and defend the slender margin by which they held first place in the National league. It was the longest major league game of the season and embodied more brilliance in fielding and more masterful pitching than one is likely to see in a half dozen contests of normal duration.

Although the teams, never separated by more than one run, played for four hours and thirteen minutes, until they were near physicial exhaustion, there was not a fielding error on either side. The Cubs moved with mechanical precision through 37 fielding plays and the Braves with the same perfection, performed 35.

The Cubs' victory put them two games ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are in second place, and enabled them to stay two and a half games ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Herman Scores Winning Run.

The winning run was scored by Billy Herman with two out in the 19th. With the bases full and one out Manager McKechnie sent in Shucks Pruett to pitch to Johnny Moore, reputedly weak against left handers. Manager Grimm countered with Demaree, a right handed hitter.

Demaree's first swing of the long afternoon hit Pruett's first pitch to Berger in deep center. Herman dashed home and the Cubs had added another thriller to their increasingly sensational record of dramatic contests.

Tinning, Frankhouse Heroes.

The two heroes of the game were Pitchers Bud Tinning and Freddy Frankhouse, neither of whom started the game and neither of whom was in at the finish.

Tinning pitched 12 2-3 innings of elegant shutout baseball and deserved to win his fourth of the year and his second in two days, but he didn't because he yielded to a pinch hitter who fanned on three pitched balls in the 18th. Frankhouse pitched 11 2-3 innings of marvelous baseball, also, and had he remained in the game certainly would have done as well as Pruett, who ended the deadlock with one pitch.

The windup, though a great source of happiness to Guy Bush, who won a 19 inning ball game by pitching to three batsmen, and a most gratifying conclusion for the Chicago partisans, was a heartbreaker for Frankhouse.

Victory Rally Begins.

The Cub nineteenth started with Herman dropping a Texas leaguer in front of Randy Moore. Then English, trying to bunt, was grazed by the ball and waved to first over the protests of the entire Boston ensemble. Cuyler laid down a perfect sacrifice and then the strategy set in.

Stephenson was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. There was a big powwow in the center of the diamond and Pruett was called in to pitch to Johnny Moore. As previously related, Manager Grimm countered with Demaree. Frank took a good cut at the first pitch and, while it was an easy out for Berger, the smack served its purpose as well as a homer. Berger made a throw to the plate, of course, but Herman got home standing up.

Grimes Starts Game.

The game started as a tilt between 20 year old Bobbie Brown and Burleigh Grimes, a gent of uncertain vintage, but pretty old for the arduous work of the day.

Burleigh crumpled in the sixth inning to blow a 1 to 0 lead. A homer by Jordan, a single by Berger, a double by R. Moore and a single by Knothe had two runs home and men on third and first with only one out when Tinning took charge. Moore was sunk at the plate and Bud threw out Brown for the third out.

Bud filled the bases in the seventh, but after that had only one jam—in the twelfth when Riggs Stephenson had to make a miracle catch off the left field wall to save the game.

Brown allowed the Cubs only three hits in 6 2-3 innings, but his control

Piccard Off on Ten Mile Jump Into Sky

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 18.—[Thursday, 5:30 a. m.]—Prof. Auguste Piccard and his assistant, Max Cosyns, arose from the earth in their balloon at 5:06 a. m. [11:06 p. m. Wednesday, Chicago daylight saving time] today. It was Prof. Piccard's second voyage into unknown skies for a scientific exploration of the stratosphere.

They expect to rise to a height of about ten miles to study the little known cosmic rays which envelop the earth and are capable of penetrating all matter.

The balloon ascended swiftly, watched and cheered by a crowd of 16,000. Within five minutes it was but a tiny speck against the cloudless sky and in another ten minutes it was lost to sight.

Delayed Two Weeks.

After more than two weeks of postponement the gawky, aloof man of science, who has been living tranquilly in the midst of a veritable Barnum sideshow, decided that the equipment on which his life and that of his assistant will depend was satisfactory. He also ruled that weather reports on the atmosphere up to the fringes of the unknown were favorable. What the weather is like farther than that is not known, for the simple reason that the trial balloons which were sent up exploded.

Sixty-five men worked under the Swiss scientist's direction last evening to prepare for the ascension. After dusk high powered electric lights flooded the field to illuminate the strange scene. More than 200 men were sitting cross-legged around the large circumference of the balloon while their chief counted them off like soldiers. Each man received instructions to hold down the rising balloon with all his weight, or let go, according to the command.

Hydrogen from 437 containers stacked on the field began to flow into the balloon at 10:30 p. m. yesterday.

While the preparations were going on Prof. Piccard and Cosyns slept in the hangar, fully dressed, on improvised cots. Apples, oranges, bananas, milk chocolate, hot coffee, crackers, and rum were already stored in the balloon's gondola.

Prof. Piccard said last night he would try to land upon a glacier.

"Hundreds of high tension wires in this section of Europe are most dangerous, and I consider landing in the mountains the best way to avoid danger," he said.

No Idea What Mountains.

The extravagance of the whole adventure, which to the uninitiated might seemed dulled by the minute precautions and highly unscientific atmosphere prevailing around the camp, is evident when it is remembered that while the elderly professor will try to land on the mountains, he has no idea what mountains—the Alps, Pyrenees, or Apennines.

In case he misses all of these mountains arrangements have been made with hydroplane stations at such widely separated points as Genoa, Pisa, Fiume, Barcelona, Danzig, and Kiel to fly to the rescue of the explorers should they be forced down in water. In other words, Prof. Piccard hopes he will come down somewhere in Europe.

Prof. Piccard expects to be in the air about six hours. There is a short wave radio on the balloon, but the scientists do not intend to use it until they are landing.

Prof. Piccard's first trip into the stratosphere took place on May 27, 1931, when he ascended to a claimed height of 52,500 feet. That ascent was made from Augsburg, Germany.

Italy Retires 51 Warships to Save Funds

ROME, Aug. 17.—(AP)—One hundred and thirty thousand tons of Italy's fighting ships—virtually one-third of the entire navy—will be retired under a program beginning Aug. 25. The purpose is to save money.

When the program has been completed Italy will be without a single battle ship. The Doria, 22,700 tons, and her sister ship, the Duilio, which were rushed to completion in 1915 when Italy entered the world war, will be placed out of commission. Under the Washington treaty Italy has the right to 170,000 tons in battleships, but she has elected to disregard this category in favor of heavy and light cruisers.

Navy Totals 404,005 Tons.

A report presented to the disarmament conference showed that the whole Italian navy totals 404,005 tons, including twenty ships still under construction.

The crying need for economy was indicated by the fact that some new ships are intended for retirement. These are four of the twelve 2,000 ton destroyers of the newest Italian type which were strewn between North Africa and South America when Gen. Italo Balbo led his air squadron to Brazil in 1931.

In addition to the two battleships the vessels scheduled for retirement include three heavy cruisers, nine light cruisers, 25 destroyers and twelve submarines, all fairly old but within the age limit. The ships will not be immediately scrapped, but will be stripped of their crews.

To Reorganize Fleet.

The heavy cruisers are the San Marco, the San Giorgio, and the Pisa, averaging 10,000 tons and each more than 20 years old. Among the light cruisers are four old German ships and one which formerly was in the Austrian navy.

While the retirement program is under way the fleet will be fully reorganized. Two squadrons will be created, the first of which will consist of seven 10,000 ton cruisers, none more than three years old, with headquarters at Spezia, a strategic point in relation to the southern coast of France. The second squadron will be made up of six 5,000 ton cruisers, none more than two years old, some of which hold world speed records. Headquarters will be at Taranto.

New Bombing War Is Opened by Terrorists

Warfare in the cleaners and dyers' industry, which has been going on intermittently during recent weeks, broke out in earnest early this morning when terrorists bombed three shops, one on the north side, another on the northwest side, and the third on the southwest side.

In one an armed watchman who was waiting to prevent an expected attack was knocked unconscious by the blast and was taken to a hospital. In another four men leaped aside to safety just as the bomb exploded. Two of the bombed plants are operated by the same company. The places attacked and the damages were:

Checker Cleaners, Inc., 2746 North Clark street. Interior wrecked; damage about $5,000.

Blue Bird Cleaners and Dyers, 1032 North California avenue. Rear rooms ruined; loss about $2,500.

Checker Cleaners, Inc., 3202 West 22d street. Front of store ripped open; damage about $500.

Bombs Close Together.

All three bombings were perpetrated between 1 and 1:15 o'clock, indicating that the triple action was concerted and arranged from one headquarters. Just before the Clark street shop was blasted a police message to cruising squads went over the radio warning them to watch all Checker plants. There are twenty-one of them in the city.

The bomb at 2746 North Clark street was placed on the sill of a steel barred window in the rear. This metal framework was bent like hairpins from the blast and the interior was wrecked almost to the front. Patrons of the King Chow Lo Chinese restaurant at 2744 North Clark street, next door, fled to the street.

Scores of people standing at Diversey parkway and Clark, close by, were jarred. Hundreds of apartment house dwellers in the neighborhood gathered at the scene.

Manager Watches Bombing.

The second Checker shop, in 22d street, was bombed from the front. Two men in a small car drove up, and one tossed the explosive through the window. From less than 20 feet away Joseph Drzal, 1956 South Spaulding avenue, assistant manager of the shop, watched the action. With three friends he ran to the scene. One of the quartet saw the sputtering fuse and warned his companions to jump to one side. All leaped just as the bomb exploded, shattering the front window and tearing up the front interior.

Four men were on guard at the Blue Bird shop to prevent a bombing when the place was blasted. The four were Joseph Lipow, 2608 Ainslie street and Jacob Cohn, 3645 Costello avenue, owners, and Walter Novrowski, 21 years old, of 936 Newton street, and an unidentified man, watchmen. All were armed. The place is supposedly protected by an injunction issued by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Guard Knocked Unconscious.

Suddenly a crash of breaking glass was heard in the rear, and the four men ran toward the bank door. As they did so, the bomb exploded, knocking Novrowski unconscious. He was taken to the Norwegian-American hospital.

Lipow told police that he had received information his store was to be bombed. He blamed the Master Cleaners and Dyers' association for the attack. He declared that he is a member, but that the organization was trying to put small shops out of business. Judge Sullivan's injunction names the Master Cleaners and Drivers' union.

Police blamed a cut price war for the bombings. The Checker cleaners have been underpricing competitors in recent weeks. On Sunday night its plant at 7411 Cottage Grove avenue was bombed with damage of $500. On May 23 a new shop of the concern at 2706 Division street was also bombed. Damage there was $250. Officials told police Sunday that racketeers had warned them against rate slashing.

TROOPS READY FOR MINE DUTY; STRIKERS MOVE

Plan March Against Workers Today.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 18 [1 a. m.].—At midnight troops now at Camp Grant were in readiness to move into the disordered mine areas of southern Illinois. Soldiers of the 130th infantry awaited expected orders.

Upon receipt of word from Springfield that conditions were dangerous the division commander was notified to have the state troopers ready to leave at a moment's notice.

Troops of the 130th infantry units, all hailing from towns in the mine trouble area, were ordered to remain in their company areas tonight, awaiting news of the start of the strikers on the Taylorville pits.

The 106th cavalry will be held in reserve for immediate service after the departure of the 130th infantry. In case disturbances in the trouble zone warrant their presence, companies of the 129th infantry which include Rockford and northern Illinois will follow.

Arrangements have already been made for troop train service into the mine trouble area. Two bases of operations have been tentatively selected—one at Carbondale and the other at Taylorville.

The eight planes of the division air force are also ready to depart immediately ahead of the troops.

READY TO MARCH ON PITS

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Despite the killing of a union official today, leaders of the Illinois mine strikers tonight were ready to lead an army of 4,000 diggers on a peaceful invasion of the Taylorville area, in an effort to persuade the 1,500 miners at work there to quit. The march is scheduled to start from Reservoir park here at noon tomorrow.

Though the strikers avow their purpose is peaceful, there were grave doubts whether the "march to Taylorville" could be accomplished without clashes. Taylorville resents the proposed invasion and holds the miners may work if they choose, and 1,500 citizens have been deputized by Sheriff Charles Wieneke for safety's sake and to enforce this conviction. Main highways are barricaded by farm and road machinery and pickets will not be allowed within the region.

Reject New Wage Scale.

The strikers demand that the new $5 wage scale signed by their leaders be discarded and new negotiations entered into looking toward a return to the old $6.10 scale which the operators say they cannot pay.

The protest march is a senseless plan, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, asserted tonight.

"Eventually these men will return to work," he said. "That is as predictable as time itself. Massmeetings originated in the brickyards of Egypt 7,000 years ago; they have never ceased. These men have grievances but the present scale is the best that could be negotiated for them at this time. The contract with the coal operators is only of seven months' duration. I strongly advise that they return to work."

Union Secretary Slain.

Joseph Colbert, the slain man, was serving his third term as recording secretary of Orient local, No. 303, United Mine Workers of America. He was 34 years old, married, and had lost a hand in a mining accident several years ago. He had been employed at the old Orient mine 15 years. Last Sunday he was one of the leaders at the meeting of 10,000 miners at Benld, where the strike decision was made. This morning he was working in the mushroom patch with his father, William Colbert, when the car bearing the killers stopped on the road about 300 yards away.

"Come here, Joe," one of them called.

Colbert walked toward the fence and was within 25 feet of the car when the man in the rear seat whipped a shotgun over the side of the tonneau and fired. The miner fell, mortally wounded in the head. The car sped away toward Benton. Colbert Sr. said that he did not recognize the killers. The body was taken to West Frankfort, where an inquest will be held tomorrow.

One man is under arrest at Benton for the murder. State's Attorney Marion Hart refused to divulge the suspect's name nor would he reveal what, if any, evidence he possesses.

Another shooting occurred when Clyde E. Moses, Taylorville miner, attempted to drive through a group of deputy sheriffs on returning from Springfield, where he works in a concession stand at night. Moses said he did not see the red lanterns waved at him and a shot from the deputies wounded his wife.

Two Are Arrested.

Bonnie Vickory, deputy, was arrested on Moses' complaint and released in $2,000 bonds. Moses was arrested on a charge of resisting officers and was held in jail, as he lacked the $500 bond. Both pleaded not guilty. Vickory's hearing was set for Saturday and Moses' for Aug. 27.

While these incidents were stirring the miners Lewis, who favors the $5 scale, issued a blistering denunciation of the proposed march on Taylorville. It is "fantastic and represents the height of stupidity and folly," he said.

"Surely," added the veteran miners' leader, "no mine worker is so ignorant as to believe that the peace officers and citizens of Christian county will permit their county to be overrun by a mob led by a small group of shortsighted and irresponsible individuals. The authorities of the city of Springfield and the county of Sangamon would be justified in forbidding the assemblage of such a group for the publicly announced purpose of invading an adjoining county.

"The mine workers of Springfield and central Illinois may as well recognize that marching expeditions and massmeetings will not destroy the contract which has been executed between the Illinois Coal Operators' association and the United Mine Workers of America.

Normal Conditions Returning.

"Normal conditions are being restored throughout the mining sections of the entire state and must, in the end, be restored in Sangamon county. Any man who expects in the future to work in the coal mines will inevitably be obliged to work under the provisions of the contract. I personally know that in the homes of many mine workers in Sangamon county extreme poverty and destitution exists. In many instances children are without proper covering for their small bodies.

"Why the fathers of such families will permit a few ranting fools to keep them from working and providing for their families is incomprehensible. The women of such families should intervene and compel their timid bread winners to accept employment offered them in the mines of this district under the terms of an agreement between their union and the coal companies."

Mr. Lewis will go to Terre Haute tomorrow to participate in Indiana wage negotiations.

Direct interference with the working miners came late this morning. A group of 74 diggers from Pawnee on their way to the Peabody mine at Tovey were "dissuaded" by a small group of men believed to be residents of Sangamon county. State highway police interfered with the picketing, but only one of the miners was willing to continue to the pit after the incident. The others returned to their homes.

Pickets Join Workers.

West Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—When miners at Peabody mine No. 19 defied a cordon of pickets this morning and went to work many of the pickets abandoned their lines, followed the more determined men to the mine and also reported for work. About 75 men were in the picket lines after a second vote by the local union last night not to return to work. Some 400 men passed through the lines and went to work before the picketers abandoned attempts to prevent the mine from working.

Today would have been the second day of absence for many of the miners, and company officials had warned that the two day discharge clause in the contract would be enforced. Mine officials reported the mine working today with a full crew.

No Quarrel, but Quit Work.

Canton, Ill., Aug. 17.—All Fulton county mines were idle today. More than 1,000 men followed the dictates of a meeting at which it was decided to join the protest against union officials who negotiated the recent wage contract. Local officials state that they have no quarrel with local operators and that their only idea in refusing to continue work was to bring about the removal of district officials.

25,000 MEN WORKING.

Approximately 25,000 men were back at work in Illinois coal mines yesterday, according to a statement issued by the Coal Operators' association after what was termed a careful check of the field. Two additional mines were reported opened by the U. S. Fuel company near Danville. The revised figure on employment includes "company men" and others employed above ground as well as below. When the mines closed because of the wage disagreement on March 31 there were approximately 49,000 miners at work.

BURGLARS WITH AN EYE FOR ART LOOT APARTMENT

The apartment of A. O. Anderson, professor of musical theory at the Chicago Musical college, at 5001 Dorchester avenue, was entered yesterday afternoon by burglars who took paintings and objects of art valued at $6,000.

The stolen property had been collected by Prof. Anderson's children, Mary and Andreas, while studying art in Rome. The burglars showed knowledge of art in taking the most valuable articles of the collection, Prof. Anderson said.

He discovered the loss when he came home early in the evening. Mrs. Anderson and the children are at their summer home in Palisade, Mich. The only witness to the robbery was the Anderson parrot.

Swimmer Sucked Into Pipe Saved After Long Battle

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Sucked into an underwater outlet pipe while swimming in a pond near here, Melvin Hill, 21, fought twenty minutes for breath while four boy companions and three men worked to extricate him. Raising the mouth of the pipe above the surface of the water, the rescuers tied a rope around the imprisoned youth's shoulders and by their combined strength pulled him out. Hill was semi-conscious, but physicians said outside of bruises he was unhurt.

ARRESTED ON FRAUD CHARGE.

FESTIVAL BAND TO BE GREATEST EVER HEARD HERE

Petrillo Will Lead Union Musicians Saturday.

Music Festival Facts

Some of the facts you may want to know about the Chicagoland Music Festival are:

Place—Soldiers' field.

Time—Grand entry of bands starts at 7:30 p. m. Saturday night.

Admission price—25 cents, juveniles or adults.

Ticket sale—Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower lobby, and your news dealer.

Chicagoland's music festival for two years has presented capacity crowds at Soldiers' field with spectacular band attractions. But never in those two performances has there been a band presentation equal to the one arranged for next Saturday night.

Bands from Iowa, from downstate, from Indiana—from all corners of Chicagoland—were united in 1930 and 1931 festivals in immense massed effects. Each year a splendid concert band of 100 pieces has stirred the vast crowd with thrilling numbers.

Petrillo to Lead Band.

Next Saturday night, in addition to the concert band, in addition to the 26 bands from Chicagoland, the Music Festival has engaged the biggest and best professional marching band that Chicago has ever listened to or watched in parade.

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, will lead this band, augmented by 75 pieces from the concert band, in the grand march across Soldiers' field. And Mr. Petrillo will direct the band in a special number from the platform during the festival performance. During the massed band numbers the Chicago Federation band will join with the 27 other bands under the leadership of Victor Grabel.

Union Musicians Pledge Aid.

"The Chicago Federation band Saturday night will be composed of the greatest aggregation of professional musicians ever assembled in Chicago," Mr. Petrillo announced yesterday. "The Chicagoland music festivals have done more for music than any event I know of, and the union musicians of Chicago are determined to do their part to make this year's festival excel in brilliance those that have gone before.

"THE TRIBUNE and its radio station W-G-N have been friends of union musicians. We will try to show our appreciation in the preformance on Soldiers' Field."

UKRAINIANS WIN AGAIN

The Ukrainian Chorus of Chicago, twice Chicagoland Music Festival winners in the mixed chorus division, won the Chicago contest last night in the Gold ballroom of the Drake hotel. The organization, which appeared in brilliant national costumes, was directed by George Benetzky, who led the group to victory in 1930. The 41 members sang the contest song, "Hail to Our Native Land," by Verdi, and "Listen to the Lamb," by Dett. Many of the chorus wore the two gold medals awarded in the two festivals.

The James A. Mundy Choristers and Jubilee Singers, conducted by James A. Mundy, who will be one of the five colored directors of the large Negro chorus at the festival Saturday night, were ranked second. The judges were Nelli Gardini, Edgar Nelson and Prof. O. S. Beltz of Northwestern university. Mr. Mundy's second number was "Mary and Martha Jes Gone 'Long." The choristers were garbed in dark red caps and gowns.

West Chicagoans Third.

Third place went to the West Chicago Community High School Mixed chorus, directed by L. H. Swanson, supervisor of music in the West Chicago schools. It presented the contest number and "The Omnipotence" by Shubert. Other contesting organizations and their directors were Chicago Concert chorus, A. M. Kuechmann; Smith-Handy Choral club, Samuel E. MacAlphine, and St. Mary's A. M. E. Church choir, Tennyson T. Butler.

Tonight at 7:30, in the Gold ballroom of the Drake, will be held the finals of the Chicago vocal contest, to be followed by a grand rehearsal of the "Hallelujah Chorus" and "Soldiers' Chorus" under the baton of Noble Cain. The fifteen vocalists have been chosen in three sectional contests held during the last two weeks in this city. The contestants are:

NORTH SIDE—Le Jeune Fisher, soprano; Bess Williams, contralto; Ralph Niehaus, tenor; Paul Pence, baritone, and Elmer H. Ley, bass.

WEST SIDE—Pauline E. Stephens, soprano; Edna Moe, contralto; William Dalton, tenor; Waldemar Schroeder, baritone, and Frank C. Wentick Jr., bass.

SOUTH SIDE—Annette Thorn, soprano; Sophie M. Paske, contralto; Walter P. Hillig, tenor; Robert Burns, baritone, and Joel B. Peppers, bass.

Fifteen minutes of the contest, beginning at 8 o'clock, will be broadcast from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station.

CARRY BATTLE AGAINST PARK BOARD TO COURT

Ex-Foreman Charges Pay Roll Politics.

Two former employés took their complaints against the west park board into open court yesterday before Judge Charles A. Williams of the Superior bench.

Joseph C. Kotlenger and Bernard F. Burgeson have demanded that they be returned to jobs as general foreman and construction foreman, respectively, and their attorney, Michael F. Ryan, has been predicting he would expose pay roll scandals approaching those of the sanitary district of a few years ago.

Tells of Jobs Created.

The most specific charge against the park board was brought out in the testimony of Kotlengar and concerned the abolition of two $400 a month jobs and the simultaneous creation of five other jobs paying a monthly salary total of $2,050.

These new jobs, it was charged, were created last year to take care of west side ward committeemen for whom no places could be found on the Emmerson state pay rolls. A new $450 a month job was given to William M. Garrison, commiteeman for the 27th ward and city purchasing agent under the last Republican régime. He was made superintendent of maintenance.

Three other committeemen, William Lass (23d), Paul Rotheberg (24th), and James Vignola (26th), were given newly created $400 a month jobs. Kotlengar testified that the work assigned to these three had been done previously by section foremen at $200 a month. The witness said that the place given Garrison was held earlier by Ephram Soderberg with the title of landscape foreman, and that Soderberg was taken care of with one of the new $400 jobs as a division supervisor of parks and boulevards. Kotlengar also said his $75 monthly automobile allowance was turned over to Garrison.

Judge Bars Check Evidence.

On cross-examination, John W. Costello, special counsel for the park board, sought to show that Kotlengar was discharged for misconduct and tried to introduce 46 checks indorsed by the witness, but Judge Williams ruled they were inadmissible.

The one witness at the afternoon session was Charles J. MacGowan, the park superintendent of employment and civil service secretary. His chief task was identifying pay rolls and similar records brought in by order of the court, but there were two spots in his testimony that caused the spectators to prick up their ears.

In reply to questions by Attorney Ryan, he said he understood that Harry Bettinghaus was employed as a publicity man for the park system and admitted that he saw Bettinghaus early this year at the headquarters of Omer N. Custer, Emmerson candidate for the governorship nomination, at the Morrison hotel. Bettinghaus was in the witness room at the time and was said to be ready to testify that he worked as much as 18 hours a day during that campaign, frequently doing work at night for the park board or the Custer headquarters.

Again MacGowan was asked whether he knew if a son of W. R. James, president of the board, had been employed in the park offices. He said he had seen the younger James in the engineering office—"filing blue prints or something of that sort."

This witness was asked to bring in additional records, and, on the motion of Attorney Ryan, the hearing was continued until tomorrow.

Mighty Chorus by Handel to Stir Crowd at Festival

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Hallelujah! For the Lord omnipotent reigneth."

For 190 years, from 1742 in Dublin to 1932 in Chicago, George Frederic Handel's mighty shout of triumph has resounded in all corners of the civilized world. In the beginning in Dublin it was heard in a hall so confined that a special printed notice was extended to the ladies asking them not to wear hoop skirts because of the space they consumed. Next Saturday night in Soldiers' field it will be sung by a chorus of 5,000 before an audience of 110,000.

But in all this time and under all circumstances the world has marveled. That is why it rightfully ranks as one of the climaxes in the program of the Chicagoland Music Festival.

From "The Messiah."

Technically the piece is known as the Hallelujah chorus from the oratorio, "The Messiah." In reality it is a cry straight from the heart of an amazing man who saw and realized, as few have done before him or since, the glorious, the unfathomable, the mystical drama of religion.

And as it came straight from the heart of Handel, so it has gone straight to the hearts of all those who have heard it since, which means the whole world. If you were to name the best known, the best loved, the most popular composition in all music, the chances are that the Hallelujah chorus would be placed first. Every choral body learns "The Messiah" first of all, and no one ever forgets it. One hundred and ninety years ago it was written, and it is just as fresh in its sturdy youth, just as thrilling, just as magnificent today as it was then. It is of the immortals.

For the reason that it is so deeply embedded in the consciousness of all singers, the Chicagoland Music Festival was able to present it in the gigantic fashion in which it will be heard next Saturday night. All the choral bodies massed at the north end of Soldiers' field will be ready with it. In addition, THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers of the middle west, as sponsors of the event, invited everyone who had ever sung the chorus and was willing to add a voice to the magnificent hymn to come and join the others.

One Singer from Texas.

Responses have covered an astonishing range of territory. It was expected that many might come from Chicago and Chicagoland and perhaps further. Many have thus announced themselves. But when there is an answer from as far away as Texas, as happened the other day, it gives extra force to the world-wide influence of a great musical work.

The Hallelujah chorus will be conducted by Noble Cain, a brilliant and efficient choral director, and the possessor of a high and well deserved reputaton in the musical life of Chicago. He has recently returned from a tour of the west, where he added to his laurels by conducting two other enormous choral bodies, one in the Mormon tabernacle at Salt Lake, the other in the bowl at Hollywood.

The Hallelujah chorus will not, however, constitute Mr. Cain's sole contribution to the Chicagoland Music Festival program. Another huge chorus has been organized, this time of men, and he will direct it through the stirring measures of the Soldiers' chorus from Gounod's "Faust."

Soldiers' Chorus.

What "The Messiah" is to sacred oratorio in popular esteem, "Faust" is to romantic opera. And of all the fine melodies that awaken thunders of applause whenever "Faust" is presented, the Soldiers' chorus is the most popular. It is a gayly festive number, depicting the home coming of an army after a war campaign, a march that stirs the blood and quickens the pulses.

How many high spots there will be to the program cannot be told in a few words. It is to be an evening of stirring song, of brilliant instrumentation, of light and color and spectacle.

PROMISE TO OPEN EVANSTON HIGH SCHOOL SEPT. 12

Assurances were given at a meeting of the Evanston Township High school board last night that the high school would open as scheduled on Sept. 12. Some fear had been expressed that the opening would be delayed.

"We have enough cash on hand to operate the school for at least one month," Principal Francis L. Bacon told the board. "Moreover, we have several offers from citizens to purchase 1931 tax warrants, which would mean continued operation."

Principal Bacon said that plans are under way now for the further sale of warrants. He hinted that part of the school employés pay might be in paper during the early months of the season. Mr. Bacon declared that the condition of the school finances is stronger today than in several years past. He pointed out that in 1930 there was $1,018,000 outstanding in tax warrants; in 1931, $1,281,000; and at present only $617,350 outstanding.

ASK INVESTIGATION OF CHICAGO BUREAU ON BIRTH CONTROL

President Bundesen of the board of health yesterday ordered an investigation of the Medical Bureau of Information on Birth Control, at 190 North State street. The investigation was made at the request of Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th].

"I have received complaints," Ald. Hodes wrote to Dr. Bundesen, "that the bureau is an unsocial influence which has been operating to the detriment of the community by allowing persons who neither for reasons of health nor economy need such information."

The Journal of the American Medical Association on May 17, 1930, printed an article regarding the bureau, characterizing it as "a Chicago concern that capitalizes contraception" and stating that it was a subsidiary of a company selling contraceptives.

The Medical Journal stated that a Chicago attorney's wife, who had recently given birth to a child, received a letter from the bureau, advising her that she could obtain information on contraception at the bureau. The letter was signed "Mary Hall, M. D." The journal charged that at that time there was no record of a Mary Hall having been graduated from any reputable medical school or licensed to practice in any state.

U. OF C. CARILLON COMING TODAY IN 4 FREIGHT CARS

The 72 bell carillon which is to be installed in the chapel tower of the University of Chicago as the gift of John D. Rockefeller Jr., is expected to arrive in the East Chicago yards of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad early today. The bells will be weighed today by the United States customs authorities and will be taken to the university grounds either tomorrow or Monday. Three flat cars and one box car were required for their shipment.

The weight of the bells ranges from 10 pounds for the smallest, to 36,926 pounds for the largest. They were manufactured at Croyden, England, and presented to the university by Mr. Rockefeller in memory of his mother, Mrs. Laura S. Rockefeller.

The entire cost of the bells and installation, estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000, is being borne by Mr. Rockefeller.

BISHOP CANNON BOLTS HOOVER FOR WET STAND

Assails President; Calls His Plan "Indefinite."

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., who helped carry the southern states for President Hoover in 1928, today assailed the prohibition stand set forth in the President's acceptance speech as "surrender to the speakeasies, bootleggers and nullifiers of the constitution."

The bishop criticized the President for not demanding more men and money from congress for the enforcement of prohibition, and asserted that, as a result of the acceptance speech, Mr. Hoover may lose the electoral votes of several states.

Persons who consider federal prohibition the outstanding issue of the campaign can support neither Mr. Hoover nor Franklin D. Roosevelt, he said.

Hoover Admits Helplessness.

His statement in part follows:

"The outstanding, indeed the overshadowing, part of Hoover's prohibition statement is the startling declaration by a President of the United States of the helplessness of his administration in its warfare against lawlessness, in its efforts to control what Hoover denominates the 'intolerable speakeasies and bootlegging' and to prevent 'practical nullification of the constitution.'

"But is not the President himself responsible if his administration is as helpless as he now so suddenly declares in the very face of that most significant and encouraging official statement recently submitted to congress that consumption of intoxicants had diminished over 60 per cent since 1914?

Never Asked Sufficient Funds.

"Had Hoover in March, 1929, not only declared his purpose to enforce vigorously and efficiently the Volstead act but also asked congress to furnish whatever men and money were necessary to secure as efficient enforcement as for other laws, congress would have provided the men and money and the prohibition department would have been equipped to smash the city beer gangs, imprison or deport alien gangsters, suppress open speakeasies and bootlegging, and prevent any wholesale nullification of the constitution.

"And now, without having first appealed to congress for money and men to aid him to prevent nullification of the constitution, Hoover suddenly surrenders and declares the helplessness of his administration to enforce the constitution which he has sworn to uphold and defend. Would Jackson or Lincoln or Wilson have made such a declaration of administrative helplessness to uphold the constitution without a vigorous demand that congress give all possible aid?

Call Hoover Plan "Indefinite."

"And now to remedy the 'intolerable' conditions which he declares his administration cannot control, Hoover makes an indefinite, illogical and impracticable proposal that a new amendment be adopted, which amendment will permit the states to legalize the manufacture and sale of intoxicants but which will contain a guarantee that the federal government will prevent the return of the saloon and violation of the laws of dry states.

"Until Hoover specifically formulates a provision whereby he proposes to prevent the return of the saloon his proposal is simply an indefinite and glittering generality. How will he define where the legal hotel or restaurant or drinking parlor ends and the illegal saloon begins?

"Really preventing the return of the saloon or its equivalent in states where the traffic will be legalized and to prevent smuggling into dry states will be far more difficult than it has been to enforce the eighteenth amendment.

Unable to Support Hoover.

"Those advocates of federal prohibition who believe prohibition to be the outstanding economic, social and moral issue of the presidential campaign cannot logically support either Hoover or Roosevelt and doubtless hundreds of thousands will refuse to vote for either, which may cost Hoover the electoral votes of several states.

"Others, while recording publicly vigorous protest and utter disagreement with both candidates on the prohibition issue, will carefully consider all present facts and future possibilities before final decision.

"Meanwhile, emphasis must be placed upon the election of senators and congressmen opposed to submission and repeal. Political platforms and Presidents are temporary. This is only one battle in the irrepressible warfare with alcohol, in which there can be no compromise, no retreat, no surrender until traffic in alcohol—the great enemy of social order—has been practically abolished."

One of Kelly's Probationers Sent to Jail on Gun Charge

One of the 15 robbers placed on probation last Friday by Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court, must go to a cell after all. He was sentenced yesterday to serve 30 days in the house of correction by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court on a plea of guilty to the charge of carrying a concealed weapon. His name is Walter Buvidas.

Buvidas was arrested on June 5, by Sergt. Dan M. Andrews and his squad, who had been notified by police radio of a disturbance at 1747 Hastings street. Andrews testified he found Buvidas drunk in the house with a revolver in his pocket. At the police showup he was identified as a robber by two victims.

Confesses the Robberies.

Buvidas confessed the robberies and named his brother, Dan, Frank Karris, and Walter Bart as his companions. Dan Buvidas and Karris confessed four robberies. The gun carrying charge against Walter Buvidas was continued until the disposition of the robbery charges.

The four men pleaded guilty before Judge Kelly. The judge was told Bart had been fined for malicious mischief and that Dan Buvidas had served six months in the house of correction. Dan and Karris were given a year's probation each on the four charges and Walter and Bart a year's probation each on the two charges.

When the gun case was called before Judge Fardy yesterday Buvidas' counsel cited the Kelly probations and pleaded double jeopardy. The judge held the gun toting charge was distinct from the robbery charges. The attorney asked leniency because Buvidas had been in jail since his arrest.

"He would have been in jail longer if he had to serve his robbery sentence in prison," replied Judge Fardy. "The sentence is thirty days in the Bridewell."

Two Others in Jail.

Two more of the fifteen probationers, who were liberated by Judge Kelly last Friday, are in jail. They are St. Clair McInerney and George Dilley, who were arrested on new charges of robbery. Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge will present a petition to Judge Kelly asking him to expunge the probation of the trio and send them to prison.

A conference of Cook county members of the legislature, called by State's Attorney Swanson as a result of the release of McInerney, Dilley, and Ralph Trimble, their companion on four holdups, will meet in the county building tomorrow. The state's attorney will demand revision of the gun carrying law to make probation impossible.

187 Given Probation.

Records of the Chicago Crime commission have disclosed that Judge Kelly has granted probation in 187 of the 269 Criminal court cases he has heard in the last eighteen months. Among the cases not previously made public by the commission are the following:

STANLEY NAUSEDA—Granted probation on three charges of robbery with a gun on April 10, 1931, after he had previously pleaded guilty to the indictments. No witnesses were heard. Two co-defendants, who were tried by a jury before another judge, were sentenced to serve one year to life in the penitentiary.

MATTHEW CECILKEWICZ—Granted a year's probation on April 20, 1931, after he had pleaded guilty to holding up a shoe store with a gun. State Senator Roy Woods, representing the store, asked the judge to delay probation until the defendant named his accomplices. Assistant State's Attorney Dodge declared the defendant was on probation from the Boys' court, but the records had been destroyed.

STANLEY ANDREWS and JOHN SCHENITES—Granted probation Feb. 20, 1931, after the state waived the gun count and they were found guilty under pleas of not guilty. The defendants were given probation after they made restitution of $50 taken from a loop hat store at the point of a pistol.

HERBERT LABEAU—Granted probation March 20, 1931, on a charge of taking indecent liberties with an 8 year old girl. He had served six months for larceny.

FRANK SEDIVY—On Feb. 27, 1931, he was granted probation on a robbery charge and a charge of assault with intent to murder was stricken. At the time the defendant had a record as a con man and deserter from the army. On Nov. 30, 1931, Judge Kelly sentenced him to one to 20 years for violation of probation when he was told Sedivy had never reported and was in trouble.

EDWIN GLASS—On March 30, 1931, he was granted probation on a charge of robbery and ordered to make restitution of $200 damages to owner of automobile he used to make a getaway from the scene of the crime. The judge said the defendant had been arrested before, but he would receive one more chance to reform.

CHARLES DAWSON—Granted probation Dec. 4, 1931, after he had pleaded guilty to robbery with a gun.

ROCCO CAPRA—Sentenced to the Pontiac reformatory on a charge of robbery with a gun. He was said to be a member of the "42" gang. The Pontiac authorities refused to take him in, saying they did not want any Chicago gunman. He was returned to Judge Kelly, who vacated the sentence and granted probation.

BEN FRIEDLAND — Granted probation March 13, 1931, after he had been found guilty of robbery upon a plea of not guilty.

Records of the crime commission quote Judge Kelly on Oct. 9, 1931, in denying probation to two defendants who had confessed committing 60 robberies as saying: "I'm the easiest judge who ever sat in the Criminal court. I've probably placed more men on probation than any other judge, but I'm not going to put you on probation. I don't like to send any one to the penitentiary."

Judge Kelly will hear a dozen applications for probation in his court tomorrow.

DAUGHTER HERE TODAY TO VISIT EDITH M'CORMICK

The condition of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who has been seriously ill for several weeks in her suite in the Drake hotel, remained unchanged yesterday, her physicians said. Members of the family were concerned when she suffered a slight setback yesterday morning, but she recovered quickly and showed no ill effects in the afternoon. Her daughter, Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, who landed in New York on Tuesday with her husband and two children, Anita, 7 years old, and Peter, 5, boarded the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited at Harmon, N. Y., last night and will reach Chicago at 9 a. m. [Chicago time] today. Mrs. Oser traveled alone, dispatches said. Her husband accompanied her to the train and then returned to the estate of John D. Rockefeller, his wife's grandfather, near Tarrytown, N. Y. The children did not go to the train.

Heart Disease Victim's Body Is Found in Lake

Andrew Gustafson, 36 years old, of 1052 West 48th street, a carpenter, died of heart disease yesterday while swimming off the 54th street beach. His body was found accidentally by another swimmer. Examination showed he had not been drowned.

YOUNG MOTHER CRITICALLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Margaret Lilly, 31 years old, 14753 Kostner avenue, Midlothian, an expectant mother, was probably fatally injured yesterday in an automobile collision at 115th street and Vincennes avenue. She was riding with her husband, Frank, and a 9 year old daughter, Margaret, when the car collided with an automobile driven by John M. Watson, 2316 West 110th street. Mrs. Lilly was taken to the St. Francis hospital in Blue Island. The others suffered minor injuries.

William C. Hayes, 28 years old, 2616 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn, an adjuster for the National Bond and Investment company, was killed yesterday when his automobile struck a milk wagon at 79th street and Stony Island avenue. Philip J. Perlman, 37 years old, 7130 Ridgeland avenue, driver of the wagon, was taken to the Jackson Park hospital suffering a possible fracture of the skull.

Edward Stringer, 12 years old, 1608 Fullerton avenue, was killed yesterday when his bicycle was hit by a truck at 2655 North Ashland avenue.

The deaths of Hayes and Stringer and two others increased the 1932 Cook county motor toll to 727 yesterday. The other two deaths were:

John Ryan, 33 years old, a laborer, living 1½ miles south of Des Plaines. Died last night in the Des Plains hospital. His motorcycle collided with the automobile of E. F. Pratt of Wauconda, near his home earlier in the day.

Mrs. Margaret Michelau, 33 years old, of 4958 Market street, Niles Center. Died last night in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. She was hurt Aug. 7 in a crash near Lake Zurich.

FIND 'ARTIST' WHO POSED GIRLS IN NUDE IS MARRIED

Police to Quiz Wife About Studios.

Harvey Raymond Spencer, 31 years old, Peoria shoe salesman who came to Chicago and induced girls to pose in the nude in his studio at 5510 Harper avenue where it is charged he lived with his secretary, Miss Constance Selbach, was revealed yesterday as a married man. The disclosure followed a hearing before Judge James F. Fardy, in the Jury court, where their cases were continued to next Monday.

Spencer's wife is Mrs. Ruth Firth Spencer, 28 years old, manager of a beauty shop at 2509 Devon avenue. She will be questioned this morning by Sergt. Michael P. Naughton of the Scotland Yards detail.

"I thought his photograph work was just a pastime of his," said Mrs. Spencer. "I knew nothing of his advertising for models, or selling photographs."

Find Two Studios.

Police charge that he advertised for models, and that he promised jobs to girl applicants if they would pose undraped. Detectives seized a list containing the names of 140 girls. Spencer, according to police, maintained another studio in Quincy street where he made movies. They said this studio was equipped with peep holes.

Mrs. Spencer said that she met her husband four years ago in Peoria where he was a shoe salesman. Peoria is their home town. She worked in a beauty shop there. They came to Chicago three years ago, Mrs. Spencer said, and were married here May 15, last. Not until she read about him in the papers did she know his occupation, she asserted. She said she gave him funds, but believed the money was being used to apply on debts.

"Educated and Smart."

"I knew in a way that he had made some photographs in the nude," admitted Mrs. Spencer. "I did not know that they were obscene. I met some of the girls who modeled, but I tried to be broadminded. I felt that since I was his wife I should trust him. After I met him I never looked at another man. He's certainly not handsome, but he seems so educated and smart."

Mrs. Spencer said Spencer had never contributed to her support. She lived with him for a while at the Quincy street apartment, which was raided last week, but later moved to the home of Roland Spencer and Mrs. Spencer at 2220 Granville avenue. Roland is Harvey's brother. She said that she never heard of the Selbach girl before.

Mrs. Spencer said that she had understood her husband had been married before, and that he had shown her "some sort of a divorce paper," but she did not recall when or where the divorce occurred.

In court yesterday Spencer was accompanied by Miss Selbach. The case was continued to Monday on the request of Norman A. Beck, a new attorney in the case. He wished time to familiarize himself with the charges, he said. He is associated with Attorney Charles H. Craig in the defense. Following the postponement, Spencer and his secretary were taken back to the county jail in lieu of bonds. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Klenha and Sergt. Naughton protested against the continuance. The latter explained that he is having difficulty in keeping the fourteen witnesses.

W. C. T. U. RE-ELECTS MRS. BOOLE; HEARS PLEA FOR NEW PARTY

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance union today elected Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., its president for an eighth term, approved a "political action" policy which called for concentration of efforts on the election of a dry congress and dry legislatures, and heard an appeal for the formation of a third party.

Arthur M. Barnhart of Chicago, president of the Illinois conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment, prefaced his argument for selection of a dry presidential candidate by saying many W. C. T. U. women had asked him what they should do as a result of the wet views of both presidential nominees.

He pleaded with the convention "not to adjourn until you get somebody, Borah or Pinchot, or some other dry, who you can vote for." No dry can vote either for Roosevelt or Hoover, he said.

Communists Set Fire to House in Eviction Protest

Negro communists set fire to the rear porch of a two story frame dwelling at 653 East 47th street with gasoline last night in a demonstration after they had been prevented from returning furniture to the home of Cary Brown, colored, who had been evicted. Firemen extinguished the flames and police dispersed the gathering. Police Lieut. Andrew Barry was struck by a brick.

G. E. Q. JOHNSON TAKES OATH AS FEDERAL JUDGE

Green Succeeds Chief as U. S. Prosecutor.

George E. Q. Johnson took his oath of office yesterday as judge of the United States District court before a throng representing the officialdom of Illinois and Chicago. The crowd jammed the federal building courtroom of Judge George A. Carpenter.

This ceremony was preceded by the elevation of Dwight H. Green to the post of United States district attorney, vacated by Mr. Johnson. Green was Mr. Johnson's right hand man in the campaign which sent a dozen Chicago politicians and gangsters to prison for income tax frauds.

Judge Johnson's induction came to a dramatic close when a color guard from the Roseland post of the American Legion marched into the courtroom and presented him with a stand of colors. Choking with emotion, he rose to express his thanks for the Stars and Stripes which will stand beside his bench, but after a few words sat down, tears streaming down his face.

Flowers Piled About Bench.

Flowers were piled high about the bench when Judge Carpenter, senior federal judge in Chicago, called the courtroom to order. Beside him on the bench, with Judge Johnson, were Judges James H. Wilkerson, Charles E. Woodward and John P. Barnes of the Chicago district, and Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville.

The oath of office was administered by Charles M. Bates, clerk of the federal District court. Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court and Senator Otis F. Glenn made short congratulatory addresses before Judge Johnson spoke.

"Five years ago," said Judge Johnson, "I took the office of district attorney. I stated then that I hoped I could write a chapter that would be commendable. That chapter is now closed. Anything creditable in it is not to my credit alone. It was not the work of one man. It was the work of my whole office staff. For their loyalty to their country, their work and their teamwork, I am deeply grateful.

Crime No Longer Safe.

"During my term of office I have at all times felt the support of the press. At one time, crime was safe. Now there is a crystallized sentiment, largely caused by the press, which makes such a condition impossible.

"This chapter is now closed. I go to my new duties with an overwhelming sense of responsibility."

Judge Johnson motored to Chicago for the ceremony from New Troy, Mich., where he has been recuperating from an operation. He returned there last night and will rest until he takes the bench in September. Mrs. Johnson, their son, George Jr., and Miss Elfrieda M. Prestel, who was his secretary as district attorney and will continue in the same capacity, witnessed his induction.

Judge Johnson instructed United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer to have all the baskets of flowers and other floral decorations taken to the Edward Hines Jr. veterans hospital.

Judge Wilkerson presided at the induction of District Attorney Green, which took place in the district attorney's office. That room, too, was filled with flowers and crowded with spectators. Among them were Mrs. Harry Green, his widowed mother, who had come from his boyhood home, Ligonier, Ind., for the ceremony, and his wife, Mrs. Mabel Green.

"Mr. Green is a young man, one of the few young men ever to hold this important job," said Judge Wilkerson. "I have great confidence that he will carry on the work of this office in an able and effective manner. It is but rarely that any man comes to this office with his qualifications."

Senator Glenn, congratulating the new district attorney, said: "It is particularly important that Mr. Green did not earn his position in factional politics. He earned it by his honesty, integrity and great ability. Mr. Green will carry on."

Johnson Praises Green.

After the ceremony Judge Johnson issued the following statement regarding his successor as United States district attorney.

"I am tremendously gratified that a member of my staff has succeeded me as United States attorney. He has the ability and character requisite for the office. The people of this community may look forward to an aggressive administration which will reflect credit on the administration of justice."

HOOVER AND GUESTS TELL FISH TALES AT WHITE HOUSE TABLE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Sun tanned and happy from three full days of fishing down Chesapeake bay, President Hoover tonight gathered his guests on the trip around him at the White House dining table for a re-telling of their joint angling experiences.

The chief executive himself enjoyed such luck that his original plans to come ashore early this afternoon were altered and the party did not land until shortly before sundown.

The department of commerce inspection boat, Sequoia, put in at Annapolis, Md., just before 6 p. m., and the Presidential party motored from there to the White House.

To the President went the honor of the largest fish of the trip, a sea trout approximately three feet long, estimated to weigh nine or ten pounds.

BRITISH PROPOSE SCHEME TO CURB RUSSIAN DUMPING

Aims to Solve Deadlock with Canada.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 17.—The Canadian delegates to the imperial conference tonight accepted provisionally a British proposal for dealing with the question of soviet Russian dumping. The Canadian delegates have recommended acceptance of the formula to their cabinet. It is on the Russian question that the empire trade conference has been deadlocked for three weeks and had seemed doomed to end in failure.

The substance of the British scheme is that Canada should trust Great Britain "to take such measures, legislative or regulative, as may be necessary to prevent any foreign nation from destroying the effects of preferences or other arrangements between the members of the British commonwealth by dumping or any other process."

The document does not mention Russia by name, the reference being to "any foreign nation."

Canada Gets Verbal Promises.

Only three copies of the formula, which the delegates desired to be absolutely a secret paper, were struck off. It is understood, however, that in addition to the formal resolution leaving the problem to Britain, there are certain verbal promises to Canada that a quota system will be applied to lumber, guaranteeing Canada a certain share of this trade, and that similar measures might be taken with wheat, asbestos, and other goods should the necessity arise. Britain also promises emergency measures to deal with flagrant dumping.

A member of the Canadian government tonight said the plan was not satisfactory, but was the best Canada could get. Premier Bennett, head of the Canadian delegation, has been insisting on exclusion of all Russian goods from the British market.

This the British refused, explaining how important the Russian trade was to them and mentioning the little matter of millions of dollars of British money already advanced as credits to Russia. Premier Bennett refused a British offer of a high tariff on Russian goods, declaring that the Russians would nullify it by price cutting, no matter how high it was.

At Odds on Meat Question.

There is yet another question on which the Britishers and the Canadians are still at odds. This is the meat question. Premier Bennett wants to get a share of Britain's meat market for Canada and he wants a tax on foreign food. So pressing has this situation become that J. H. Thomas, British minister for Dominions, has held several telephone conversations with Prime Minister MacDonald at Lossiemouth and has received assurances that while MacDonald is unalterably opposed to anything which will increase the price of the people's food, he will stand behind his delegation at Ottawa in anything they feel compelled to do.

It was reported tonight that Britain and Australia have reached an agreement in their dispute over Australia's demand for a meat preference in the British market. Britain has refused to place a tax on foreign meat, but has agreed to a quota arrangement on foreign frozen beef.

As most of the beef imported by England is chilled, not frozen, and comes from the Argentine, so this agreement will not do Australia much good. Prime Minister Bruce, however, has to take it and like it, as he hopes to get British support for a huge loan to refund the Australian debt.

Two Committees Report.

Two important committees of the conference reported today, and their reports were adopted. The most important was the committee on commercial relations with foreign countries, which had the task of considering the ticklish question of most favored nation treaties. This involved the question of whether members of the British commonwealth are independent nations as they claim to be for some purposes or merely regions of the empire.

The committee recommended that no treaty obligations which any member of the commonwealth may enter into in the future shall be allowed to interfere with intercommonwealth obligations and that the members should free themselves from any existing treaties which give any nation extraordinary privileges.

In this connection it is stated that South Africa has agreed to denounce her recent treaty with Germany.

The committee on customs administration also reported, recommending that all efforts be made to secure the avoidance of uncertainty as to the amount of duty payable, the reduction to a minimum of delay and the provision of facilities for the speedy and effective settlement of tariff disputes.

Much progress has been made in the last few days in the talks between the Irish and British delegates over the Anglo-Irish financial quarrel. It is learned that certain suggestions for a settlement are now under consideration by President De Valera.

Dr. O'Brien, Accused of Killing Wife, Freed on Bail

Reduced bail enabled Dr. William A. O'Brien to obtain his release yesterday from the county jail, where he has been held on a charge of murdering his wife by poison. A coroner's jury did not hold the husband responsible, but Capt. Joseph Goldberg of the Albany Park station ordered a murder charge placed against him. On Tuesday Judge Leon Edelman cut the bail from $25,000 to $12,000 and yesterday sufficient real estate was scheduled to grant Dr. O'Brien freedom.

Finds Jug of Wine and Dies After He Drinks It

John Formalski, 1308 East 93d street, died yesterday after drinking wine he found in a five gallon jug in the city dump at 95th street and Stony Island avenue. Three men whom he invited to a party Tuesday night to share his find, are seriously ill. The others are Charles A. Zasitis, 9313 Woodlawn avenue, and John Kalis and John Krongragoviz, who lived in the same building as Formalski.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Lord Kylsant, former chairman of the Royal Mail line and once a leading figure in the British shipping world, will be released from Wormwood Scrubbs prison tomorrow after serving a sentence of nearly ten months for falsification of his company's financial statement.

Lady Kylsant will motor from her flat in Mayfair to the prison where she will receive her husband about 7 o'clock in the morning. She will drive him direct to Coomb Llangain Carmarthen, his home in Wales.

His daughters and a few close relatives will be at Coomb to greet him. He entered prison last November after the court of appeals upheld his conviction in a trial that attracted great attention in England.

IOWA FARMERS' MILK BLOCKADE ORDERED BROKEN

Sheriff Calls for Help; Peace Parley Fails.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The blockade of picketing farmers was ordered broken this afternoon after a conference between distributors and producers had failed to settle the Sioux City milk strike. The farmers were mobilized on all roads leading to Sioux City markets to halt the moving of milk.

The afternoon negotiations ended in a deadlock, with producers asking $2.17 per 100 pounds for their milk, as compared to the $1.70 offered by the distributors.

Sheriff John A. Davenport of Sioux City called for 60 special deputies to bring safely through the picket lines milk truckers who have feared to market their wares in the face of the picket lines. The forces of Sheriff Davenport are to be augmented by special deputies from surrounding counties, officials said.

Truck drivers who braved the blockade today reported skirmishes with the picketers and the action was accompanied by black eyes and bruised heads on both sides. Trucks with no milk aboard were allowed to go through the lines.

Despite the blockade, which is preventing delivery of milk to dairies, the milk supply is ample, dairy officials said. Milk is being shipped from Omaha by rail to supply consumers.

At Des Moines representatives of midwest states who attended a meeting of the National Farmers' Holiday association departed to their homes after expressing sentiment in favor of the strike. Association officials said they had received requests for speakers and information from groups in Montana, Kansas, Colorado, and Oklahoma.

U. OF I. ACCEPTS TAX WARRANTS; PRODUCE BARRED

Chicago school board tax warrants will be accepted as collateral for notes in the payment of tuition to the University of Illinois, it was announced yesterday by H. B. Ingalls, bursar of the university, at Urbana.

Mr. Ingalls said, however, that he has no authority to accept farm produce or other articles in barter for tuition. A number of small colleges have announced that they will accept such payments this fall.

University of Illinois tuition rates will not be lowered this year, Mr. Ingalls stated. He pointed out that although a number of privately endowed colleges and universities have lowered their tuition rates, these rates are still much higher than at Illinois' tax supported university.

MAYOR WALKER WILL OPEN HIS DEFENSE TODAY

Gov. Roosevelt Accused as "Prosecutor."

don't seem to be of practical value. How can I get them?

GOV. ROOSEVELT—How can I get them?

MR. CURTIN—At least they are against me. These are witnesses whose testimony was drawn to hang my client. Why should I be called on to produce them?

GOV. ROOSEVELT—That statement leads not only to a definitely wrong impression, but is wrong in fact, because of the very simple reason that if you will go through the list of major witnesses in this case, you will find they were friends of the mayor.

The governor's reference was to the fact that most of the testimony against the mayor came from his political, social, and business associates, who were compelled against their desires to testify against the mayor.

Asked About Witnesses.

At the close of the hearing, Mr. Curtin was asked to make a definite statement as to whether he will ask that any of the Hofstadter committee witnesses be called for his cross-examination.

"I don't think so," he declared. "I can't see the justice of bringing witnesses up here to testify against the mayor."

The lawyer indicated that he will rest his defense upon the testimony of a dozen witnesses whose names he has refused to disclose. He has requested that subpoenas be issued for them, however, which would indicate an indisposition on the part of some of them to come to the mayor's defense.

The ruling of the governor which required the defense to produce additional witnesses came when he refused to dismiss the charges following the closing of the "prosecution" case.

The entire session today was given over, for the most part, to discussions between Mr. Curtin and Gov. Roosevelt. After a particularly long argument over technical points of law, the governor broke in and said, tartly:

"Now, Mr. Curtin, I just want to say one word here. There has been great objection made by many persons and great objection on my part to the long drawing out of this thing through what I frankly consider to be legal technicalities. Now I am not bound by the kind of rules of court procedure that a Supreme court judge is bound by. I am trying to get at the meat and the kernel of this thing."

MR. CURTIN—Now, your excellency, may I state to you and I want to state here that I have not, in my judgment, transgressed upon any technical grounds.

Governor "Getting Fed Up."

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I am getting a little bit fed up.

MR. CURTIN—I am fed up myself.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I will take charge of this proceeding pretty soon and shut it off.

MR. CURTIN—I am here in my capacity of a lawyer with my prerogatives well defined and you have your prerogatives well defined.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Don't talk any more. Proceed with the examination.

Mr. Curtin asked two more questions and sat down.

Finally, during this afternoon's session, the governor got Mayor Walker back on the witness seat for his last joust.

At the end of it, when the governor had gone through all of the fourteen counts of the Seabury charges, this colloquy ensued:

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I think that concludes the direct examination of the mayor.

Mayor Walker hunched forward in his chair, a typical quizzical expression on his actor face.

MAYOR WALKER—What? Direct examination?

GOV. ROOSEVELT [smiling]—Direct examination of the mayor by me.

The mayor slipped back in his seat, sighed deeply, and twirled his tortoise shell rimmed glasses in his fingers as he said:

"I never want to be cross-examined if that was direct."

Fee Splitting Discussed.

The governor and the mayor had been in a long discussion of the ethics of fee splitting among doctors. The charge taken up was that Mayor Walker's brother, Dr. William H. Walker, had split fees with other physicians who obtained money from the city in compensation cases. Led to a discussion of his brother's activities, the mayor said:

"I had no knowledge whatsoever of the scope of his business. I don't think I have seen him more than four times a year and that has been casually. And I know this definitely that never have I spoken to any corporation counsel to employ him, or any other doctor on workmen's compensation activities.

"What there is of splitting of fees I don't know. I have split fees in my practice with my partners. I assume that Mr. Curtin and Judge Seabury have split fees."

Brother Not on Pay Roll.

The governor demanded to know what investigation the mayor had made of the matter, after reading of it in the newspapers. He had ascertained that his brother was not on the city pay roll, he said, bringing a sharp rejoinder from the governor that there had been no such charge laid.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—And did you stop the inquiry right then and there, after asking whether he was on the city pay roll or had received any money? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—What else did you do? A.—I inquired about it.

Q.—Whom did you inquire of? A.—I inquired of my brother.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He told me that it was a business arrangement between him and the doctors.

"Due to Business Arrangements."

Q.—How did he explain the testimony he had given? A.—Well, now, your excellency, I didn't demand an explanation of him, and I wasn't in the position that you are with me, for the moment. I asked him what there was to it and he told me it was due to business arrangements they had on workmen's compensation cases for self-insurers.

Q.—Now, do you consider splitting of fees, off hand, a proper, ethical medical practice? A.—Well, unless I—if I—unless there was something wrong with it—if the city was defrauded out of one penny, it would be a matter of serious interest. If, on the other hand, the city was not defrauded, the service was rendered, the bill was paid, and the doctors, because of some other arrangement, that they had between them, paid off by splitting this check, or as many checks as there were, I don't see anything unethical about that.

The governor went on into a half hour's examination of the mayor, trying to press him into a definite answer, but finally the mayor protested, in this wise, that he didn't know anything about it at all:

MR. CONBOY—Did you send for a copy of this testimony your brother had given? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Have you ever read it? A.—No, I haven't read it. I haven't the time, quite, that a great many people would have to read this testimony.

Q.—It is not very long. A.—I haven't read my own testimony before the Hofstaedter committee.

The only other charge taken up with the mayor today was that he had failed to produce all the financial records demanded of him by Mr. Seabury. The mayor protested that he had delivered all that could be found, although there were long gaps in the bank accounts he submitted.

BONHAM WILL GO TO DEATH CHAIR AFTER MIDNIGHT TONIGHT

Howard C. Bonham, 36 years old, will be electrocuted an hour after midnight in the county jail tonight. He is under a sentence of death for the murder of Paul H. Tulupan, manager of the Claridge hotel grill, who was killed in a robbery of the grill on Dec. 13, 1930, twenty months ago. Gov. Emmerson has denied executive clemency or any additional reprieve.

Attorney Harold Levy visited Bonham in the jail yesterday. Later at Levy's office it was said he was considering the filing of a petition today alleging that Bonham has become insane since the pronouncement of the sentence. Such a petition, if accepted by a Criminal court judge, would act as a stay of execution and would necessitate the calling of a jury to pass on the mental condition of the prisoner. If the jury should find him insane he would be sent to the Chester prison for the criminally insane.

Warden David Moneypenny said all was in readiness for the execution.

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth, noted painter of the American Indian... inspired by the fierce cruelty of the savages whose knives and tomahawks caused the story of the Pioneer West to be written in blood.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ...the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

SON DESCRIBES FINAL SCENES OF BAIN BANK CRASH

Witness Tells of Vain Wait for Money Wagon.

Robert A. Bain, who came out of college and entered his father's banks, and within three years, at the age of 24, had been promoted to cashier of the Stony Island State Savings bank, one of the larger institutions of the Bain chain, spent most of yesterday on the witness stand in Judge John M. O'Connor's court.

ROBERT A. BAIN.

He testified in his own defense in the case in which he, his father, John Bain, south park commissioner; his brother, John H. Bain, and his brother-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, are charged with conspiracy as a result of the crash of the Bain bank chain last summer. Judge O'Connor is hearing the case without a jury.

The Last Hour.

The depositor-spectators who again jammed the courtroom, heard from young Bain a story of the bank crash told from a new viewpoint, that of an official who was confronted by the rush of depositors to save their money in the last hour before the collapse.

On cross-examination, Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber quizzed Bain about the two checks for $950 which he cashed for his father just before the crash, and about his own loans for the purchase of Bain bank stocks, transferred to the Bain chain after the Harris Trust and Savings bank, where young Bain made them originally, had asked him to clear them up.

The witness, who is 29 years old, unmarried, and who lives with his father at 5844 Pleasant avenue, told Attorney Francis X. Busch, defense counsel, that he was graduated from De Pauw university in 1924, went to work at the Stony Island bank as teller, and in three years was made cashier.

No Intimation of Trouble.

Then Attorney Busch led young Bain to a description of the final day, June 9, 1931, on which the Stony Island and eleven other Bain banks were closed.

"That morning I had no intimation that the banks were going to close, or even were in an extraordinary bad way," said Bain. "At 9:40 Tom Larkin, one of the employés, told me savings depositors were making heavy withdrawals. I comforted him, telling him the money wagon would be around soon with cash.

"I wasn't particularly perturbed, but I called Charles Meacham at the downtown office and asked if we couldn't have some money immediately. He said $50,000 was being sent out, and if there was any left down there we could have more soon."

In all, Bain said, he called Meacham three times, inquiring about the money as the crowds on the bank floor increased in volume and the withdrawals became heavier. Meacham assured him that the money would arrive soon, he said.

"Soon after this," Bain continued, Meacham called me back and asked, 'Did you get the money?' I said I hadn't. He said, 'You won't need it, then. I just got orders to close the banks.' I asked him, 'What do you mean?' I couldn't get it through my head.

"He told me my father had been cut off by a loop bank and that he had ordered the banks to close. I still couldn't get it. Meacham told me to put a stenographer on the phone and he dictated a statement for closing.

Crowds Still Remain.

"Then minutes after we had hung up the closing sign the money truck arrived. I sent it back down town. The lobby was still packed with people. They wouldn't go, even after the bank stopped paying. I ordered the doors locked and called a police squad.

"I explained the situation to the sergeant in charge and he advised me to get up and tell the crowd what I had explained to him. I climbed up on a table and told the people that there were a lot of banks closing, and that temporarily our bank was embarrassed. I told them that the closing was for their protection. After I talked the police finally managed to push every one out."

The checks which Robert Bain cashed for his father on the last day were one for $500 on the West Highland bank and one for $480 on the Brainerd bank of the Bain chain. John Bain had admitted previously that he built up his balances in those banks the day before by giving notes to the two banks.

Prosecutor Raber asked why John Bain had not written the checks on the Stony Island bank, as a preliminary to bringing out that Bain had an overdraft there when the bank closed.

"But you never refused to cash your father's check because his account was overdrawn, did you?" he asked.

"No," said Bain.

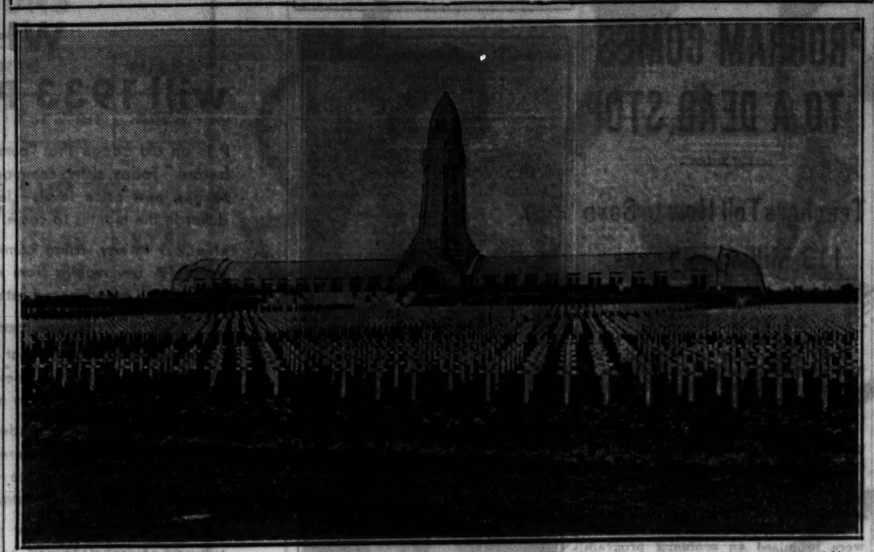
Buys Stock from Father.

Young Bain bought 400 shares of stock in the Stony Island bank from his father when he was made cashier in 1927, giving a $10,000 note and $70,000 which he borrowed on the stock at the Harris Trust and Savings bank. The loop bank asked him to clear up that loan in 1930, he admitted.

Q.—Then you stuck those notes in your own banks to pay off that bank? A.—The loans were arranged in the usual manner.

The final witness of the day, Louis J. Behan, who formerly sat on the south park board with John Bain, testifying for the defense, said that in his opinion "the reputation of Mr. Bain for fair dealing and honesty was very good."

Dedicate War Memorial Housing Bodies of 400,000 Soldiers



The ossuary of Douamont, near Verdun, which shelters the bodies of 400,000 French and allied soldiers, as it appeared at dedication ceremonies early this month. France's greatest war memorial, which is 420 feet long, is divided into eighteen recesses, each of these being separated into 46 sarcophagi which bear the names of the 46 sectors into which the battlefield of Verdun was divided. The memorial is surrounded by the graves of many others killed in the war. [Acme Photo.]

HIGHWOOD BANK PROBE IS STARTED IN LAKE COUNTY

The closed Highwood State bank of Highwood, Ill., was the subject of an investigation started yesterday by State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county on complaints of depositors that directors and their families withdrew their deposits shortly before the bank closed July 28.

State's Attorney Smith said investigators would determine whether the bank was solvent at closing. The last bank report listed $200,000 deposits, capital of $50,000, and a surplus of $25,000.

Sends $7 to Closed Bank's 'Conscience' Fund

The assets of the closed People's National Bank and Trust company, 47th street and Ashland avenue, were increased yesterday by seven one dollar bills. The money was received in an unsigned letter by Receiver W. W. Pearson. The accompanying note, printed on plain white paper, said: "This $7 belongs to the bank. Got too much from one clerk about a year ago."

GASOLINE BLAST IN GARAGE KILLS BOY, 5; INJURES 4

Fire Follows Explosion; 2 Families Routed.

A five year old boy was fatally injured, two men seriously hurt and a girl severely bruised last evening in an explosion in a garage at 1804 West Grand avenue, owned by the Grant Laundry company of 1758 West Grand avenue. A fireman was cut by flying glass in the fire which followed the blast. Two families were driven into the street by the flames.

The explosion, believed to have been caused by gasoline, occurred as Barney Clogan, 38 years old, 1313 West Grand avenue, employed by the laundry company, drove his truck into the garage. He was badly burned. The boy, Jackie Sullivan, 1820 West Grand avenue, who had been visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Anna McCorkle at 1806 West Grand avenue, was passing behind the truck as it entered. The explosion hurled him across the street and fractured his skull. He died three hours later in the county hospital.

Mechanic Is Burned.

Harold Pearson, 40 years old, a mechanic, who lived with Clogan, was burned by a sheet of flame. Evelyn Mikolojewski, 9 years old, 1808 West Grand avenue, who was playing in the street near by, was thrown to the ground and bruised by the blast.

Clogan and Pearson were also taken to the county hospital, where it was said their injuries probably would prove fatal.

The two story red brick garage was demolished by the blast. An old two story frame building east of the garage was set on fire, driving Mrs. Katie Ptaszek, 51 years old, and two children, Sigmund, 19 years old, and Bertha, 21 years old, into the street. Fireman Peter Mayer of truck company No. 19 was cut by glass.

Fire Threatens to Spread.

Mrs. McCorkle and her husband were driven from their home when the flames threatened to spread to a three story building west of the garage.

Damage to the garage and the building at 1800 West Grand avenue was estimated at $8,000. After an investigation, firemen and police announced that they believed the explosion resulted when the truck set off fumes that had collected in the garage from a seepage of gasoline.

HOTELS DIVIDED IN 8 CLASSES FOR PERSONALTY TAX

System Called First Fair Plan in Thirty Years.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Hotel Owners' association and County Assessor J. L. Jacobs completed a survey yesterday of the personal property of all of the loop hotels, after six weeks of work. The hotel men recommended a valuation of from $10 to $175 on each guest room, based upon equipment, furnishings and other factors. Mr. Jacobs tentatively accepted the proposal and ordered it applied to 57 down town hotels.

It is said to be the first time in 30 years that the personal property of the hotels has been on an equitable basis. While it increases the taxes of a considerable number, Mr. Jacobs said that the plan is acceptable to the hotel men because of its fairness between competing houses.

Hotels in Eight Classes.

For purposes of valuation the hotels are divided into eight classes. The first class is assessed on a personalty valuation of $175 for each room, second class $150, third $125, fourth $90, fifth $60, sixth $40, seventh $20 and eighth $10.

The following table lists hotels in the loop district, the number of rooms in each, the valuation per room and the total valuation, of which 37 per cent is taken to make the assessed valuation:

There are 22 other hotels on which a valuation of $10 per room is to be placed on the personal property of each. The hotels and number of rooms of each are as follows: Alpin, 100; Baltimore, 50; Best, 30; Central, 180; Century, 150; Clark-Lake, 36; Columbia, 28; Deming, 75; Egal, 120; Elk, 236; Elk, 235; Eureka, 250; Ewing, 250; Edward, 56; Howard, 75; Martin, 100; Rigi, 36; Keystone, 224; Meyers, 46; Moose, 160; Paris, 28, and Reed, 60.

1,900 Others in County.

Unless some flaw is found in the system, it will be applied to about 1,900 other hotels in the county.

There are still 260,000 persons and corporations which have not filed personal property tax schedules for 1931 assessments. The following table shows the number of blank schedules mailed out and the number and percentage returned properly filled out:

Assessor Jacobs said yesterday that he is closing his books as fast as possible. After a book is closed no further schedules for that territory are accepted.

Estimate Unreported Assets.

The office started last Monday estimating the value of personal property of persons, partnerships and corporations which have not filed a sworn statement of their property on April 1, 1931.

"Every effort is made to have an equitable assessment," said Mr. Jacobs, "one that will be fair to every one. I know that certain lawyers and a few racketeers are advising property owners not to file schedules. There will be an assessment placed against every person, firm and corporation which has received a schedule and failed to make a return. To our estimate of the value will be added a 50 per cent penalty. We will do everything possible to have a fair assessment."

ARTISTS' MODELS FORM UNION, THE FIRST OF ITS KIND

A union without a business agent, and one, its officers say, that will defy gangsters, has been chartered by the American Federation of Labor. It is a union of young women who wear pretty smiles and pretty clothes, the 1,000 artists' and fashion models of Chicago.

The local new union charter, No. 18,210, is the first of its kind granted by the federation. The union has headquarters in the Morrison hotel. Temporary officers, announced yesterday, are Dolly Beck, president; Martha Beneke, vice president; Bernice Argast, recording secretary, and Josephine Palmer, treasurer.

"We are organizing to insure standardized wages and reasonable working hours," said Miss Beck. "We are also going to protect the girls against irresponsible firms and such men as the one recently exposed, who lured girls to pose in the nude on the promise of a job and then peddled their pictures on the street."

"But we won't need any hoodlums to give us that protection," added Miss Argast.

While the Artists' and Models' union, as it is called, is primarily a girls' union, the sex line is not drawn and the young men who pose for the collar ads are free to join.

TRUSTEE ASSAILS BOGAN PROPOSAL FOR TUITION FEE

Opposition May Put Plan in Discard.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Bogan that charge of a $100 a year tuition be made at the Normal and Crane colleges met with so much opposition yesterday that it may be withdrawn.

The school board is authorized to operate a system of "free public schools," it was pointed out by Trustee James Hemingway, chairman of the finance committee. School attorneys have held that the board has no authority to make a charge for any educational service.

"I'll not vote to charge tuition at Crane Junior college," said Mr. Hemingway. "A charge would probably bar some of the brightest pupils from Crane."

Reason for Tuition Plan.

The proposal of Supt. Bogan to charge a tuition fee came as a result of a request from the trustees to make a $1,750,000 reduction in expenditures of the educational side of the schools.

The superintendent proposed that instead of closing these two schools pupils should pay a tuition to help meet the costs.

By this plan, the superintendent estimated, the income of the board from the Normal could be increased $27,500 for the remainder of the year and that from Crane $137,500. Mr. Bogan said yesterday that if no tuition is charged it may be necessary to shorten the school term to save the money.

Attorney W. W. O'Brien has offered to file a petition for an injunction to prohibit the board from charging a fee at Crane, in case the tuition plan should be adopted. A committee of Crane students announced yesterday they had obtained a statement from John J. Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, opposing the tuition proposal.

Attack Bogan Proposal.

The board of the Better Government association protested against the Crane tuition plan as follows in a resolution adopted yesterday:

"Many of the fathers of students are out of work and under present conditions it would be impossible for the students to earn money to pay tuition, and would therefore cause a large proportion, probably exceeding one-half of the students, to abandon their education at Crane Junior college and add to the present large number of unemployed young men."

FORCES URGING REVENUE LAW CHANGES UNITE

A decision to organize the forces urging improvement in Illinois' revenue laws was reached last night at a meeting called by Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the state and municipal finance committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Representatives of several statewide organizations attended and invitations to attend an organization meeting later will be sent out today by Mr. Brittain to other state groups.

"This was a preliminary meeting to initiate an organization which will include those who favor changes in the state revenue laws to reduce general property taxes and establish equitable distribution of the tax load," said Mr. Brittain.

Among those who attended last night's meeting were Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association; County Assessor Jacobs; Ray Wantz of the Illinois Manufacturers' association; Victor A. Olander of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and Dean Charles M. Thompson of the University of Illinois.

36 PROPERTIES WORTH $50,000,000 SUED FOR TAXES

Special County Attorney Edward M. Winston yesterday began suits to collect $1,686,000 in delinquent real estate taxes from 36 properties valued at more than $50,000,000. The suits, filed in the Superior court, asked that a receiver be appointed for each property to conserve income and pay up the delinquencies.

Among the properties is the 143 East Grand avenue building, owned by James E. Bistor, real estate dealer whose suit to prevent the collection of 1928 and 1929 taxes was recently reversed by the state Supreme court. The suit filed yesterday states that Bistor owes $70,089 in taxes for 1928, 1929 and 1930.

Other properties named in the suit are: The Chicago Riding club which owes $37,212; the Illinois Automobile club owing $43,485; Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee for the Michigan Square Building which owes $194,433; and the Era Building, Michigan avenue at Delaware place, on $49,665 taxes.

HOUSE CLERK DECIDES ON FINANCE BOARD LOAN PUBLICITY TODAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—South Trimble, clerk of the house, will decide tomorrow whether President Hoover's "no" or Speaker Garner's "yes" is to be the final answer to the question of whether the details of the lending operations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation are to be made public.

An immediate decision was forced upon Mr. Trimble today when the corporation filed its July loan report at his office in accordance with the "publicity" provision of the emergency relief bill. It was the first report to be submitted since congress passed the relief measure more than a month ago.

JULY SPENDING OF U. S. EXCEEDS AMOUNT IN 1931

Revenue Bill Begins to Have Effect.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Government expenditures during July were higher than for July of last year, according to the treasury balance sheet made public today. Total spendings for the first month of the last fiscal year, counting general, special, and trust funds, were 321 million dollars. During the corresponding period this year the amount expended was 351 million dollars.

Taking only funds expended by the executive departments and independent establishments, a reduction in expenditures is shown over last year. Disbursements for the adjusted service compensation is largely responsible for sending the total expenditures above the 1932 fiscal year mark for July.

Receipts Still Falling.

Receipts for July continued to drop as compared with the preceding year. A glance at the treasury figures for the first half of August discloses, however, that the new revenue bill is beginning to have an effect on the balance sheet.

During July total collections from income and miscellaneous taxes amounted to $59,000,000 compared with $74,000,000 for July, 1931. For the first fifteen days of August the treasury collected $33,000,000 compared to $29,000,000 for the corresponding period last year. This increase represents collections from miscellaneous taxes.

Decrease in One Group.

During the first month of the fiscal year the legislative establishment, the executive offices, the cabinet departments, the veterans administration, the shipping board, and other independent offices and commissions expended 200 million dollars. The same groups spent 249 million dollars last year during July. The veterans administration cost the government $67,000,000 compared to $64,000,000 last year.

The excess of expenditures for all purposes over receipts was 247 million dollars compared with 198 million dollars for last July.

HIGHLAND PARK YOUTH ARRESTED ON SPANISH ISLE

David Alan Munro, a Highland Park youth, was arrested yesterday with three other American colonists at Palma, Mallorca, in the Balearic islands, for not having registered his passport. He is a son of Mrs. Fayette Munro, whose husband was a prominent member of the Illinois legislature years ago. She is now en route to Palma.

The island authorities fined Munro and the three other colonists. Among the three was Sibyl Sutton Vane, a theatrical producer. Police admitted that the real reason for the arrests was that too many Americans were settling in the isles. Living costs are lower there and it is a matter of record that many British and Americans have gone to the islands recently.

Munro settled there a year ago and founded a small American paper. He and the others were taken into custody while attending the trial of Robert Macalnon, American writer, and Roland Hayes, British actor, who were found guilty of violating an ordinance prohibiting the boarding of Barcelona boats to bid farewell to friends.

Society Wants Statue of Garibaldi Moved

Members of the Garibaldi society of Chicago will appear before the Lincoln park commissioners this afternoon with a petition to change the location of Garibaldi's statue in the park. The statue now stands just east of the sidewalk along Clark street in the 1900 block and is partially hidden by shrubbery.

GROUP TO DIRECT FUNDS EXPENDED BY RELIEF BILL

Will Decide on Public Works Aided.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The question of whether the interested government departments are to be allowed to expend any of the 200 million dollar public works appropriation provided by the two billion dollar emergency relief bill is to be decided the latter part of the month by a committee composed of Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Budget Director J. Clawson Roup, and D. H. Sawyer, head of the federal employment federalization board.

These three men have been selected to make a study of the items appropriated and to recommend the expenditures. Up to date none of the 200 million dollars added to the relief bill by Democratic votes in both houses has been expended.

Division of Items.

The public works items include 30 million dollars for river and harbor work, 15½ million dollars for flood control, 100 million dollars for public buildings, $15,164,000 for construction at army posts, 10 million dollars for Boulder dam, 10 million dollars for work on navy yards, and a number of miscellaneous items.

Preliminary studies made by the treasury department indicate that the government will spend 14 million dollars of the 100 million dollar public building fund this year. It is expected that a portion of the river and harbors work will be allocated for immediate expenditure. All indications are that the committee will permit expenditure of the sums voted for Boulder dam and for army and navy yard and post construction.

Treasury Office to Decide.

At the time the emergency relief bill was passed it was agreed that the funds should be expended at the discretion of the treasury department. With the exception of highways and roads, no money was to be spent for construction projects except on a showing by the treasury that the amount needed was available or could be borrowed on reasonable terms.

The bill provided, however, that an additional sum of 122 million dollars set aside for road and trail construction should be expended without any treasury restrictions. Included in the army projects for which the treasury may authorize expenditures is Rockwell field at San Diego, Cal. A total of $576,000 can be expended there in erecting permanent improvements on north island, one of the sites over which the army and navy are still fighting.

$1,900,000 MORE TAX PAPER TO PAY TEACHERS

Tax warrants amounting to $1,900,000, which will become available for last year's salaries due to teachers, were signed yesterday afternoon by Charles Gilbert, school board secretary. The securities were taken to the Old City State Bank building at Randolph and Wells streets, where they are being distributed to applicants. Clerks reported that $297,000 worth of tax warrants was given to school employés during the day.

The warrants were a part of the $6,750,000 of 1931 warrants held in trust to secure scrip issued to teachers in lieu of salaries. Mayor Cermak's proxy had already been obtained for his signature on the warrants. The board of education now has enough warrants to pay out for all 1931 bills, including salaries, debts and the redemption of scrip.

The school board had committee meetings scheduled yesterday, but since Trustees James A. Hemingway and Ernst Buehler were the only ones who appeared, a quorum could not be obtained.

N. Y. ECONOMY PROGRAM COMES TO A DEAD STOP

Teachers Tell How to Save 113 Million in Taxes.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The economy program of this city is lagging. Virtually nothing is being done about cutting expenses despite the urgent demands of taxpayers.

The uncertainty surrounding Mayor Walker's fate at his hearing before Gov. Roosevelt has halted the work of shaping a budget, and the city's business, except for regular routine, is at a standstill.

Three months ago the taxpayers were promised an economy program entailing a sweeping reduction of last year's almost seven hundred million dollar budget. So far the only matter dealt with has been that of salaries, and the mayor's request that city employés voluntarily give up a month's pay has brought only protests.

Can Save 113 Millions.

Among the groups most antagonistic to the voluntary cut plan is that of the public school teachers. The teachers' committee to protect salaries has made a detailed study of the budget and has offered a plan whereby the city could save $113,479,164 without cutting the salaries of the rank and file of employés.

They list these possible savings:

"The approximately twenty-five million dollars loss in taxes on exempt properties, aside from churches, hospitals, and buildings devoted to charitable purposes, should be eliminated.

"There are 9,000 users of city water exempt from taxation. The city should collect $1,200,000 from them.

"It has been estimated that a million dollars is wasted on private automobiles for city officials.

"The city pays $300,586 rentals for polling places, although plenty of public buildings are available.

Waste by Millions.

"There is an estimated waste of five million dollars because of the failure of the city to make all municipal purchases through a central purchasing committee.

"More than fifteen million dollars could be saved by retiring employés past the compulsory retirement age.

"The excessive salaries of higher officials and office holders should be reduced ten million dollars or more.

"There is a three million dollar waste by the department of sanitation, which hires outside experts, although it has an expensive staff.

"The two million dollars to the board of water supply should be eliminated, as the board long ago completed its task of building the Catskill water supply system.

"And finally, a saving of more than fifty million dollars could be effected by refinancing the city debt of two billion dollars at one per cent lower interest."

SEIZED ON INDIAN CHIEF'S CHARGE OF EXTORTION

Samuel Miller, 35 years old, of 2403 West Roosevelt road, was arrested by police last night in a restaurant in the building where he lives on complaint of Chief Robert Redwing, 4108 Kenmore avenue, a Cherokee Indian and head of a California motion picture outfit.

The Indian is being sued for divorce on the west coast and Miller, he charged, threatened to "make trouble" for him at the hearing if he didn't pay him money. Miller, Chief Redwing alleged, first asked $500 and then reduced the demand to $75.

The chief arranged to telephone Miller at the restaurant last night. Detectives Joseph Lloyd and Thomas Gainer went there and when the Indian called and Miller answered, Miller was seized. Chief Redwing and his secretary, Miss Marie David, 20 years old, who also charged Miller with attempted extortion, signed complaints against him at the Town Hall station.

Speed Up Air Mail from Chicago to California

Faster air mail service between Chicago and southern California becomes effective today with the resumption of overnight air mail carriage between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City by Western Air Express. Mail leaving Chicago at 8:45 a. m. over United Air lines arrives in Los Angeles for the first morning delivery the next day, while other air mail departures for that city leave Chicago daily at 10:15 a. m., 4 p. m., 4:30 p. m., and 12:30 a. m. Eastbound, a later mailing is permitted in Los Angeles to give a one business day service.

REOPEN SHANNON HEARING MONDAY AT SOUTH BEND

Barge Lines to Be One of the Topics.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The Shannon congressional committee, investigating government competition with private business, will reopen its midwest hearing here Monday with Congressmen Shannon, Pettengill, and Rich in attendance.

Government operations of barge lines on the Mississippi since the war will bring half a dozen leading figures in the transportation and distribution field here for the session.

E. T. Bucklen, Boston, chairman of the board, New York, New Haven, and Hartford, and president of the railway credit corporation, will be here. Others expected include Warde Wire, Denver, Colo., manager Colorado Fuel & Iron Co.; Walter Kelley, Chicago, manager of Central Trade association; E. T. Ryan, Grand Island, Neb., chamber of commerce; J. D. Beehler, Evansville, general manager Mead Johnson Terminal corporation; John W. Stedelin, and L. H. Jones, of International Inland Transportation Protective association, Centralia, Ill.

B. E. Dwinnell, general solicitor Rock Island lines, will have charge of "presenting the case" against the government barge lines.

WHAT will 1933 Prices be?

It is an old adage that "coming events cast their shadows before." Today, rising commodity prices forecast higher price ranges, new price levels—less purchasing power for your dollar in the months to come.

Needless to say, rising commodity prices will affect hotel rentals. A few months from now, you will find yourself confronted with an advanced rate scale.

Now—mark you well!

Today's rate arrangement at Hotel Shoreland will carry you into 1933—at prices well below early 1932 levels—offering you values that will probably never be obtainable again.

Contrary to the general tendency to curtail service in order to meet price competition—here, at Hotel Shoreland there has been no compromise with the recognized high standards which have established and maintained Shoreland leadership.

Catering to Chicago's most distinguished clientele—with its cultured environment and social prestige—Hotel Shoreland presents the few available apartments for the consideration of a select prospective clientele—in the light of a value that people, who appreciate and do demand the finest of living, cannot afford to overlook.

The management cordially welcomes an opportunity of discussing your living problem with you!

2 million TIRE MILE TEST SHOWS

For less than the cost of two packs of cigarettes you can travel 1,000 carefree miles on an ALLSTATE COMPANION TIRE! Drive the highways from Chicago to Maine, Chicago to Florida or Chicago to Texas for only twenty-five cents per wheel. That's the saving Sears has created for you by consistently improving the quality of the ALLSTATE COMPANION TIRE, and consistently lowering its price!

This low mileage cost, which marks a new era in economical car operation, is a real one! It was demonstrated and clearly proved beyond any shadow of a doubt by Prof. Phil C. Huntly of Armour Institute of Technology in an exhaustive test involving the driving of two million tire miles. 251 makes and sizes of tires were put over the road and examined in an independent laboratory. The facts uncovered by this unbiased, truth-seeking examination revealed that:

SEARS ALLSTATE COMPANION TIRE WAS EQUAL TO OR BETTER IN QUALITY THAN ANY TIRE OF SIMILAR CONSTRUCTION AND 25% CHEAPER IN PRICE!

Now, when you buy tires you don't have to listen to the claims of salesmen—you have the truth! Buy ALLSTATE COMPANION TIRES and you'll get road-tested, time-tested quality that gives you 1,000 miles for twenty-five cents. Sears, Roebuck and Co. guarantees your savings. NEW ZEALANDERS BLAME ENGLISH FOR RED RIOTS

Takes Measures to Curb Growth of Movement.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, N. Z., July 27.—[By mail to avoid censor.]—New Zealand has decided finally that it was the communists who started the window smashing riots of last spring in Auckland and Wellington. It could not have been New Zealanders, it is declared. English immigrant communists, sent over here by the Australian section of the red party, are blamed.

No sound New Zealander, it is argued, would walk up in front of a well dressed woman and spit on the street in front of her. Yet that occurred twice about the time the riots occurred. No one born and raised here, it is declared, would heave a brick through a store window where sacred images and pictures were displayed and say "There's one for God's house." It was too much to believe.

Labor Charges Persecution.

And so, ever since last April the courts and police and government departments have been grinding out judgments and orders and legislation against this organization which went about talking about the right of free speech and then insulted the flag and the king and the church. They have gone so far that Labor, which is powerful politically, holding the opposition benches in parliament, has begun to feel that it is a working class persecution that is going on under the surface.

Labor itself is not red. It is hardly pink. But they do not like the looks of things and see their long cherished rights to work at a comfortable wage sacrificed in the interests of benevolent talking old gentlemen in the banks. The government should do more about it, they declare, for is not the government chief stockholder and on the board of directors of the Bank of New Zealand?

Turn to Radical Ideas.

The government and the courts have done a great deal in the past to fix and hold a high standard of living for the workers. More even distribution of wealth, adoption of humanitarian legislation, the common welfare rather than the free field to build fortunes, the golden land for the worker. That was the picture that drew many discontented Londoners here.

But they have remained discontented under all the recent troubles, and their attitude is spreading. It might be described as friendly to the communist idea, without much idea of what that is and with little chance of seeing it adopted in this land where there are dairy cows enough for one to each of the population, and fifteen sheep apiece, and half a pig.

Relief Roll Mounting.

Strikes on the part of those receiving work so that they may not starve is another bit of fuel to the social flame of today. It was probably a lot of these chaps, so the New Zealanders think, who were egged on by the communists to smash windows. But they repented. They stole no food, showing that they were not hungry, and much of the clothing and jewelry which they snatched from the windows was returned without ostentation.

The relief roll has been mounting, and as New Zealand will not give food or money without work, it has been something of a job to find work for these men to do. They have finally evolved outside camps for the men to work in forests and on country roads and bridges to get the young and more dangerous element out of the cities. The married men get work nearer home, fixing up parks and scratching dirt around roads. Little of this work is productive, and the cost is mounting so that it is a question whether the 100,000 jobless can be fed out of revenue or whether depleted capital must be touched.

Basic Wage Low.

The basic wage here is much lower than in Australia, and the New Zealand Worker, organ of labor, is friendly to the Lang movement there and seems sympathetic with communism. The relief workers have taken pains to deny that their union has any Red inclinations, but it is regarded with suspicion. The union of the public servants has been ordered to stay out of politics altogether and to permit no criticism of the government. Would you bite the hand that feeds you? they are asked.

There are no slums here and the hills are covered with neat little bungalows, even as Sydney and Melbourne. The coal miners of Huntly have as nice looking a village as one would find in a day's journey anywhere. It is no slovenly camp, such as is found in the West Virginia and Kentucky hills, with a half starved, ignorant people looking out of hopeless little windows. The coal miners here have been making $40 and $45 a week in good times.

The courts rather than their employers have fixed wages, but now that is passing and everywhere along the business line there is a stiffening of the rights of capital. The system of the last forty years has produced a more even distribution of wealth, but it appears to have reduced the sources of wealth. The field has been narrowed.

The problem of what to do with the youth of today and tomorrow is distressing many people. The young people regard it as a land of limited opportunity rather than one of golden promise as the political prospectus would have the world believe. The poor and hungry present themselves every day at the mission stations for food and help, despite all the enormous government advances to keep them from this plight.

"The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof," would seem particularly applicable to New Zealand, and the latest effort of the government is to get men back to the land, on ten acre lots, and work for farmers nearby at 50 cents a day. This, at least, will keep them from starving and the land owning element in the last resort is the stability of the dominion.

The government in finding $17,500,000 a year for relief of the unemployed has reached and perhaps passed the limits of taxation. It gets little thanks and many curses from those relieved. The attitude of the trouble makers against the government and particularly the hostility to the special citizen constables recruited in Wellington and Auckland is difficult for the magistrates to understand.

Propose Socialization Program.

Labor thinks that the government is failing to grapple with the problem at its source and suggests a program that sounds much like the socialization program of New South Wales labor. This distinct goal, however, was stricken from their platform several years ago and has never been officially reinstated. The labor leaders may prefer it, but the great bulk of workers, who own homes and do not attend union meetings, are not willing to support it and are counted as safe for the present order.

The present order, however, will not continu. High labor and social service costs, the increasing burden of government and relief, have broken New Zealand's financial back. Unless there is a substantial rise in the prices of primary products in overseas markets it is difficult to say how far the readjustment will reach. The problem of the increase and diversity and expense of local governments is giving concern. A recent survey by the department of economics of Canterbury college shows that there are 693 of these governments, one for every 2,130 of the population.

Local Governments Listed.

They are listed as follows:

County councils	125
Borough councils	121
Town boards [independent]	41
Town boards [dependent]	27
River boards	44
Land drainage boards	64
Urban drainage boards	3
Water supply boards	7
Fire boards	55
Local railway	1
Harbor boards	46
Electric power	44
Hospital boards	46
Tramway	1
Transport board	1
Gas lighting board	1
Rabbit boards	47

In addition there are 18 highway district councils. Overlapping, redundancy and waste are charged. Rates per head have grown from $10 in 1914 to nearly $25. Expenses have grown from $30,000,000 to $110,000,000 during the same period. The development of electric plants and railroads has been beyond needs and beyond capacity to pay.

Promise an Overhauling.

A commission has been promised for a thorough overhauling of the whole organization of government. A general review of the whole field of governmental action, both state and local, is called for, and the significant statement is made that "where services can best be provided by private enterprise, the community would be best off if so provided."

The New Zealanders have more respect for economic facts, are less of dream stuff, than the Australians, and they may be depended upon to get out of this morass. An indication of their character is shown at Hawkes bay, where an earthquake and fire destroyed much of the town of Napier a year ago. The hills moved like ocean waves and houses on the cliffs tumbled into the valley. Great cracks opened in the earth and the end of the world seemed at hand. Yet today Napier is well on the road to recovery and the sound of the busy hammers is heard over the land. The people have gone to work to build a more beautiful city than before. And it has been discovered that the quake has reclaimed eight thousand acres of land from the bottom of the bay, land that will one day feed a new city.

FLYER ACQUITTED

Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British flyer, who was acquitted of murder of Haden Clarke by jury at Miami, Fla.

[Acme Photo.]

JURORS ACQUIT LANCASTER OF CLARKE SLAYING

Crowd Cheers Triangle Tragedy Verdict.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, noted British flyer, was found not guilty by a Circuit court jury here today of murdering his friend, Haden Clarke, young writer who had replaced him in the affections of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix.

The jury reported to Judge Henry F. Atkinson after deliberating five hours, ending the fifteen day trial with its sensational testimony concerning the lives of the three principals. When the verdict, "We find Capt. William N. Lancaster not guilty," was read by the clerk, the spectators leaped to their feet and cheered, despite a previous warning from the court against demonstrations.

Lancaster was calm as the verdict, which he had predicted, was read. With a slight smile he walked to the jury box and addressed the twelve men who had set him free. "You have been patient throughout this trial. I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," he said.

Crowd Embraces Flyer.

An admiring throng of men and women then rushed to the defense table, struggling to embrace Lancaster. Deputy sheriffs had difficulty in clearing the courtroom.

"I'm delighted at the verdict. I knew Old Bill would come out all right," said Mrs. Keith-Miller, whose love for the aviator began on a London-Australia flight they made together in 1927.

Before the verdict was reached the jurors had filed into court, causing a flurry, only to announce that they wished further instructions on "reasonable doubt." It is incumbent upon the state to prove his guilt by adequate testimony, they were told.

Clarke was shot to death in the home of Mrs. Keith-Miller on the night of April 21, less than twelve hours after Lancaster, having heard the writer had won the affections of his former mistress, arrived from St. Louis. He was shot with the pistol Lancaster bought in St. Louis just before hurrying to Miami.

Called a "Beautiful Suicide."

In support of the defense contention that Clarke committed suicide, he was pictured as a morose young man who had discussed "going out in a big way" with several of his drinking companions. The testimony also showed that Clarke was addicted to narcotics, afflicted with disease, and was always in financial difficulties. It was an "honor suicide," according to the defense—"a beautiful act," in the words of Capt. Lancaster.

The state maintained that Lancaster killed Clarke in jealous retribution when he learned of the romance that had blossomed while he was away.

Mrs. Keith-Miller was on the witness stand two days, baring the most intimate details of her entangled love affairs. She became infatuated with Clarke, who was writing the story of her life, in March, she said.

ALIENS LEAVING U. S. THREE TIMES TOTAL ENTERING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The number of aliens leaving the United States permanently in the last fiscal year was nearly three times that of the new immigrants admitted for permanent residence, according to a statement issued today by Secretary Doak.

"During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932," the statement said, "only 35,576 permanent immigrants were admitted and 103,295 alien residents left the United States with the expressed intention of making their homes in other countries. In other words, alien emigration exceeded immigration by 67,719.

"In the preceding year 97,139 immigrants were admitted, as against 61,382 who departed permanently from the United States.

"This is the first year in the history of the country when the number of aliens permanently departing from the United States exceeded the arrivals."

BABY SCALDED; DIES.

Janet Crowe, 2 years old, 11312 Prairie avenue, died in her home yesterday of burns suffered on Monday when she fell into a pail of hot water while her mother was washing clothes.

SLAYS HIMSELF AFTER ROW OVER POPCORN STANDS

Rivalry between two popcorn venders resulted in the fatal shooting of one early this morning. He is Nick Glatsos, 50 years old, of 9141 Mackinaw avenue. He was found in the garage of his home suffering from a bullet wound in the left lung and was taken to the South Chicago hospital, where he died.

A gun, three cartridges discharged, was found beside him. Later Gust Pappas, 55, who lives at the same address, told police that he and Glatsos had quarreled over selling locations and that Glatsos early this morning had fired at him and then shot himself.

Girl Jumps Into Harbor to Beat Deportation; Rescued

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—While being transported by ferry tonight to Ellis Island for deportation to her native Cuba, Miss Marx Erice, 20, jumped overboard near the Statue of Liberty. She started to swim back to Manhattan, found herself being carried away in the strong current, and was rescued by the engineer of a passing tug.

INDIA CONDEMNS BRITISH PLAN ON REPRESENTATION

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

CALCUTTA, Aug. 17.—Just as the British government had expected, an unbroken chorus of condemnation was voiced by the Hindu nationalist press today of the plan announced last night by Prime Minister MacDonald for the allotment of seats to Hindus, Moslems, Sikhs, untouchables and others in future provincial legislatures of British India.

"The award is a gross injustice to Bengal and its Hindus," said the Advance. "If this penalty is to be paid by this province on account of the activities of a number of revolutionaires, then we say it is a thorough betrayal of sense and statesmanship.

"Communalist bullies have won the day. MacDonald has paid his reactionary supporters the price of his office. Churchill and his understudy at the India office have realized their dream and achieved their object. But the innings are not yet over."

The newspaper Liberty predicts that the awards will "create an uproar from one end of India to the other and in all probability throw the country into a vortex of communal passions."

Hawaii Private Discharged, Jailed for Criminal Attack

AMERICA'S LUXURY NAPKIN—the only napkin millions of particular women will use! Why offer it at this sensational reduction—at less than any other well-known brand?

To get you to try it! To let you see for yourself why Modess is favored! According to service, prices vary in different stores. But right now, you can get Modess for less than any other established brand. At 55% less than Modess cost last year! Right now, the most you should pay for Modess is twenty-five cents.

Modess is different. Even under closest-fitting frocks Modess can never be detected. Thank the filler for that! It isn't made of unyielding layers of paper. It's soft as down—never stiff—never bunchy.

Utterly comfortable too—because of this same unusual filler. And even the gauze is treated in a new way. No chafing, no "packing" with Modess.

Modess is more absorbent. And the back is moisture-resisting. Modess is deodorized. Disposable. And surgically safe. Modess is made by Johnson & Johnson, the world's largest makers of surgical dressings.

Stock up now—enjoy new comfort! Enjoy new economy.

LOOK AT THE PRICE!
Compare prices in any drug or department store. Now's the time to buy Modess—and save!

LOOK AT THE FILLER!
Notice the fluffy Modess filler. Just compare it with the others—in comfort—in the pliability that means so much in appearance.

TEST ABSORBENCY!
A bottle of ink poured on a Modess napkin will be absorbed. But it won't come through the moisture-defying back.

SPECIAL COMBINATION VALUE!

HITLER LAUNCHES NEW PLAN TO WIN GERMAN CONTROL

Invites Centrist Party to Form Alliance.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—Adolf Hitler's Fascist party today invited the Catholic Centrists to a joint discussion on the election of a premier in Prussia. The invitation emphasized that the Hitlerites "attach no importance to participation with the Nationalists. It would be better that discussion of the building of a Prussian cabinet be confined to the Hitlerites and Centrists."

The suggestion for such a conference originated last week from the Centrists. The Hitlerites at that time turned down the proposal, declaring that they "had no time to send representatives."

Hold Majority in Reichstag.

Since President von Hindenburg has blocked the "front entrance" to Hitlerite assumption of complete control of Germany with Hitler as chancellor of a Fascist cabinet, the Hitlerites now are seeking to gain admission by the side door through a parliamentary majority.

Political circles believe the Hitlerites will also endeavor to obtain cooperation of the Centrists in ruling the reich. The Hitlerites, with the Centrists and the latter's allies, the Bavarian People's party, hold a clear majority in the new reichstag.

Partisans of Chancellor von Papen are worried by these developments. They fear Von Hindenburg will abandon his determination to maintain a nonpartisan government if he is presented with the finished draft of a cabinet which has a majority of the reichstag behind it. The supporters of Von Papen no longer rely on the "strong man" of the present cabinet, War Minister Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, who is known to be prepared to support a Hitlerite-Centrist government.

New Wave of Terrorism.

The wave of terrorism which was dampened by government decree last week is smoldering again. At Landsberg a bomb was thrown at the residence of Judge Dr. Wilhelm Salinger. At the village of Gross-Gaglaw the newly erected but unoccupied house of a Jewish farm worker was wrecked by a bomb. The house of a communist in Rosenberg also was badly damaged by a bomb.

In Cologne Hitlerites opened fire on a group of civilians, among whom some one had shouted "Hail, Moscow." Police had difficulty in protecting eight arrested Hitlerites from the mob.

A police raid in Pinneberg, a communist district of Hamburg, revealed cellars which were linked together by an elaborate electric warning system of bells and lamps. Arms, ammunition, and explosives were seized.

Von Papen Defiant.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Chancellor von Papen has received assurances that Adolf Hitler will not use his storm troops to seize the German government, but in any event he will not hesitate to suppress any revolt by force of arms.

The chancellor made this assertion today in an interview in which he vigorously reiterated Germany's demand for equality in armaments with other nations, declaring that the fatherland no longer could submit to being treated as a second class nation. The chancellor appeared serenely confident that his government would stay in power.

Asked whether he expected to be chancellor next Christmas, he said: "We shall be in office for a long time."

"As matters stand," the chancellor said, "the German people now again are united more closely than ever behind their supreme leader, the field marshal (Von Hindenburg), and are full of confidence in his wise leadership."

Frans Bracht, federal commissioner, today ordered the appointment of financial controllers for about forty cities in Prussia whose budget deficits run from 2,000,000 to 36,000,000 marks. The appointment, it was explained, was to insure proper transfer to the state treasury of taxes collected by the cities for the state.

"Behavior Experiment" Novelist Dies

Mrs. Margery Latimer Toomer, novelist, who died Tuesday, and her husband, Jean Toomer, novelist and psychologist.

Soviet Sends 2 Freight Bandits to Firing Squad

CHELIAVINSK, U. S. S. R., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The first sentences of death under a new decree providing the extreme penalty for persons who steal goods in shipment on the railroads were meted out today to Semenov and Girdin, leaders of a bandit gang of ten members. They must die before a firing squad, and they have no hope of having their sentences commuted.

NOVELIST DIES AS HER FIRST CHILD IS BORN

Margery Latimer Author of Several Books.

A romance that began last year with "an experiment in human behavior," ended on Tuesday night with the death of Margery Latimer Toomer, wife of Jean Toomer, novelist and psychologist. She had given birth to a daughter in their apartment at 69 East Division street.

Margery Latimer, a descendant of Anne Bradstreet, early New England poet, and John Cotton, noted New England divine, was a young novelist of some note. Three of her books—"We Are Incredible," "Nellie Bloom and Other Stories," and "This Is My Body"—had been published, and a fourth, "The Guardian Angel and Other Stories" is soon to appear.

Married in Portage, Wis.

Miss Latimer was married to Toomer at Portage, Wis., the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Latimer, after a psychological experiment conducted by Toomer. Under his direction a group of men and women of diverse training and interest lived together in a three room cottage, the men sleeping in one room and the women in another. Out of this association developed the friendship that resulted in their marriage, which was a social event in Portage.

Friends of the family said that Mrs. Toomer did not wish to go to a hospital for her confinement, having a fear of hospitals. Friends said the cause of death was hemorrhage, complicated by a weak heart. The baby was strong and Mrs. Toomer was said to have expressed great happiness over its birth before she died.

Great-Grandson of Governor.

Mrs. Toomer attended Wooster college, Columbia university and the University of Wisconsin. Toomer, a great-grandson of Pinckney Benton Stewart Pinchbeck, governor of Louisiana in the carpet bag days, attended the College of the City of New York and the University of Wisconsin.

KIDNAP TRUCK DRIVER.

Four highwaymen yesterday kidnaped George Mueller, a driver for S. W. Koenicke & Sons, tobacco distributors in Blue Island, and robbed him of his truck, which was loaded with $1,500 worth of merchandise.

TEACHER ACCUSED OF SLAYING WIFE RESIGNS HIS JOB

Robinson, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Protesting innocence of any crime but admitting his being held for the grand jury charged with the murder of his teacher wife made it impossible for him to remain a teacher in the local high school, Hubert C. Moor presented his resignation as agriculture teacher to the board of education here today. He is in jail at Marshall.

The resignation said in part:

"You know that I have been held for murder of Mrs. Moore. However unjust this appears to me it is not theory but actual fact and I am sensible of the condition with which you are confronted.

"School will soon start. A teacher of the caliber which would meet your approval for my department may not easily be procured.

"Therefore upon mature reflection, realizing I am held in jail and it may be some time before I am admitted to bail, and, although I proclaim my innocence to the world, and although I am absolutely innocent of the charge against me, I deem it the wiser course for me to resign my position in the best interest of the school."

Defense attorneys stated here today that no arrangements were under way at present for their client's immediate release.

MACHADO OPENS INVESTIGATION OF DOCTORS' STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 17.—A senatorial subcommittee today began study of the National Medical federation's demands, which were issued when 10,000 physicians, members of the federation, went on strike yesterday. A decision must be reached within 72 hours—by Friday. This condition was granted the federation by President Machado in return for calling off the strike today.

The federation insists that clinic hospitals, which are operated by Spanish regional associations, must drop all citizen members who have incomes exceeding $100 a month. The regional association directors counter that health should not be measured by wealth or ability to pay higher fees to private doctors.

President Machado accepted chairmanship of the investigating and arbitration commission and appointed his two brothers, Carlos and Enrique, and Clemente Vasquez Bello, president of the senate, as members. They will be assisted by Secretary of Interior Octavio Zubizarreta and Secretary of Sanitation Carlos de Cespedes.

ONCE WASHDAY SPOILED HER FUN — by C.A. Voight

I'D LOVE TO COME TONIGHT, BARBARA, BUT I KNOW I'LL BE TOO TIRED TO MOVE. WHATEVER MADE YOU PICK WASHDAY NIGHT FOR YOUR PARTY
YOU OLD-FASHIONED THING! WOMEN DON'T LET WASHDAY SPOIL THEIR FUN ANYMORE. SEND RIGHT OUT AND GET YOURSELF A BOX OF RINSO
OH YES—THAT'S THE HARD WATER SOAP MY SISTER'S BEEN RAVING ABOUT. SHE SAYS IT'S GREAT FOR DISHES AND SO EASY ON HANDS
TRY RINSO IN YOUR WASH-TUB IF YOU WANT TO SEE SOMETHING REALLY WONDERFUL! IT FLOATS THE DIRT RIGHT OUT—ALL YOU DO IS RINSE. YOU'LL COME TO MY PARTY FRESH AS A DAISY!
THAT EVENING
WELL, HOW DID YOU ENJOY YOUR SCRUBLESS WASHDAY?
BARBARA, I'M THRILLED. I DIDN'T SCRUB OR BOIL—YET I HUNG OUT THE WHITEST WASH EVER. RINSO IS GRAND

"One box did 3 weeks' washing," says Mrs. O. N. Horne of Canton, Ohio

"I'M convinced that Rinso is the best all-around soap on the market. It does such satisfactory work and it's so economical. I'm convinced that it pays to get the big box, too. With the last big box I got I did 3 weeks' washing including:

3 doilies, 1 bedspread, 8 face cloths, 10 pillow cases, 6 sheets, 2 table-cloths, 11 towels, 12 dish towels, 30 handkerchiefs, 23 children's dresses, 2 rag rugs, 11 children's suits, 30 pairs children's stockings, 10 pieces children's underwear, 5 children's nightclothes, 4 house-dresses, 4 nightgowns, 6 aprons, 5 pairs socks, 7 pieces underwear, 3 nightclothes, 19 shirts

A little Rinso gives a lot of thick suds, even in hardest water. So easy on the hands and so safe for the clothes. Wonderful suds for dishwashing, too—and for all cleaning. Get the BIG box today.

CRIME AND FALSE HUMANITARIANISM.

The system of probation for convicted criminals is an attempt to avoid the rigidity of fixed penalties and to allow for repentance and the will to reform. It is an effort to make the punishment fit the criminal as well as the crime, to assist in the salvage of human character by rewarding reform. In its ideal aims probation is commendable both from the standpoint of humanitarianism and from that of social expediency. Every normal, well disposed individual would like to recognize repentance and a sincere will in the wrongdoer to live a better life, and it is generally agreed that if a well judged relaxation of penalties preserves and encourages what is good in the offender it is to the profit of the community that this salvage should be accomplished. Modern penal science is much impressed with the possibilities of this human salvage and no one would wish that intelligent study and experiment to this end should be given up.

But in practice probation has developed some very serious weaknesses and faults which are in great danger of destroying the credit of probation and which its supporters should be the first to recognize and try to correct.

The chief of these weaknesses is not the perverted sentimentalism which ignores the seamy side of human character and the nature of criminal types. This sentimentalism is conspicuous in American people, a part of our indelible optimism and indiscriminate democratic good nature. But its importance so far as probation is concerned is not so much in itself as in its exploitation to conceal ulterior motives which cannot bear the light.

In its present stage professional crime is highly organized and, largely because of the opportunity for profitable lawbreaking offered by prohibition, it is better supplied with the means of widespread corruption than ever in the past. It reaches into all agencies of law enforcement, purchasing directly or indirectly the influence of politics and therefore the operations of the police and the courts. For the concealment of this process camouflage is necessary, and the pretense of humanitarianism is the most effective and inexpensive form of concealment. The youth of criminals guilty of the most atrocious crimes is constantly pleaded. Sex offers another greatly abused plea for lenience. Lack of family restraint, education, and environment is constantly presented to condone the worst crimes and excuse the most unpromising criminals. Shrewd and unscrupulous counsel rely largely upon these aids to defeat justice and real considerations of the public safety and welfare. They are the safest and most plausible disguise for the unfaithful administrator of the law, whether judge, probation board, or governor.

This evil has increased in extent until it has seriously discredited probation. But even more serious is its effect upon the defense of our communities from professional criminality. An intolerable proportion of serious crimes is committed by persistent offenders who are at large under probation or parole provisions of the law. This is not to be accounted for principally, we are convinced, on grounds of innocent mistake, of faulty discretion, on the part of judges and probation agencies, although this must always be taken into account. There is a far more sinister factor in the abuse of the system, and that is corrupt politics. There is no more impressive evidence of the alliance between profitable criminality and politics than in this field of the law's inadequacy.

The eventual cure is in alert and determined citizenship, in the development of a saner attitude toward crime and its stern punishment, and this must begin with resistance to the false sentiment and perverted humanitarianism which is constantly being used to hide corruption and protect criminality. But meanwhile it seems clear that our existing laws and administration of probation and parole are in urgent need of reconsideration. The community needs protection from the present system.

"THE PURPOSE OF PROHIBITION."

In the comment on Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance that of the Rev. Clarence True Wilson has been given less attention, we think, than it deserves. The reverend doctor, in a statement issued to the Associated Press, holds that the President's remarks upon prohibition disclose a "fundamental and irreparable" error in the "assumption that the purpose of prohibition is to get rid of the saloon."

It is an assumption which THE TRIBUNE has never made, as we have been at pains to explain often. We believe also that it is a fundamental if not irreparable error to assume that the purpose of prohibition, as conceived by the reverend doctor and other protagonists of the Cause, is to get rid of the liquor traffic. The purpose is to impose teetotalism upon the individual by force of government.

When the Anti-Saloon league was organized the purpose of its founders was, indeed, to get rid of the saloon. In time the movement consciously broadened so that its objective was the liquor traffic. But this was not sufficient for the prohibitionist bosses who have dictated the dry laws and their administration since the adoption of the 18th amendment. If it had been we should not have had the excesses of legislation and enforcement which have finally discredited the experiment and raised a national revolt against its continuance. The mainspring of the prohibition régime is the bigot's will to dominate. The prohibition régime does not represent a rational effort to find a way to suppress the acknowledged evils of saloon or dramshop or of the commercial traffic in alcoholic beverages. It is an attempt to use the power of government, and especially of federal government, to force upon every individual dwelling in the United States complete abstention from any alcoholic beverage as a rule of personal morality.

This is the "fundamental and irreparable" error of prohibition. Prohibition is repudiated because it is not what it purports to be, either an effort to get rid of the saloon, which it has signally failed to do, or an effort to get rid of the liquor traffic, which also it has failed to do. It is an effort to impose by force a code of conduct, a sectarian or pseudo-religious code at that, upon all Americans, regardless of their right of free conscience and private conduct.

That is why prohibition must go and is going; why, in fact, it never arrived.

THE TAMING OF MR. GARNER.

Mr. Garner visiting Gov. Roosevelt and other Democratic folk in the east has it in mind to turn away wrath. It is a dehorning exhibition. He quiets the money sense by assuring its possessors that he does not intend to take property away from any one. He has a little himself and he would think it unkind of any one to want to take it away from him. He knows eastern people and has been in accord with them for thirty years. He can team up with the eastern man. He apologized for the defection of Texas four years ago and said he had no hand in it.

Mr. Garner, it appears, is a quiet and moderate man, conservative and biddable. You may observe him going down the street in his modest gray suit. He has looked at the sky to see if clouds threaten. If they do he has gone back for his rubbers and his umbrella. He passes the time of day and there is solid character in his port, an unassuming, dependable citizen.

Reports that he is of a different temperament may be seen to be unfounded. They are palpably unattachable to this little gray man, who does not raise his voice in any conversation. Fire eating? Absurd. He's as sound as a dollar and as prudent. He avoids violent discussion and violent opinions. He is a pillar of society and in fact has been suspected of a touch of the reactionary.

If the Republicans set out to catch a range riding bucko in him they'll find a vestryman. If they bill him as a wild radical they'll find a small town banker full of ideas of property rights and sound investments.

If the Democrats do not want to offend the candidate for Vice President they'll have to tone down and tame the whole campaign. Mr. Garner will not strike a note which could be heard in the next block. He's the taxpayers' friend, shunning the company of the wild jackasses. He rebukes the loose of speech. He avoids all revolutionaries and radicals. He can smoke a cigar with any citizen of large affairs. The east can see that misleading accounts have been given of him. Mr. Garner is so ordered in his ways and thoughts and speech that he makes Charlie Curtis a ball of fire. Codlin's the name, not Short.

PARASITIC POLITICS.

Although Mayor Walker has the star rôle in the tragi-comedy of New York politics now exposed to the public eye and nose, the general plot of the drama should not be overlooked by the citizenry. The play is not "What Happened to Jimmy." It is "What Happens to New York." It is true the mayor is a symbol, an unusual picturesque expression of that gay irresponsibility with which the people of a great city turns its huge affairs over to unseen processes and trades its billions of hard earned taxes for a song or two. But back of these headlines of sartorial magnificence the real play goes on in the hands of less conspicuous but more powerful members of the cast. What happens to Jimmy is only important if it is followed by something of consequence happening to the system of graft, waste, and misgovernment of which he is only a gaudy detail.

New York, it takes no Cassandra to prophesy, is in for some very bad hours. It has been preparing for itself a disaster which it has shown little sign of comprehending and it will not escape it, if it can escape it at all, save by a drastic political surgery. Jimmy may walk out or be put out of the scene, but the whole picture must be changed if New York is to be saved from bankruptcy.

The records of the Hofstadter inquiry are only a partial exposure of Tammany government, but they are a lesson in the possibilities of organized plunder in a complacent democracy. The outlines of the picture are given in a summary of the hearings by a writer in the New York Times. They show "officials being summoned to a private political headquarters, there to receive orders to vote for measures in which political leaders were financially interested; private practitioners appearing before city boards and splitting fees with men able to control the decisions of those boards; city officials voting franchises and contracts for value received.

"Also police officials collecting money from speakeasies and even organizing the liquor traffic on their own accord; members of the city government going into business and forcing citizens to patronize them by the use of their official power and influence; exemptions from the law being bought and sold like merchandise; protected gambling being carried on by gangsters in political clubs; an emergency fund intended to relieve unemployment being diverted in part to political purposes; official after official growing suddenly and mysteriously rich on 'gifts' and investments not satisfactorily accounted for, and at least two men, wanted as witnesses, mysteriously and completely disappearing."

Are these inevitable fruits of democratic government? That is the question at the heart of the New York exposure. The revelations of the New York inquiry are not peculiar to that city. Details differ in various communities, but the basic operations of parasitic politics are the same. They operate in different forms at different times and places, but both in cities and in the country they represent processes at work in what we optimistically call self-government. They represent a vast bleeding of the body politic, which in prosperous times is not felt, although it is preparing disaster not only by its material waste but by a demoralization of government and people which unfits them to meet the day of accounting.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

PAN IN JACKSON PARK.

The crowd disported on the beach
Or loitered in the shade,
And picnic lunches strewed the grass
Where bare-limbed children played.

But who was he, that rough clad one—
Unshaved—with aspect rude?
He sprawled at ease upon the grass
And munched his beggar's food.

A bundle, rolled and tied with care,
Told of the open road.
His laughing eye proclaimed that peace
And joy with him abode.

A flutelike whistle caught my ear—
Trills, runs, and ballads old,
With strains of operatic aire,
And bird calls, clear and bold.

Then forty winks the stranger took
Before he strolled away,
And no one in that gay crowd knew
I had seen Pan today.

OLD DOC YAK.

AT THE EXMOOR JAMBOREE a chap not of our foursome, but participating in our postprandial cube-rolling contest, made his unannounced disappearance about 11 o'clock. Naturally his host was concerned, but finally decided the guest wished to beat it while the beating was good rather than listen to the protestations which greet any intended departure at the "School Days" and "Sweet Adeline" stage of the program. Nevertheless, after a short visit to Oliver Hogue's villa off the first green, the host left word at the clubhouse to be notified if his guest, for any reason, should return. So we all went home.

Later we learned the host was aroused from heavy sleep about 4 o'clock by his wife, who announced crisply, and it seemed to him with something akin to sarcasm: "The caretaker at the club just phoned, 'We found your guest. He is sitting on the first tee enjoying the moonlight. Will you please come and remove him so he won't be in the way of the early morning round members?'" And that's all of that.

ECONOMIZING ON HEALTH.

A GENTLEMAN writes me that he cannot afford medical service because of hard times. He suffered recently from a severe emergency condition that may have arisen because the family was economizing on medical services. He was summoned home from the theater and he got there as quickly as he could drive in his speedy car.

Of course, everything in life is relative and much depends on the point of view. In this case the results proved that for the members of this family medical service was more important than going to the theater or driving a fast car. It is probable that until the outcome these people felt that it was best to keep up their morale by going to the theater and operating a car, even though they had to take some health risks in order to do so. Doubtless there are many thousands who have the same viewpoint.

When the Russian soviet organization took over the government of that country they wrote entertainment high on the list of necessities, well above some of the things which most persons regard as essential. The reports from Russia in later years are that the theaters are no longer classed with bread and meat. It may be that after fifteen years the people are more nearly normal and have sufficient stability and character to face life as it is.

It may be that no reason is given. It is safe to predict that, whether it be a nation, a family, or an individual, in the long run it will be found best to rate the theater and the ownership and operation of a car below medical service. In the last analysis, a man makes his own frame of mind. At best, what he gets in a theater diverts, entertains, or causes him to forget his worries for but a brief time.

The ultimate solution of one's problems depends on the development of a philosophy and the maintenance of an attitude. For these the man concerned is responsible and outside influences are no more than contributory. No one with a knowledge of facts would claim that all medical service ranks in the class of necessities. There is much of it that is luxury.

These times call for clearer, straighter thinking and a better weighing of values than was customary in the wild days.

CANKERS OF THE MOUTH.

Mrs. H. L. writes: 1. My husband had been troubled with cankers in the mouth for 26 years. Is this serious? 2. What is the cause and the cure?

REPLY.

1. It is unpleasant and annoying, but not otherwise serious.
2. His diet and eating habits need to be changed materially. No other treatment is needed.

TRAINING IS NEEDED.

R. A. writes: I am 20 years old. During the last half year I have been extremely nervous. I argue awfully with my mother, but I know I should not. I say things and cry as though something really awful had happened, and it hurts me deeply after it is all over. I do not want to be this way and I certainly do not want to aggravate my mother. I know better, and yet I cannot control myself.

REPLY.

Your emotions are untrained and you go on emotional drunks. You need training in emotional control. That is 90 per cent of your problem. Outside help may supply the remaining ten.

ICE AS A PURIFIER.

J. W. P. writes: 1. If the water of a lake is unsafe for drinking will freezing in winter so purify it that the ice is safe to use in drinking water? 2. Are there any lawful restrictions on sale or use of natural ice?

REPLY.

1. Freezing destroys most of the bacteria in water within a few hours. The remainder die off slowly. As a rule, ice that has been stored one month is safe. That stored five months can be depended on unless the original water was exceedingly foul.
2. Health authorities have standards for natural ice. These usually include sanitation of waters that are to be frozen, and of the shore wash, sanitation of ice storage, and laboratory standards of the product. Ice is rarely a source of infection.

CAUSE OF SNORING.

C. S. writes: How can I overcome snoring? I usually sleep flat on my back, without a pillow.

REPLY.

Try sleeping in other positions. That may be the only treatment needed. When one sleeps on the back gravity pulls down the lower jaw and opens the mouth. Breathing is divided between the nose and the mouth. Two way breathing causes snoring.

PROTEST FEE.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I had an account at a national bank which recently closed. I drew a check on this bank for $30 and twenty days later one of the larger banks called me on the phone and demanded payment which I could not make due to the closing of the first named bank. The bank protested this check, charging $3.12 as protest fee. Did they have a legal right to protest this check, adding $3.12 more to my loss? C. B. W.

Yes, but protest is not necessary where all of the parties live in the same jurisdiction. The negotiable instruments law requires protest only in the case of foreign bills of exchange, and a check is one species of bill of exchange.

MORTGAGE INTEREST.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise whether or not a mortgage holder can re-collect interest that has been paid to a closed bank. The bank made the mortgage and for three years has collected all interest. 2. All notes are made payable to said bank. R. M. D.

1. In general, if the interest is paid to a person other than the holder of the interest coupons the payment is made at the risk of the person so paying.
2. Usual wording is "at." This would mean that if you tendered the money at the proper time and place it would cut off subsequent interests, but it would not authorize a payment "to" the bank unless the notes were in the bank's possession.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Chicago.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How soon after a divorce can one marry in Chicago? 2. (a) Is a copy of the divorce paper legal? (b) Where does the original copy go? 3. Also, does one use their marriage name when obtaining another marriage license, if the divorce papers do not state that her maiden name be returned? J. H.

1. No delay is required under present Illinois law.
2. (a) Yes. (b) The original decree is signed by the judge and becomes a part of the court files.
3. Yes, unless there is some other name by which she is much better known.

PROBABLY GUARDIAN ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Twenty years ago my brother was fatally injured in an accident and in a suit against the street car company my mother, father and myself were awarded equal sums of money. However, my share was obtainable only after I had reached the age of 21. 1. What department of the city would have any information on this subject? 2. Would the money most likely be placed with [a] a trust company, [b] a guardian, city, or whom? 3. Would it be possible to find a record of the suit and where? 4. What would be the best course to follow? A. B.

1. It seems probable that your share was deposited in a guardian estate. We suggest that you examine the records in the office of the clerk of the Probate court.
2. [a] It might be a trust company or an individual; [b] yes.
3 and 4. See No. 1.

LEGALLY BOUND.

Chicago.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Father and son-in-law sign a lease for one year. Now son-in-law is out of work and can't pay his share of rent. 2. Can I be held responsible? 3. For all or part? J. M.

1. We assume that you are one of the two signers of the lease. If so, you would be legally bound.
2. Yes.
3. See preceding answers.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE RENEWAL.

Chicago.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise me if the party that holds the first mortgage on a building has to renew the mortgage if the interest has just been paid? 2. Can the party foreclose? G. N. S.

1. No, he does not have to.
2. If the principal is overdue, then the holder is entitled to foreclose unless he has made a valid agreement to the contrary.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WORKING HOURS.

Chicago.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there an eight hour law governing the working of women? 2. Can factory owners be made to abide by it? J. B. S.

1. No.
2. See 1. There is a ten hour law applicable in specified employments. It is enforced by the state factory inspector, Transportation building, Chicago.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUG. 18, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation-wide railway strike situation tonight is admittedly serious. President Wilson today indorsed the eight hour demand of the brotherhoods and will ask the railroad presidents tomorrow to accept the proposed compromise in order to avert a general strike. The presidents of the seventeen principal railway systems were summoned by Mr. Wilson to confer with him tomorrow. Some of them reached here during the afternoon and evening, and after a meeting which lasted until nearly midnight it was declared they showed every disposition to stand by their managers, who up to the present have refused to accede either to the unions' demands or to Mr. Wilson's proposition. In the event the railroad chiefs refuse to accept the compromise as suggested by the President, Mr. Wilson may call into conference J. P. Morgan and other financiers, who really control the destinies of the railways. If the financial leaders cannot be made to see the situation in the light President Wilson views it, he probably will call on congress to cooperate in a final effort to avert a tieup.

LONDON.—Following up the advantage gained by them yesterday, the British today added 100 more yards of German trenches to those already gained since the Somme drive began. The new advance was made northwest of Bazentin. In addition to advancing in this sector, Gen. Haig's forces repelled six determined German counter attacks northwest of Pozieres. The official report declares the Germans lost heavily.

PETROGRAD.—The Russian advance is still being held up in the face of counter attacks. These assaults, the war office reported, have been repulsed.

BERLIN.—The Russians are attacking fiercely in eastern Galicia in an attempt to overcome the resistance of the Austro-German forces in the region of Zalocze. They have been repulsed completely, the war office announced.

VIENNA.—Massed Russian attacks against the lines of Gen. von Boehm-Ermoli, between Peraslinska and Pisniki, were repulsed by the Austrians, according to an official statement.

CHICAGO.—Eighty known cases of infantile paralysis have been received at the Cook county and Durand hospitals in Chicago since July 1. Sixty-one patients were quarantined in two big wings of the county hospital last night. Seven more were at Durand. An average of three patients a day is being received at the county hospital and the procession is increasing rather than diminishing. Emergency preparations are being made to receive a much greater number.

NEW YORK.—Two British submarines with a submarine depot ship and a British cruiser chased the submarine merchantman Deutschland after it passed the Virginia capes on its return to Germany, according to information received here from a source considered reliable. The submarines, it is believed, were built on this side of the Atlantic and assembled at Halifax. Whether the British vessels got near enough to fire at the U-boat has not been learned.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A bond issue of $130,000,000 to meet extraordinary government expenditures due to the Mexican situation was unexpectedly recommended to congress tonight by majority members of the senate finance committee, with the concurrence of the treasury department.

PROHIBITION IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—By the portion of his notification speech relating to prohibition Mr. Hoover [although he may not realize it] has achieved just one thing and that is to take the prohibition question out of the campaign so far as the Republican and Democratic parties are concerned.

The Republican plank, as interpreted by Mr. Hoover, is to all intents and purposes identical with the Democratic plank as interpreted by Mr. Roosevelt. Both contemplate that a change shall be made whereby each state shall be given the power to deal with the liquor question as it sees fit. One advocates achieving this by amendment, the other by repeal. Each promises, in substance, to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and each promises to prevent the return of the saloon.

It is true the Hoover idea is that these protections shall be in the federal constitution itself, whereas the Roosevelt idea is apparently that these matters will be taken care of by federal legislation. If it were possible to let each state do what it wished and still protect against saloons or their equivalent, or protect dry states against importations from wet states, it might be said that the Hoover idea had a slight advantage from the standpoint of the drys over the Democratic idea because the safeguards, being in the constitution under the Hoover plan, would be more permanent. Unfortunately, however, every one that gives the matter honest thought must know in his heart that it is an absolute impossibility to devise any constitutional provision or law which would keep Indiana dry if Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky and Ohio, or any of them, were wet. A very earnest attempt might be made, but to "absolutely guarantee" or anything like "absolutely guarantee" that liquor would be kept out of Indiana would be about three or four times as impossible as it would be to guarantee, under the present system, that liquor would be kept from coming across the Canadian border into one of our states. Equal difficulty would be involved in attempting to prevent saloons in any of the states, for, although by refusing to issue licenses legal saloons could probably be prevented, drinking places would abound, either legal or illegal, and whether you called them saloons or speakeasies they would smell just as sweet.

Mr. Hoover's talk about "absolute guarantees to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system," and Mr. Roosevelt's talk about the Democrats "rightly and morally enabling the states to protect themselves against importation of intoxicating liquors where such importation may violate their state laws" and "we must rightly and morally prevent the return of the saloon," mean exactly nothing, unless of course both intend to convey the impression that they don't advocate any change in the present system unless these results can be guaranteed. If they mean the latter, both might just as well have saved their breath and pencils and paper, for if a change has to wait until those results can be guaranteed the 18th amendment will, under both plans, remain unchanged and a part of our constitution forever, as it should and probably will remain.

CAN ANY READER ANSWER THIS?

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Will you help us settle a bet by telling us through what mechanism man power can be most effectively delivered in an eight hour day? Is it by a treadmill, by pedals, as on a bicycle, or in pulling an oar? T. B. C. R. L. S.

THE COMMUNISTIC TOUCH.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Your correspondent, Mr. Gluckman, says: "Do not blame capitalism for the evils that result from the crippling of capitalism by communistic devices."

If Mr. Gluckman only knew it, it is just the other way around. For instead of capitalism being crippled by communistic devices, it is the only possible way it could survive, and I challenge him or any one else to show me any different.

There is much said about reward for individual effort, which is supposed to be the corner stone of capitalistic society. But if a survey is made it will disclose the startling fact that this is pure bunk, for it will be found that those who enjoy the greatest prosperity under the system have done so by sinking their individuality into the bosom of some master association, pool, syndicate, union or other cooperative organization, which are nothing if not miniature forms of socialism or communism working on the theory that an injury to one is an injury to all.

Moreover, the people who are the most antagonistic to socialism would yell their heads off if tomorrow the government would announce their intention of placing the army and navy—the greatest of all communistic organizations—on the basis of individualism. For they know that such an army or navy would be next to nothing as such.

Of course, it would be too consistent to say that, if an organization of men perfected in the art of slaying people worked well, an organization of men perfected in the art of production for human needs would work just as well. JACK GILBERT.

GOLFING IN THE PARK.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—I wonder how many of the Lincoln park golfers using the new course have suffered the self-appointed "Emily Post of the greens," who drives up in a chow-equipped open car? On Thursday evening I had a most disagreeable experience with this militaristic matron who proceeded to give me, a seasoned player, unsolicited instructions in golf etiquette and in the game itself. This obstreperous amazon, who must have thought herself a female Bobby Jones, wasn't even squelched after making some very inferior drives herself.

I have before encountered these pedantic pests. My sympathy is with the timid souls unable to cope with these bombastic dames with the airs of a queen and the gentility of a street urchin.

How are we to exterminate these persons who are not too elegant to play on the city's free courses, but who find their fellow players painfully lacking in the graces of golf?

WEST PARK TENNIS COURTS.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Nothing more clearly shows the relative efficiency of the south park commissioners and the west park commissioners than the conditions of the tennis courts in these jurisdictions. In the south parks the courts are in such good condition that even a champion will find no fault with them. On the other hand, the courts in Douglas park are in such condition that even a beginner would not recognize them as tennis courts if they were not lined twice a week. MORRIS SELMAN.

COUSIN EVE IN BERLIN.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—I just had to write this letter to you after reading that charming and entertaining article by Cousin Eve in today's issue of THE TRIBUNE, "Berlin, City of Magnificence." The article covered the ground in a manner never before accomplished in any other newspaper in all my years of reading and traveling. GEORGE SCHULTZ.

GOV. ROOSEVELT PLANS AMBITIOUS SPEAKING TOUR

Tentative Itinerary Is Revealed; Here Sept. 30.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his bid for the presidency of the United States, will make the widest swing through the country of any Democratic candidate since 1920.

A tentative itinerary of the Democratic nominee's tour was revealed here tonight and it has him parading, by special train, through the great corn and wheat lands of the middle west, across the Rockies and across the whole reach of the Pacific coast, from Spokane to San Diego.

Gov. Roosevelt will beat back through the southwest, through the cow country, and then jaunt northwards to the industrial midwest, Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit. He plans to be back in New York on Oct. 3, the scheduled opening date of the Democratic state convention at Buffalo.

Tentative Schedule.

The Democratic leaders, but particularly the governor himself, are in a mood to concede no territory to President Hoover, and the campaign trip is patterned after this determination to make an earnest battle for votes.

The tentative schedule revealed here tonight, with some dates subject to change, is:

Topeka, Kas.—Sept. 14.
Denver, Colo.—Sept. 15.
Cheyenne, Wo.—Brief stop, Sept. 16.
Salt Lake City—Overnight, Sept. 17.
Butte, Mont.—Sept. 19.
Seattle, Wash.—Sept. 20.
Portland, Ore.—Sept. 21.
San Francisco—Overnight, Sept. 22-23.
Los Angeles—Overnight, Sept. 24-25.
San Diego—Side trip by auto, Sept. 25.
Greensway ranch, Williams, Ariz.—Sept. 26.
Albuquerque, N. M.—Sept. 27.
Sioux City, Ia.—Sept. 29.
Milwaukee, Wis.—Sept. 30.
Chicago—Overnight, Sept. 30-Oct. 1.
Detroit—Oct. 2.
Buffalo—Oct. 3.

The governor's special train will carry a few close advisers and one or two members of his family. Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state and close friend of the governor, is to be one of his aids.

To Cover Main Issues.

It is expected that Mr. Roosevelt will choose topics for each of the major addresses he will deliver on the trip which are of particular interest to the citizens of the city in which he speaks. In this way, by the time he returns to New York he will have covered most of the principal issues before the nation.

After his return to Buffalo, where the governor's high hopes call for the nomination of his friend, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, for governor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt expects to make short jaunts into the southland, particularly into the border states of Tennessee and Kentucky, and into New England.

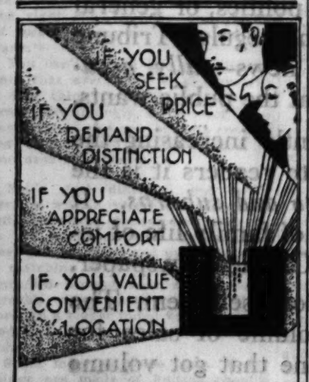
Speaks at Columbus Saturday.

The first major speech of his campaign will be delivered by the governor Saturday afternoon at Columbus, O., before a gathering of Ohio Democrats in the Stadium there. The governor will make a few stops on the way, perhaps greeting people from the observation platform on the train. It is a flying trip, for the governor's party will arrive at Columbus a couple of hours before the time he is stated to speak, and will leave almost immediately afterward.

Gov. Roosevelt was visited today by a trio of Illinois Democratic leaders who came to assure him of a great victory in the Sucker state. The leaders are William Donovan, chairman of the Democratic state committee; Patrick A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county committee, and Judge Harry M. Fisher.

46 Arraigned in U. S. Court; 31 Sentenced

Forty-six defendants were arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward on charges of counterfeiting and violation of the prohibition law, the Dyer act, and the anti-narcotic law. Fifteen pleaded not guilty. The rest pleaded guilty and were sentenced to terms varying from six months to ten years. William P. Morrison, a former employé of the veterans' bureau at the Edward Hines hospital, and Harry N. Northam were sentenced to six and five years, respectively, for forging and altering government checks. John Augaitis was sentenced to ten years for counterfeiting and Stanley Rakiachos was sentenced to six months for passing counterfeit money.



You will find at The Park Lane every attribute of a distinguished and desirable hotel-home. A smart, refined environment—a beautiful park and lake location . . . and rentals that are decidedly attractive. Smartly furnished apartments—one to six rooms. An excellent dining room. Your visit will receive our cordial welcome.

WOOD WRITES GARNER; ASKS HIM QUESTIONS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The following letter was sent from Indiana by Representative Will R. Wood [Rep.], to Speaker Garner, Democratic candidate for vice president:

"Dear Jack: I see by the papers that you replied to a question of David Wilson, Democratic state chairman of Connecticut, as follows:

"'I have always done what I thought best for my country, never varying unless I was advised that two-thirds of the Democrats were for a bill and then I voted for it.'

"Now Jack, the folks out my way want to know if this means you are for the good of the county except when you vote as a Democrat or do you mean that you put your party ahead of the country, or are you simply trying to explain why you went haywire during the last session of congress and if so, where does that leave the Democrats?

"Yours truly,
"WILL R. WOOD."

"P. S. Everybody is curious to know if you apologized to Al yesterday for ducking out on him when he tried to get you on the phone that time when you made the deal for the vice presidency.

Mercury at 91, but It's Paris' Hottest in Years

PARIS, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Paris experienced the hottest day in many years today as the thermometer recorded a temperature of 91.5 degrees Fahrenheit. At Marseilles the temperature was 97.

300,000 Members

Leaders of the railroad brotherhoods of Illinois yesterday proclaimed their indorsement of Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for governor.

At a luncheon at the Palmer house, said to have been attended by representatives of organizations whose memberships total 300,000, arrangements were made for a campaign unit that will enter actively into the November battles. E. O. Dugan of the trainmen of the Chicago and North Western was elected temporary chairman, and will call a large meeting in the near future.

Among other brotherhood spokesmen present were J. G. Luhrsen, Dan Helt, John McGuire, Charles Pierce, J. J. Kelly, E. F. Carter, W. F. McPhee, H. J. Schlacks, J. A. McLoone, P. H. Crosby, M. Walters, Harry Rose, T. H. Flaherty, and W. W. McKirchey.

County Clerk Sweitzer spoke in behalf of Judge Horner, who is traveling downstate.

Murphysboro Is Policeless and All Movies Are Closed

Murphysboro, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Murphysboro is without police and movies. It has been movieless for two weeks due to a controversy between the owners of the theater buildings and the operators of the shows. It has been policeless since yesterday when the officers turned in their stars to Mayor I. E. Ellis, after a cut in salaries had been ordered by the council but opposed by the mayor. It was announced today the movies would be open Saturday, but when the police will be put back on could not be learned.

SEEK LAWYER'S CRIME CONTACTS AFTER HIS KILLING

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Authorities looked tonight to underworld contacts of J. Earl Smith for clews to the mysterious slaying of the 34 year old Tulsa lawyer, found shot to death after participating in the defense of Harvey Bailey, identified as the leader of the largest bank robbery on record.

Bailey, named as the leader of the $2,000,000 holdup of the Lincoln, Neb., National Bank and Trust company two years ago, was convicted for a bank robbery at Fort Scott, Kas., and sentenced to serve 10 to 50 years.

Smith's body, battered and shot, was found beside his motor car on a lonely road near here. A telephone message apparently lured the attorney away from home last night. Telling his wife and two children he would be gone 20 minutes, he drove away at 8:30 o'clock. He was not seen alive again.

Bailey had denied he was involved in the bank holdups, asserting he was engaged in running liquor from Chicago to Oklahoma. He admitted he had arranged a hiding place for Fred Burke, killer and bank robber, on the Missouri farm where Burke was captured. Burke is serving a life sentence in Michigan for killing a policeman.

JOUETT SHOUSE NAMED TO LEAD REPEAL BATTLE

Succeeds Henry Curran in Washington Post.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Announcement that Jouett Shouse, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, had been chosen president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment in place of Henry H. Curran was made today through publication of a letter written by Pierre S. du Pont, chairman, to the members of the association's executive committee.

The selection of a man who has been so active politically and has been so ardent a supporter of former Gov. Al Smith touched off a train of speculation here in Washington. The move was being interpreted in some quarters as an indication that the strength of this powerful wet organization would be thrown behind the Democratic ticket.

Work with Both Parties.

Mr. du Pont's letter while referring to Mr. Shouse's Democratic allegiance claimed for him "a quality of understanding and sympathy that appreciates the position of those of opposite opinion." He asserted that the association would work with both parties and that support would be given to senatorial and congressional candidates, Democratic and Republican alike, who favor outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Another interpretation put on the announcement was that Mr. Shouse's acceptance of the association's presidency was proof that he would take no active part in the Roosevelt campaign and that it indicated a definite break between the two.

Change in Attitude Cited.

In his letter Mr. du Pont cited the change in the public attitude toward prohibition which culminated in the action of the two conventions in Chicago. He praised the work of Maj. Curran and his assistants in having aided in bringing this changed public sentiment about.

"Today a somewhat different character of work confronts us," he continued. "The executive committee of the association recognizes that active steps toward organization will be required in a number of the states in order to bring promptly the ratification of the new amendment which congress will submit.

"It is not the desire of our group to take a dogmatic stand which would serve to eliminate valuable support. On the contrary, every effort will be exerted to try to draw together all of those who feel that the 18th amendment does not belong in the constitution and that the only wise solution for the vexed liquor problem is to return control to the states without attempting such restrictions."

ELECTION'S WON; WHY TALK ABOUT THAT?—GARNER

Speaker at Capital in Confident Mood.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Speaker "Jack" Garner, Democracy's vice presidential candidate, back in Washington following his recent conference with Gov. Roosevelt, his presidential running mate, and other party leaders in New York, was alert to prophesy a Democratic victory.

"If the election were held today we'd win by a plurality of from 6 to 10 millions, and I'm as sure of that as that I'm sitting in this chair," he asserted. He was silent on political plans.

"I'm only the errand boy," he said. "I just do what they tell me. Besides, we've got the election won; why talk about past history?"

Mr. Garner showed a burst of indignation when some one asked about the night of the all night session of the Democratic convention, when Al Smith tried to reach Garner by telephone and failed to get through to him.

Didn't Avoid Smith Phone.

The speaker recalled his rule of speaking to no one after 6 o'clock. Gov. Roosevelt had tried to reach him, so had McAdoo; both had received the same answer, he explained.

"It was not because it was Gov. Smith," declared Mr. Garner, his eyebrows bristling. "Gov. Smith is a very nice man. I always enjoy him and have an affection for him."

Again there was evidence of tension when questioners asked about Mr. Garner's running for two offices at once. He is a candidate for reëlection to his present seat as representative from Texas' Fifteenth district, as well as candidate for the vice presidency.

"And I'm going to be elected to both offices," he replied, "and I don't apologize for running for both of them, either. It'll only take me thirty minutes to switch from one to the other."

For Goldsborough Bill.

What would the Democratic program be? Did Mr. Garner intend to carry over the principle of the Goldsborough bill to stabilize the dollar and inflate currency that was passed by the house under his leadership?

The speaker thought he would. The bonus and the use of troops to evict the bonus marchers he sidestepped.

He hoped and "believed" Al Smith would be active in the campaign, but left it to Mr. Smith to announce his plans. As for his own plans—again he was "subject to the orders of the Democratic managers." He would start speaking "at the latest date possible."

"So far as I could tell," he said, "I convinced them up in New York that I wasn't a wild radical. Look here, this country had Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson, and it didn't go to the dogs. That talk's all poppycock. We're going to take care of the people's rights and property, individually and collectively."

The speaker will spend the night in Washington and plans to leave tomorrow by plane to return to his Uvalde, Tex., home.

ROOSEVELT MEN ASSUME DEBTS OF THEIR PARTY

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt people have agreed to assume responsibility for the 1928 campaign debt and arrangements have been made to take care of the note for $300,000 signed by John J. Raskob, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and William F. Kenny and held by the County Trust company.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman and Gov. Roosevelt's campaign manager, following a long conference with Mr. Raskob at the Empire State building, today issued a statement.

"Arrangements have been made with the holders of our obligations covering their liquidation which are evidently satisfactory to all concerned."

Mr. Farley was accompanied on his visit by Frank Walker, Democratic national treasurer; Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman of the executive committee of the finance committee, and Robert Jackson, secretary of the national committee and head of the Roosevelt speakers' bureau.

On another floor of the same building, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith remained silent concerning his future relations with the Roosevelt group, and it was said at his office that he did not plan to issue a statement at this time.

EMMERSON CONFINED TO BED AFTER ATTACK OF ACUTE INDIGESTION

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Following an attack of acute indigestion, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has been confined to bed, it was announced at the executive mansion today. The attack occurred Monday afternoon. The governor's physicians have advised him to rest for several days. All appointments scheduled for this week have been canceled.

Note: Circulations are averages for six months' periods ended March 31, and for city and suburban only.

YOU DON'T GET VOLUME WITHOUT IT!

NO salesman who skimps on calls gets volume. You don't get business without asking for it. And you don't get volume if you don't ask enough prospects.

There are 1,157,677 families in Chicago and suburbs. This market is no more of a push-over than any other big one. Newspapers which only skirt the edge of buying power and don't carry enough interest to sell themselves, don't get these millions excited. IT TAKES COVERAGE TO GET ACTION. Only one Chicago newspaper has it.

Fifty-five per cent of the families in Chicago and suburbs read the Tribune. 36 per cent more than read any other Chicago newspaper! Duplication considered, the Tribune reaches practically as many families in Chicago and suburbs as any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

In 1917, fifteen years ago, when the sweeping changes in American ideas and habits began, the Tribune had 36 per cent coverage and was third in volume of daily city and suburban circulation.

Today it is first—with a gain of 53 per cent in density of coverage. Meanwhile, every other Chicago daily newspaper lost its standing in the community, merged or went out of business.

Before a newspaper can sell goods for an advertiser it ought to be able to sell itself. It hasn't done that when it goes back while the population in its own community increases by 409,541 families—55 per cent.

When a newspaper trims, ignores the needs and interests of its community, cuts down on news, the public soon catches on.

The Tribune doesn't starve its news columns. It has not slashed its news service. It continues to send its trained reporters with the Sox and Cubs when they play out of town games. It continues to maintain the best staff of correspondents in every foreign country of importance to readers. It continues to cover every major event in the fields of finance, politics, or general news with specialists who are on the regular Tribune pay roll. It continues to print the news—fully, accurately and interestingly written—that the public wants.

Because the Tribune is constantly increasing the quality and quantity of its service to readers it is the most popular newspaper in Chicago and suburbs. It reaches more people in every level of family life of interest to advertisers than any other Chicago newspaper.

If you don't reach people, you don't sell them. The Chicago newspaper which gets volume of sales for advertisers in this market is the one that got volume of circulation for itself.

Ask about the new Tribune rates which enable advertisers to buy more space to get more sales in this market.

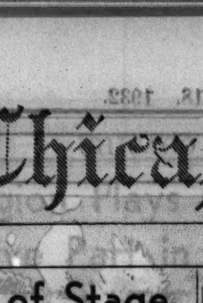
Tale of Stage in Colonies Is Interesting One

"Charming Sally" Work of Maud Lovelace.

"The Charming Sally," by Maud Hart Lovelace. [Day.] Published today.

"Husbands and Lovers," by Leslie J. Swabacker. [Vanguard.] Published today.

MAUD HART LOVELACE has a list of charming, fresh tales to her credit among which are "Petticoat Court," "Early Candlelight," and "The Black Angels." "The Charming Sally" will further endear her to her readers.



MAUD LOVELACE.

"The Charming Sally" is the name of a square rigged two-master that is sailing from London to the colonies. On board the small ship are a traveling troupe of actors and a young merchant, Joel Ridgway, a friend from Philadelphia. Meg Palmer, a Drury Lane favorite, is coming to the colonies in the hope of beginning a new life for herself and her unborn child. She is a young, bright haired elf of a girl who has been seduced by a man of power in England.

Joel to whom the whole business of acting is a sin finds himself strangely drawn to the group of sincere and happy go lucky actors on board. He falls madly in love with young Meg but is denied the chance to speak of it because of his beloved's curious restraints regarding a secret which she won't impart to him. They separate at the harbor, Meg going to Williamsburg, in Virginia, and Joel to his Philadelphia home.

The Hallam troupe [which is a historical one—they landed in Yorktown in 1752] receive an ovation in Virginia. Many sidelights are thrown upon the culture of the south in these early years before the revolution, upon its worldliness, its graciousness and charm. Virginian planters at that time aped the manners of the English gentry and so the theater as an art was assiduously cultivated.

The troupe after their success in the south move hopefully on toward New England. But failure pursues them. Even New York gives them a cold shoulder. They try Newport, Providence, Boston. In some cases they are forbidden to perform, in others audiences are simply absent. In Charles Town, W. Va., where they go once again, success greets them.

In this tour of the coast the reader receives an impression of an early civilization with all its sectional differences, the difference that become startling a century later. Besides the data of customs, habits, traditions and the purely external marks of differing cultures, the author paints a vivid picture of the struggle that artists of the theater had to get a foothold in the young America.

The love story running through the book is conventional but fresh and mildly exciting. The lovers are kept apart in the orthodox manner, through misunderstandings, distances and petty quarrels, until the last few pages which bring the expected but not unsatisfying climax. "A Charming Sally" won't be remembered long but the hours spent in reading it pass quickly and are filled with a gentle charm.

"Husbands and Lovers," by Leslie J. Swabacker, is a frankly disagreeable book. The jacket blurb states "... all the characters in this novel would be improved by extermination" and the reader will probably be in hearty agreement. Leonore is married to Thirsk Bayganet, who for some twenty odd years of married life, has been pursuing one woman after another. Leonore is forced into various infidelities for which she has no inclination. But finally Baldwin Diss a rich man with a bald head and gold teeth and a penchant for writing and quoting very bad poetry, comes along and her heart takes disturbing leaps and bounds.

Leonore's children are brought up in the most modern manner. There is nothing that their parents refuse to talk about before them and in general around the dinner table. Despite their hard boiled upbringing they have more real sense than their parents ever have had or ever will have. The daughter decides to get married and by this decision Leonore is deprived of her chance to marry Baldwin. Baldwin's wife, Moomoo, is a repellent bit of humanity who does nothing but munch chocolate and read movie magazines, but clings on to "Baldy" like a leech. Thus the novel ends with the same futility with which it began.

The style is harassed. The modified stream of consciousness method which the author adopts is a signal failure and the passages which are supposed to reveal the epigrammatic wit of Thirsk are too often moldy jokes dressed up in new but garish and ineffective clothes. The novel is disagreeable, indeed, but it is not the sort of disagreeableness that carries either power or distinction. M. D.

Select Four More Candidates for Title of "Miss Michigan"

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Four more local girls were selected here tonight in the beauty contest which will be ultimately determined at Detroit on Sept. 8 for the title of "Miss Michigan."

The four are Viola Ruth Speese, 18 years old, a blonde; Mary King, 20, a brunette; Delain De Mack, 18, a blonde, and Ethel Stanard, 19, a brunette.

Spends Summer in Winnetka

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

This attractive picture of Mrs. N. Landon Hoyt Jr. was taken at one of the flower shows on the north shore. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt are spending the summer in Winnetka except for occasional short trips. They returned recently from a visit with the Fred Simpsons at Pine Lake, Wis., and they will spend Labor day with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ketcham at their camp in the Land o' Lakes region.

Chicagoans in Santa Barbara Enjoy Old Spanish Days Fiesta

Junior League Carnival Opens a Gay and Colorful Season in Pacific Coast City.

BY JUDITH CASS.

READING about the plans that have been made for the Old Spanish Days Fiesta that is to be held today, tomorrow and Saturday in Santa Barbara makes me wish that the summer colony in that attractive Pacific coast city were larger by at least one more.

Last night the Junior league gave a carnival at the Fox Arlington theater that started the festivities and that must have been a jolly party. Dinner was served to 300 in the paseo of the theater, after which a picture was shown with dancing later.

Carnival booths and flower and cigaret vendors added to the gayety of the occasion, and all accounts indicated that the party was gay and colorful.

The John J. Mitchells, who are at their residence, El Mirador, on Cold Spring road in Santa Barbara for the summer, were among those entertaining guests at the dinner and carnival. The Mitchells are having the largest party of all at the fiesta dinner dance to be given tonight at El Paseo de la Guerra, a famous little open air restaurant in the heart of the city, their guests to number 32. They will be seated at one long table on the balcony adjoining the Mitchell offices in the Paseo.

Spanish costumes will be worn tonight and there will be a program of Mexican and Spanish music and dances on a platform built in the center of the patio over the fountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who are summering at their Montecito residence, and Farwell Winston, who is in Santa Barbara with his step-father, Robert G. McGann, will be among the other Chicagoans having guests at tonight's party, the Meekers' party numbering 12 and Mr. Winston's being smaller. Mr. Winston, by the way, is expected home early next week, but the Meekers and the Mitchells will be in the west until autumn.

Plans for a children's swimming carnival at the Onwentsia seem to have dissolved. There was some talk of having a youngster's aquatic exhibition similar to the Winter club's annual summer party, but the club board has evidently decided against it.

Luncheons to Precede Benefit.

Mrs. Joseph C. Belden and Mrs. Willard Boyden will be among those having luncheons before the card party that is to be given tomorrow afternoon for the benefit of the Chicago Lying-In hospital at the residence of Mrs. Robert J. Thorne in Lake Forest. There will be about thirty tables at the party.

Mrs. Robert Stocking and her infant son are expected to return to Hubbard Woods this week from a fortnight's visit with Mrs. Stocking's grandmother, Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon of Glencoe, at her summer estate near Ludington, Mich. They will spend a few days with Mrs. Stocking's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, at Fenbrook, the family home, where the former Emily Fentress was married a few years ago, before starting east to join Mr. Stocking at their summer residence at Lake Placid, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell were expected to return this week from a round of visits in the east, but they're prolonging their holiday and won't be back until the latter part of next week.

George W. Lytton is expected to return today from a ten day fishing trip in northern Wisconsin. Mrs. Lyiton and their daughter, Rosemary, are still out in Beverly Hills, Cal., and probably won't return to Chicago before early October.

Little Carlo Benello, the 5 year old son of Mrs. Thaddeus Zazulinski [the former Katherine Lytton Benello] is with his grandmother and his aunt, Mr. Zazulinski, who came to Chicago a few years ago as Polish vice consul, was transferred to Washington, after his marriage last spring, to serve as secretary to the Polish embassy. He has since been recalled to Poland, and he and his wife are in France now for a vacation before he takes up his duties in Warsaw.

Mrs. Besly Sails from France.

Mrs. Charles H. Besly of Hinsdale sailed yesterday from France on the President Adams and will arrive at home about the 28th of this month. She has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Tours, and her husband and little son, Gregory, on the island of Malta, where Lieut. Tours, who is in the British navy, is stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barnes Farwell of New Haven, Conn., are visiting Mrs. Farwell's sister, Mrs. Donald T. Brock, in Winnetka. They are to be here about two weeks and the Brocks and their friends are giving a series of little parties for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Rene Traveletti gave a dinner for them last night at their Winnetka residence and tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Brock will give a tea for her sister. The Ernest H. Hicks will be hosts at a dinner next Tuesday evening at the Indian Hill club, and Mrs. George P. Nichols of Kenilworth will have a dinner on Wednesday evening.

Jolly Times at White Mountains.

The White mountains summer colonists seem to be having a jolly summer, even in these dull "dog days," and a letter received yesterday from Bretton woods brought news of a subscription supper dance to be given tonight at Mrs. John R. Winterbotham's little playhouse in Sugar Hill for the benefit of the Littleton hospital and Dow academy at Franconia.

Mrs. Winterbotham's daughter, Mrs. Ernest Poole, will be there, also Mr. Poole, Miss Betty Poole, "Nicky" Poole, and William P. Poole, and Miss Emily Glessner who is going from Littleton to Sugar Hill for the party.

Miss Poole is to be a model in a fashion show to be given Saturday at Le Pont d'Avignon, a little tea house on the brink of the Gale river at Franconia, reached by a fascinating foot bridge, which gives the place its name. Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Poor of Lake Forest were visitors at the Mount Washington recently.

Much missed from the Waumbek colony in the White mountains this summer are the Calvin Kings of Chicago and their family, who for many years have gone there. The Mark Skinner Willings also are missing this year as they have not opened Wyndybrae this season, preferring to remain at their Virginia estate all summer.

Frank Barbour of Chicago is at the Mount Washington for his annual summer visit. He will be among those viewing the sun's total eclipse on the 31st as Bretton woods is in the eclipse's direct path.

Dancer and Husband on Trip.

Berta Ochsner and her husband, Dr. Douglas Gordon Campbell, who returned just a short time ago from a fishing trip in Canada, left town again last Saturday for a holiday abroad. They drove to Quebec, where they were to meet Miss Marian Van Tuyl, who is to accompany them to Europe. Their itinerary includes Austria, Germany, France, and England.

Miss Van Tuyl, who teaches dancing at the University of Chicago, is to appear with Miss Ochsner in a joint recital next December.

Mrs. E. Hatheway Turnbull of Greenwich, Conn., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. Carroll Kennedy of 50 West Schiller street. Mrs. Turnbull was president of the Connecticut branch of the League of American Pen Women for four years and is well known as a lecturer.

The Pine Lake Yacht club won both races yesterday morning at the Inland Lakes regatta at Lake Geneva, Robert Friend in the Mistral winning first in the class E race for the Pine Lake Yacht club trophy and R. Mack Lynch in the Frisky being the winner in the class C race for the Black Point trophy. The P. A. Valentine cup in the class A race in the afternoon was won by Tom Irvine of Whitebear Lake in Blue Devil.

Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne gave a large luncheon yesterday for some of the wives of the visiting yachtsmen at the Lake Geneva Country club and last night H. N. Gifford entertained a dinner at the Delavan Lake Country club preceding the club's dance for the sailors. Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair is having a small dinner party tonight to celebrate Mr. Blair's birthday, and Commodore Schmidt is having the commodore's dinner for captains and owners of yachts, officials of the I. L. Y. A. and member clubs at the Big Foot Country club preceding the annual meeting of the Inland Lakes Yachting association.

Paris Sponsors Woolen Organdie Afternoon Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — During the last days of the Paris social season, even in fine weather, many of the most fashionable women appeared in afternoon frocks of chiffon-thin woolen frocks. One Paquin dress created a sensation, for it was made of woolen organdy, a new material with the crisp delicacy of real organdy, and just as light and summery.

This dress of woolen organdy is shown in our sketch today, and it is worthy of attention for its cut as well as its material. It is grege in color and the blouse has short sleeves with bias bands of the material twisted on top and sewed on in place of cuffs. The bodice is draped to the center front under a tab of the material.

The belt is of woolen organdy, with a buckle made of two silver half moons.

The skirt is a plain, fitted skirt to the knees, where a knife plaited ruffle begins. The ruffle is neatly pressed so that it doesn't flare, and the line of the silhouette from the waist down looks narrow. This is important because the Paris dressmakers do not like the skirt that flares obviously, though they do like a skirt to be comfortably wide at the bottom.

With this dress a shawl of matching woolen organdy is worn, and this shawl has a plaited ruffle around its outside edge.

Clever Women Use Special Powders Under Electric Light

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Goodness, but aren't the powder compacts the elegant things these days!

I love those grand big pancake ones with mirrors in them large enough to see a good sized face. My attention was arrested t'other day by the ires chic young lady at the next table withdrawing from her gorgeous white handbag a white enamel compact trimmed with silver metal. If women are going to make up in public they jes' ought to do it as swanky as that!

Then, there are the very smart black ones and the cardinals, jades and blues. It's in things like these we wimmin ought to rejoice we weren't born males. Let 'em have their superior airs—but give us all of these ridiculously feminine foiderols, says I.

Just think of all the other fun we gals wouldn't have if we were born to wear derbies! No washing out large, fluffy powder puffs! No trying out rejuvenating creams! No saving for an ounce of Mimosa! No tucking sachets in lingerie drawers.

But speaking of powders and compacts—do you use the same powder at night as during the day?

"Shure," sez you, "and lucky to have the day powder box, these hard times."

"And that's right," sez I. "But did you ever try an evening powder? A shade recommended to make you much more beautiful under electric lights?"

When you get around to it, try one. You'll be surprised that a little powder change could do that for you. You see, the powders that look well in the daytime don't always duplicate their allure at night. You may need a lighter shade for evening; or maybe a darker.

Silver haired women, platinum blonde particularly, and some red heads, introduce a fascinating touch with a lavender tinted powder, evenings. And an evening powdering trick on a darkish skinned neck is to use a lighter powder there than on the face.

Winchester, N. H., Unveils Tablet to General Wood

Winchester, N. H., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Winchester tonight observed its 200th anniversary and honored the memory of its famous son, the late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood. A tablet, outlining the high lights in the career of Gen. Wood, who was born at Winchester, Oct. 9, 1860, was unveiled. It was erected on a business block, which long since had supplanted the home in which the general was born.

Holds Stage Taste of Today Is Better Than in Early Days

The old timers who hold that the theatrical tastes of their generation were more cultured than those of the modern generation are considerably wrong, according to Napier Wilt, assistant professor of English at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Wilt spoke at the social sciences research building last night. After mentioning that Chicago received its first theater in 1837, and that from 1847 on Chicago became the greatest theatrical center of the west, Mr. Wilt discussed the taste of the past and present.

"Shakespearean plays were the thing in the '50s," said the professor, "but not the only thing. In those days a house ran two shows a night. Shakespeare came first. Then, after attending Shakespeare, your true theatergoer went to see something like the 'Ocean's Child.' Much of the theaters which packed houses in those days wouldn't get into the movies today. To say that 'those were the days' when people's tastes were better is wrong. Why, a good trained dog act drew better than some Shakespearean plays."

New Fall Hats a Cure for All Kinds of Blues

BY RHEA SEEGER.

"AWAY back when" your feminine ancestors took their hats seriously . . . when it took a box as big as a trunk to get it home and flocks of rustling tissue to hold it securely in that box . . . when a hat was a wide plateau filled with a complicated assortment of foliage and doo-dads . . . millinery minded minxes simply couldn't have the fun they have now.

Now-a-days you do anything but take your hats seriously . . . it's impossible to slap a trim little number, no wider than six inches, atop your properly curled coiffure and saunter down the boulevard with anything more weighty on your mind than the last appreciative glance of an appraising male.

You can't wear one of Agnes' new coq-feather turbans and plod glumly down the avenue fretting over a recalcitrant mate . . . you wear the wicked thing and walk on air, with all kinds of wild plans for his recaptured interest.

These coq-feather creations are not the calm uninspired affairs of other seasons . . . this fall you'll see them as planned by a genius, each glinting iridescent feather skillfully swathed, one above and beside the other all around the head and then twirled and coaxed upturned and upwards to a dashing peak high above the right eye, exposing quite a bit of forehead as well as bangs and curls.

You can't be sad and drearily certain that everything is gloomy with a tiny thin broadcloth cap-hat that drags bewitchingly down over your ear because of a row of cloth covered big buttons held by real honest to goodness buttonholes.

You'll feel different, but never serious with a velvet hat, decorated with a cockade, plastered immediately in the center of your forehead, and very distinguished and even gay with a matching scarf collar that stands unruffled around your neckline and streaks down across your chest through a bigger fluted velvet cockade and ends at your waistline in two pointed ends.

Some more of these gay heady things are made of knitted chenille with three rows of fringe descending over the right side. Others of velvet audaciously split right across your top to expose the waves and tint of your coiffure . . . others openly court a lot of local chic and sniffles with appliqued velvet leaves superimposed on a thin net or chiffon foundation.

Felts have been cut and re-cut and laced together with shoe strings with glorified ends of silver and gold . . . clinking bits of chains in formations of three link the cut-out gap across your forehead.

Bows are scattered all over the best headlines. Some are sewed on with a definite decorative purpose, others nonchalantly stick around any place, for seemingly no good reason at all.

Sailors with brims still persist, you wear them chastely unadorned or dress them for parade with the tiniest scrap of veiling you can find. Somebody who knows insists that the knowing clothes hound will wear white velvet turbans or hats with the new black velvet frocks, reversing this procedure with white gowns, but that information isn't official.

But whatever you wear on your head, you'll watch your hairline . . . everything in the way of curls and coiffures should be pushed up and the back of your neck should be kept clear of straggling "ducktails."

Free Ice Fund Is Necessity in Babies' Homes

While the temperature rose yesterday the spirits of a good many folk in certain congested quarters of Chicago sank lower and lower.

Babies wailed their opinions of sultry weather and sour milk.

There wasn't a lump of ice to be had to make life more comfortable even temporarily. So the children drank warm water out of the tap, and the babies drank soured milk, and their mothers fanned hopelessly.

Not a bright picture. But it might have been brighter had more money found its way into THE TRIBUNE free ice fund. Try spreading $1,883.39 in ice over hundreds upon hundreds of destitute and highly deserving cases. Try holding up the expectations of family after family who have asked for ice—when there is no money to buy it.

There are, however, a few cheerful glimmerings, and this is one of them. Muriel Braaten and Virginia Wenger of 5861 and 5901 Winthrop avenue earned a dollar for the fund. They sold doughnuts.

The others on yesterday's ice fund honor roll were M. V. T., who sent $10; anonymous, $5; Mabel Reinshagen, 2, and H. B., $1, making a grand total of $1,883.39.

The Camp Algonquin fund received some support also. M. V. T. sent $10; Mrs. Edwin L. Johnson, $2, and Nancy Jane Sahm and Marjorie Josephine Lawless, 6101 Sheridan road, managed a candy and ice cream sale and earned $1. This gives the camp fund a total of $4,943.08. The camp fund provides free vacations for tenement mothers and children.

Gifts will be welcomed to either fund. They may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

A bulletin of fish sauces, including all starred sauces in today's column, will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Little fishes in the brook——" and the sea—and the lake, in this season when all the Izaak Waltons are getting out their tackle and excavating for worms, have passed the word about that it isn't being eaten that they mind. It's being eaten with the same old sauce and accompaniments day after day that hurts their pride.

So if you and the family are picking up tan and big appetites at the seashore, basking on the lake beach, or camping on a cold trout stream, or even if you're just fish lovers with plenty of fresh catch in the market, stop to consider the feelings of the fishes . . . and incidentally the enthusiasms of the family. For since fish is more delicately flavored than animal meats it will more quickly grow wearisome if not varied often with fish accompaniments appropriate to the day's catch.

Just one rule to remember, other than the importance of variation—fish calls for tartness. This may be supplied by fruit puddings, peppy fish sauces, a relish, an acid salad, a savory tomato soup or cocktail, or a raw acid fruit.

First for the sauces. While some fish seem to be most popular with certain sauces, it isn't as a rule the type of fish that determines the choice, but the way it is prepared. The following table gives a suggestion of the sauces most delectable with fried, broiled, baked, and broiled fish.

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR FRIED FISH.
*Egg and gherkin sauce.
*Vinaigrette sauce.
Savory cream sauce.
Tomatoes (stewed or sauce).
*Shrimp mousseline sauce.
*Sour cream cucumber sauce.
*Bernaise sauce.

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR BAKED FISH.
*Sauce meuniere.
*Hollandaise sauce.
*Chili sauce.
Cucumber and lemon sauce.
Tomato relish.
Maitre d'hotel butter.
*Catsup sauce.
Drawn butter sauce.

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR BROILED FISH.
*Sauce remoulade.
Stewed gooseberries.
*Mock Hollandaise sauce.
Pimiento, lemon or other savory butter.
*Bernaise sauce.

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR BOILED FISH.
*Frozen horseradish cream.
Parsley sauce.
Chili sauce.
*Mustard sauce.
*Parmesan sauce.
*Pimiento butter.
*Mousseline sauce.
*Spanish sauce.

Of course, there's no culinary law against changing sauces from one method of cooking fish to another. The important thing is to suit the family taste as well as to pique appetites by an interesting variety of accompaniments. Fried fish alone is a bit more limited than the other varieties, as it should be dressed with sauces low in fat to counteract its own added oiliness.

CUCUMBER AND LEMON SAUCE.

Pare three medium sized cucumbers, cut in half, and remove the larger seeds. Grate the cucumbers, drain in a fine sieve and season with one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, and one-half teaspoon salt.

CARROT SAUCE.

This unusual little sauce suits boiled fish to a T. When the fish has been cooked save one and one-half cups of the liquor and add to it one-half cup of finely minced raw carrot, two teaspoons minced onion, one teaspoon minced parsley, and two cloves. Place over a low flame and simmer for twenty-five minutes. Into this stir a paste made from two tablespoons each of butter and flour blended with one-fourth cup cold milk. Add salt and a dash of cayenne to taste.

Other than for the desired tart addition there need be little difference between the rest of the meal served with meat and that served with fish

GASOLINE ALLEY—DISAPPEARING ACT

AFTER THE AMERICAN DEFEAT AT LONG ISLAND THE BRITISH FAILED TO FOLLOW UP THEIR ADVANTAGE AND WASHINGTON DECIDED TO RETREAT. HE LEFT A PARTY TO KEEP THE CAMP FIRES BURNING AND UNDER THE COVER OF DARKNESS WITHDREW HIS ARMY OF 10,000 MEN, TOOK THEM IN BOATS ACROSS EAST RIVER TO NEW YORK.
THE BRITISH WERE DUMBFOUNDED NEXT MORNING TO FIND THAT THE ARMY WHICH THEY THOUGHT BOTTLED UP HAD ENTIRELY DISAPPEARED.

Find Roast Cooks for 45 Minutes After Leaving Oven

If husband is late for dinner take the roast out of the oven—it will continue to cook for as long as 45 minutes, providing it is not cut. Left in the oven it will undoubtedly be over done. If the husband is more than 45 minutes late he deserves to eat a cold roast.

This information was gathered by research workers in various state agricultural colleges and disclosed at the closing of a three day conference of researchers in meat from twenty-six states. The conference heard reports on studies of the last year in meat and prepared plans for research during the next year.

Miss Jessie Alice Cline of the University of Missouri reported finding roasting and broiling, hitherto believed suitable for choice cuts, are equally satisfactory in preparation of less favored cuts. She recommended roasting of chuck and round steak and broiling of round steak.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Pierce determines to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralising influence of the mercenary Doria. He decides to sail himself. David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal, sails on the same boat. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat. Pierce overhears Gip threatening Gold and, unknown to her, arranges to get Gip third class passage, and from New York sends him to his Texas lumber camp for a six months' try out. Gold accepts Dorrance's offer of a position as his secretary on the Havana trip. She also does some work for Pierce, under Dorrance's instructions, but refuses compensation from Pierce. Nevertheless, he places five hundred dollars to her account in the bank. Dorrance wants Gold to make a better appearance and gives her a special dress allowance. Dr. Elverton and Doria fall in love and become engaged. Doria has a last fling at gambling and loses her own and borrowed money.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

HAPPINESS AT STAKE.

It was very late when Doria—ten minutes after she had gone up to her suite—left the Sevilla-Biltmore again. In those ten minutes she had telephoned to Gold Franklyn at the Almendares. "Gold, are you in? Are you in bed? Can I come for five minutes, dear? Please, darling! I'm in a mess—more than a mere money mess. What do I care if it's only money!"

Gold's voice replied: "Come along. Or shall I dress and come to you?"

Why Doria sensed possible rescue from Gold Franklyn she did not stop to think. Perhaps it was only because here was a girl so unlike herself; a fighting, working girl who wrested a living from the world by work, without counting on the beauty which heaven had given her. She was crying quietly as she knocked on Gold's door in the Hotel Almendares. She leaned against the shut door, when she was inside it, tears raining down her sorrowful moon face.

Gold had been taking from their wrappings the white gown and the short ermine coat she had bought that day. The package had been in her room when dinner and a long evening's duty were at last finished. She was thrilled by the lovely clothes that would be so perfect for their setting tomorrow night. She had laid them across her bed, and was almost worshiping when Doria came. But now she ran to the other woman, put an arm around her, drew her down to a couch where they sat side by side.

"What'll we do?" Gold thought out loud.

"O, Doria. And you were so happy this morning!"

"O, Gold! Can you help me?

"Help you? How?"

"Money!"

Gold's rueful little laugh was a negative in itself. "I haven't any. You know that."

"No. But couldn't you get me some; somehow, somewhere?"

"How could I, Doria?"

"I don't know! I don't know! But you are strong, Gold. I used to call you a fool, but it's I that am the fool. You're resourceful—can't you get me money from somewhere?"

"What have you done to need it so?"

When Doria had told her haltingly but graphically of the evening at the Casino they sat silent, Gold's arm still about her.

"And, as you saw," moaned Doria, "I was so happy. A miracle had happened to me, Gold. I'm in love—really and for the first and only time in love. I didn't believe there could be such a thing as this! Only this morning—yes, about five minutes after you met us, he asked me to marry him."

"O, Doria! But, Doria!"

"Wonder of the world! I know how every one will think about it. But he's just got into my heart, Gold; my brain's full of him; there's not a man on earth who matters except Burke——"

"I thought——"

"You thought Barney. O, no! no! no! How I could ever have put that man before Burke! But then I didn't know Burke, did I? Gold, do you know he thinks the most wonderful things of me—no, not the kind of things other men think, about attraction and—and—my being amusing, and all that. He says from the first moment he saw me he thought: 'There's a woman who should love a lot and give a lot.' Don't you think that's a marvelous thing for a man to say of a woman, Gold? All Barney ever thought of me——"

Gold clutched at her.

"Isn't—wasn't Barney Pierce in love with you?"

"You're hurting my shoulder, dear, holding on so hard."

"I'm sorry. There."

"Never mind. Barney in love with me? That man doesn't know what loving a woman is. He never cared two cents about me; though—and doesn't it seem queer and mad to me now!—though I'd have married him for his money if I could have got him. I'm so different, now, Gold! I——"

"But Barney Pierce——"

"He doesn't exist, dear. He isn't in the same world."

Gold saw a quiet world with Barney Pierce in it—a quiet world of an austere apartment, roughcast white walls, a stormy Monet seascape, one of Bellini's Madonnas very serene. Doria had never seen that. . . . But she must turn her attention to this Doria still crying against her shoulder in the intervals of relating happiness and fearing its impending destruction.

"Can't you tell him, Doria?"

"O, my God, no!" Real fear in her beseeching voice now. "I couldn't, Gold. I promised him no more spending, no more gambling, no more borrowing from men. You should have seen his face when he said no more borrowing from men!" she shivered a little. "He meant it."

"Did you borrow this evening?"

"Yes. A hundred dollars here and a hundred dollars there—I didn't quite count at the time. I put my rings in, trying to get it back. You see, before the story gets around, I want to send those men back their money; ask them to keep quiet." She paused. "They'll never expect me to pay, of course. Ordinarily, I'd have just gone out to dinner and been nice to them and so on. All that's over now, thank God! Or isn't it, Gold? Or isn't it? Have I been such a fool that——"

It was not only the happiness of Doria's morning face that Gold recalled, but the happiness, also, of Elverton's. He deserved, if ever a man did, to be happy! She said urgently:

"Doria, are you sure you can be good forever now?"

"Yes! After this fright, Gold, if I can get the money to straighten things out, I'm good forever. I couldn't bear to make Burke Elverton feel like a man does feel if he hasn't enough money in his pocket to smooth things out for the woman he loves. You see, he's so poor."

"I know. I know. Remember what you used to say about that, Doria?"

"I was a fool. Being poor with him is being richer than I've ever been in my life. But money's money, isn't it? I must be able to pay my hotel, Gold; pay back those stakes I borrowed tonight."

Perhaps because his name had come to her so frequently during this talk, Gold said again:

"Barney Pierce?"

"Never. What that man says, he means. Last time he helped me—it was in London—he said it was the last time. You can't alter that man."

"No." She didn't know why she thought and spoke so proudly. "No. You can't alter him."

Doria slipped to her knees, her head on Gold's lap.

"What'll we do?" Gold thought out aloud.

Through her tears Doria gazed vaguely about the room, gathering in slowly the impression of new clothes.

"You can get hold of money, Gold? You can?"

"It's part of Dorrance's business arrangement with me. He made me go out and buy those today for tomorrow's party."

Doria drooped again. And she remarked with a quiet wisdom: "Isn't it queer? That man Dorrance—he looks so easy; he's so open handed and good tempered. And yet, if a woman like me tried to borrow five hundred from him, he'd refuse without hesitating a second. There's no hope from him. Wrong kind."

"Why do you say five hundred, Doria?"

"That would just about clear me, dear. A round sum of five hundred dollars. I'd have laughed at the idea of crying for that twenty-four hours ago."

"I could get five hundred dollars, Doria," said Gold slowly.

"You could?" Doria cried warmly, incredulously.

"Yes."

"When?"

"Now. That is when the banks open in the morning."

Religion Plays Active Part in Life at C.M.T.C.

Chaplain's Tent Is a Busy Place at Sheridan.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Religious leadership of the 1,901 members of the C. M. T. C. at Fort Sheridan consists of more than church parades on Sunday mornings. This was proved yesterday by Maj. A. V. Simoni, staff chaplain at the north shore army post, as he reviewed the work of the reserve chaplains on duty during the citizens' training season.

MAJ. SIMONI.

In fact, the chaplain's tent was a busy place yesterday afternoon as usual. Young men from the military area comprising Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin who make up the C. M. T. C. are of high school and college ages when vocational, personal and moral problems arise, Chaplain Simoni pointed out. These problems, he said, find their way to the post chaplains for counsel.

At the close of a long consultation with a rangy Wisconsin lad, Chaplain Franklin E. Wales explained that the young citizen soldier's problem was that of choosing a profession. The young man had a flare for the law. Was he adapted to that profession? This question was put to Chaplain Wales. Chaplain Wales, who in civil life is the pastor of the Congregational church of Glen Ellyn, has made an especial study of vocational counseling, and, according to Chaplain Simoni, is fitted for that work in addition to regular chaplain duties.

Despite the attention given by chaplains during the week to the character building elements of the young soldiers' military experience, Father Simoni pointed out that there is no neglect of church services on Sundays.

"Everybody goes to services of some kind each Sunday," said Father Simoni. "When the boys enter the camp they are registered as to religion and services are provided for all. Church parade is held at 8:45 Sunday mornings. The Protestant boys have their service in the gymnasium; Jewish boys meet in the new Liberty theater; Catholics attend military mass in the post chapel and the boys of no church membership assemble at the hostess house."

Chaplain Simoni explained that an occasional member of the C. M. T. C. tries to avoid church parade by refusing to admit any religious faith whatsoever. These, he said, are sent to the meeting held for the young men of no denomination. Last Sunday, the speaker at this service told of the ethical leadership of Confucius in China.

"Barring the exceptions," Chaplain Simoni said, "the boys are true idealists. They display great faithfulness in attending the religious duties imposed by their faiths. The camp offers a great religious opportunity for all churches. Our greatest handicap, however, is inadequate chapel facilities. Certainly, Fort Sheridan needs a chapel large enough to accomodate the crowds of young men wishing to attend services of their choice just as much as it needs a theater. The war department, however, will not let its chaplains seek funds from private sources, so I suppose the religious life of the C. M. T. C. will continue to be carried on in the gymnasium, theater, hostess house and a totally inadequate chapel. A chapel should be built capable of caring for the needs of all denominations."

Sally's Guests Will See Chicago's Cubs in Big Game Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

We're going to see those history making Chicago Cubs today, boys and girls, and I hope you're all ready for one of the thrillingest games you've ever seen. Surely they're on the crest of the wave, and we're lucky to be seeing them during this time.

Every player seems to be full of pep and enthusiasm and there's no stopping them. They've landed in first place and within reach of the pennant in record time, and what they do from now on will be watched with the keenest interest by their fans.

That includes us, and we'll be watching intently from the grand box seats which Mr. Veeck is providing for us for this afternoon's game. You know where and when we're to meet.

I'm going to select my guests for our movie party at McVicker's theater to see "Horsefeathers," with the four Marx Brothers, today, too, so I hope your letter is in my office if you're as anxious to see these comedians as I am. The names of the winners will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, and there will be news of another party, too. Don't fail to see it.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The British ambassador to Chile, Sir Henry Getty Chilton, who has been the guest of the chargé d'affaires of Great Britain this week, left last night for Havana en route to Santiago. He will be joined there early next month by Lady Chilton and their daughters, who are visiting Lady Chilton's father, the former American ambassador to Italy, Thomas J. O'Brien, in Grand Rapids.

The mayor of Salisbury, J. Sidney Rambridge, and his party, which included his brother, Frank Rambridge, and Alfred Batt, president of the British chamber of commerce, left here last night and sailed today for England.

Lieut. James M. McHugh, U. S. A., and Mrs. McHugh, who is a daughter of the former American ambassador to Berlin, Jacob Gould Schurman, have taken a small apartment at Corcoran Courts after having lived for a year in one of Washington's suburbs. Mrs. McHugh will spend the autumn with her father at his place near Bedford Hills, N. Y., and return here after.

Engagement

MISS HORTENSE LOUISE ROLL.

[Du Bois Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Roll of Blue Island announce the engagement of their daughter, Hortense Louise, to William J. Morrison of Chicago. Miss Roll is a graduate of the University of Illinois and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. Mr. Morrison is a University of Wisconsin graduate and a member of Kappa Sigma. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Charlie Chaplin Picks Funniest Man in Movies

And Groucho Marx Is His Choice.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 17.—Charlie Chaplin told Corey Ford, the writer, he considers Groucho Marx the funniest man on the screen.

At the Paramount studio they're all mixed up over the value of music lessons for children. Seems half the folks who are being used as famous names in "The Big Broadcast" never took voice nor instrumental music lessons at all.

Kan Richmond is one of the first young men Anita Page's father, Mr. Pomares, ever permitted to take Anita out alone at night.

A cat who attacks and vanquishes a rattlesnake is one of the heroines in an interesting MGM short called "Perils of the Desert," which is about the little known southern part of that skiny, arid, rocky, 500 mile geographical finger known as Lower California. A fight between two giant turtles is another interesting sequence, and the film also shows a forgotten colony of Russian people who went to that Spanish speaking possession many decades before the world war and who still wear Muscovite peasant dress, to the wonderment of peons.

The reason Producer Sam Goldwyn decided to rename the stage play "Cynra" for film purposes is because so many people confused the play with "Lysistrata." Moreover, neither Sam nor anybody else seemed quite sure of the pronunciation. So the film version goes out with the name "I Have Been Faithful," which is the other part of the "Cynra" quotation as the poet wrote it.

Blanche Sweet was in Sacramento when stories of her reported engagement to Al Rinker of the original "Three Rhythm Boys" entertainers caught up with her. Blanche denied the report, and the telegram from Sacramento conveying the denial said she was "sorry to disappoint Hollywood gossip."

Mary Boland and Mae West are both playing on the Paramount lot. They look somewhat alike. Was Mary burned because one of the autograph hounds outside the studio, after first bothering her to write her name, expressed annoyance because she was Mary, instead of Mae!

Unwise to Hitch Child's Wagon to Genius Star

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A highly educated woman who has a husband engaged in an interesting field of work has a way of saying to her daughter, "Well, Virginia is just an average child—and I'm glad of it."

But she protests so much that I wonder . . . She protests so much. Does she cherish a longing for a brilliant career for her little girl, but think it most unlikely?

I think lots of parents do. They have a desire, often unexpressed even to themselves, to see their children covered with glory. The feel, perhaps, that fame and acclaim are more good things to wish for than their children's happiness.

But are they, necessarily? Does glory bring happiness? In any case, the majority of us parents are doomed to disappointment if we do wish it for our children, because fame and genius are the exceptional lot, not the average one.

But what we can hope is that our children will be able to achieve a measure of success in a work or profession, an art or a craft that they are suited to. That's a reasonable aim. It's a question whether it's for a child's happiness if his parents insist on hitching his wagon to a star.

Dr. Frankwood E. Williams, who is a psychiatrist and was formerly medical director of the national committee for mental hygiene, said in a lecture recently: "Hold up all the models and heroes in the world, if you must, but don't try to make your child into a cheap imitation of them. Leave him alone and he will develop naturally into a decent, average adult like yourself. You can't expect any more than that, however."

There's something sane about that, isn't there? "Into a decent, average adult like yourself." Of course we aspire for our children, but we must be a bit careful about it. We must be careful not to set our own heart on a future for him, like college or success with a capital S, to gratify our own pride or ambition. We must be careful about this, partly because such an ideal may not suit him and partly because if he falls below it, it means humiliation or a sense of utter failure.

Colony of Mercy Picnic.

The women's auxiliary of the Colony of Mercy at Bartlett, Ill., a home for incurables supported by the Swedish-Americans of Chicago, will sponsor a reunion and picnic on the grounds of the institution Sunday afternoon.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My little niece, Diane, was enjoying her first visit on the farm. She had been given permission to collect a few of the eggs in the hen house. Suddenly she dashed into the kitchen, a glass setting egg clutched in her chubby litle fist, and cried excitedly, "O, Dot, I found one, but it isn't quite ripe yet!"—D. A. B.

The teacher was giving the class a lesson in defining words. When little Elsie's turn came she was asked to explain the meaning of the word "tutor."

After thinking a moment Elsie proudly and assuredly defined: "A tutor is a man who toots." V. K.

Gay Orphans, 3,000 Strong, Enjoy a Picnic

Auto Trade Groups Give Splendid Party.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

It would have been a fruitless task to discover out of the 3,000 orphans picnicking on Lincoln park's green lawn yesterday the orphan who wished he wasn't an orphan.

In the first place, being an orphan got you into the orphans' picnic sponsored by the Orphans' Automobile Day association. And in the second place, being an orphan, you got to meet a real knight and lady from England, a couple of baseball czars, and see a Punch and Judy show. And in the third place, and just as important a place, you got sandwiches, fruit, cup cake, ice cream, orangeade, crackerjack, candy bars, not to mention the whole box of candy, horns, balls, paper caps, balloons, and marbles.

Indeed it was a fortunate youngster who was an orphan yesterday, or even one of the 500 old folks who also were guests.

The knight and lady were Sir Noel Curtis-Bennett and Lady Bennett of Henfield, Sussex, England, who went to the Olympic games in Hollywood as official representatives for the prince of Wales. They arrived at the picnic in the official white city car with a police escort and Greeter Gaw, and were ushered to the platform.

Sir Noel was hailed by cheers from 3,500 throats as he mounted the platform, and when he completed speaking youngsters thronged about him and Lady Curtis-Bennett demanding autographs on every available scrap of paper.

"I am happy to attend a party of this kind," declared Sir Noel, who is somewhat of a godfather to underprivileged children in England. "I want to report to my country what America is doing for its old people and its orphans. Of all the places I have visited in this country this picnic is the most inspirational."

Then there were Zack Taylor and Stanley Hack, who appeared about noon before they went off to battle for the Cubs. They left a dozen baseballs in the possession of as many happy small boys. And from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. the entertainers, as tireless as troupers always are, put on a continuous show. There were singers and dancers—and there was a Punch and Judy show.

The 510 crippled children, seated comfortably on pillows and some in wheel chairs under a specially constructed canopy, thought the Punch and Judy show about the funniest ever, unless it was the agile juvenile dancers and the wooden soldiers in their red and white uniforms.

The crippled children cheered when Judy gave Mr. Punch a good punch for dropping the baby overboard, and shuddered when Mr. Punch murdered the undertaker, the policeman, and even got the best of the devil. And when the alligator at last gobbled Mr. Punch down his green throat the crippled children heaved an excited sigh and murmured: "That was swell."

Most of the crippled youngsters were transported to the park by the Dorothy Kahn club. More than 1,000 motorists lent their services and their cars to carry the orphans and the old folks to the picnic grounds.

"Despite the depression it has been as successful a picnic as we've had in the 28 years we've been giving them," said Walter Bermingham, chairman of the publicity committee. "A man's pocketbook may be flat, but he still has charity in his heart."

Those responsible for the picnic were the Chicago Automobile Trade association, Automobile Club of Illinois, Chicago Motor club, Funeral Services Associated, South Central association, and the Woodlawn Business Men's association.

Plans for Winter Made by Apollo Musical Club

The Apollo Musical club will start rehearsals for its sixty-first season on Sept. 12, it was announced yesterday by Richard L. Wessellus, president. Edgar Nelson is conductor of the chorus, which will give its annual presentation of the "Messiah" at Christmas time, a concert in February, and will sing Bach's Passion music in April.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Family Needs Clothing.

"No one has been working in our family for some time and we are badly in need of clothes. If you can get something for my wife in size 44; a pair of shoes, size 7; some clothes for my daughter, 16; a suit, size 43; a pair of shoes, size 9½, and shirts, 16, for me it will be a great help. The clothes we are wearing now are beyond repair. H. W."

Can you do anything for this family? Although lack of income is depriving them of many necessities, their greatest need at the present time seems to be for clothing. Anything in their sizes will be greatly appreciated.

Joe Hesitates Twixt 'It' Girl, Home Maker

Wonders Which Will Make the Better Wife.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Gentleman Joe" can't choose between two girls. The marrying mood is on him—but which girl?

One is unselfish, willing to share, willing to save, willing to do anything and everything around home to help her mother. She can sew, cook, sing and is an all around domestic type. It requires little money to take her out of an evening. She suggests a walk often when he has a movie in mind.

Theo ther girl is a different type. She wants "Joe" for herself. She wants good times for herself, good clothes, everything. But she's good looking, popular. She's never willing to sit at home an evening if there's anything going on. There are a couple of other admirers hanging on her word.

If we tell you "Joe" the obvious one to choose, you'll just listen and go ahead and grab the other out from under the noses of her several admirers. And, if she says O. K., you'll spend the rest of your life wondering why she hasn't the sterling qualities of No. 1.

That's the way with you men. You have a chance to choose between two girls. One has the homely virtues; the other the superficial charms. You choose the latter. But you keep on wondering why Fate ever served you the raw deal in a girl who thinks only of herself.

Your girl, No. 1, "Joe," lacks one good trait. She doesn't ask quite enough for herself. It's not a good quality in woman. It's not a paying quality, rather. Not an appreciated one. In between these two choices there is another girl, perhaps.

But, as said, you'll choose the one without any of the domestic virtues because a couple of other fellows have an eye on her. You'll be flattered she'll have you when she could have had a couple of other men. And if you're willing to pay for these privileges in years of demands, marry the girl, but don't expect marriage is going to remold her character!

Capelet Ties Becomingly at the Front in Smart Design for Women and Misses

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The capelet of this dress ties becomingly in a youthful fashion at the front. This is an attractive style, as for warm summer days the capelet falling over the arm makes sleeves unnecessary. Voile, tub silk, silk piqué and linen are lovely materials to choose from.

The pattern, 2946, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material.

MARCHIONESS WINS $48,000 TROTTING STAKE

WHAT IS THIS MICKEY-MAX MIX ALL ABOUT?

Winner to Get Only Runneruptcy.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montello, Nev., Aug. 17.—It is not a very high honor that Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker have decided to fight for in the Garden bowl a few weeks hence, the prize at stake being the runneruptcy to the heavyweight champion, who happens to be Jack Sharkey, who happens to have been licked by the pair of them within the last year.

The winner can hope for nothing better than to become runner-up to a mediocrity so utterly futile that his very accession to the title, by a two-thirds vote of the officials in charge, automatically discredited the heavyweight championship, reducing it to the level of the welterweight wrestling championship of South Dakota.

It's Very Reasonless.

Where fake, fraud and political trading had failed to shatter the customers illusion of glory pertaining to the title, the minute Sharkey assumed it the customers had to realize at last, and with great reluctance, that it didn't amount to anything anymore. Not only had Schmeling just beaten him, but the fight had been the worst heavyweight championship bout ever conducted and the title lost its last glimmer of prestige when it was given to a man who couldn't even beat so poor a performer as Schmeling was that night.

Of course Schmeling and Walker have had little to do in the last couple of years and they might have fought half a dozen times by now if they had been at all inquisitive to know which is the better man. But in the meanwhile, Walker has dropped a few fights to people who have no right to beat any one with a legitimate ambition to win the title.

Both of them can still beat Sharkey, but that is only just barely enough to qualify them for professional competition at all, and if Walker should win from Schmeling that would only make Sharkey and the championship look more paltry, if possible.

Remember Fitz and Jim?

The news of the match, unimportant as it may seem to the citizens of the more populous centers, acquires a special triviality out here where there are no crowds and the people keep no account of the heavyweight runneruptcy. There was a time, in Rickard's early days, and before that, when the harried fugitives from Arkansas territory and Texas, Fitzsimmons and Corbett, came up to Carson to institute the $50 charge for ringside tickets and inbred the solar plexus in the common language of the country, that the heavyweight championship and the logical contendership or runneruptcy were matters of some interest in this country.

Even then, the interest was not strictly sporting. Fitzsimmons and Corbett, driven out of innocent Arkansas by the government troops, had then been shooed out of Texas by the legislature called in special session to save the honor of the state. They were then invited into Nevada, which was broke at the time, by a governor who reckoned that his state could stand a little mortification of the morals for the good of the saloons, the railroads, and other basic industries. And the worst offense to the most sensitive when they did fight seems to have been the spectacle of John L. Sullivan, fat, drunk, and glowering, hanging onto the ropes just before the main event and muttering that he could still lick the pair of them then and there.

Jim Has Changed.

Mr. Corbett, who was not always the benign and somewhat Connie Mackian figure that he has come to be in later years, was a hard loser, and when Fitzsimmons said he would never give him a chance to recapture the title because he had been no gent to him, threatened to lick Fitzsimmons impromptu, wherever they might meet, until he was vindicated.

Mr. Corbett used swear words in the saying of this, all of which knowledge, I will confess, I recall freestyle from my reading of the old clippings of George Siler's pieces on the prize

SOX FLUNK OUT AGAIN, 4-2; IT'S NO. 8 IN A ROW

Senators Break Up Lyons' Lesson to Youngsters.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—This was another unhappy day for the Lew Fonseca baseball school, although the pupils did show some improvement over previous exams. The job of directing operations for the afternoon was entrusted to Ted Lyons, and he performed nobly for a limited stretch, but various obstacles such as Washington hits arose in his path toward the finish to bounce the Chicagoans into their eighth straight trimming, 4 to 2.

The Chicagoans made the mistake of not devising some excuse for canceling the engagement at the end of six innings. At that point they were leading, 2 to 1, their two tallies having been the outcome of a murderous assault against Dick Coffman. The attack really was high powered, as is attested by nine hits in five innings, and just why only two runs could be brewed from this batch can be explained only by the fact that the Chicago boys revel in strange activities. After those nine hits they were stopped cold, whereas the Senators were conserving their power for a seventh inning attack that blew Lyons apart.

English Takes a Hand.

Lyons was so good while he was good that in five innings only three hits were made off him, one being due to an unusual piece of outfielding. In the sixth he began to totter a bit and a well timed clout by Heinie Manush, always bad news to opposing pitchers, cut Chicago's two run lead right in half. And then the inevitable came to pass. After the first two men had hit safely, Charley English, the courageous but ineffectual third base pupil, made the enemy a present of a hit that easily could have been a double play. This filled the bases with none out and the worst happened immediately.

The Sox started their day's work as if their bats had suddenly been converted into magic wands. Funk opened the game with a line triple to right center and scored on Hayes single over second. Both Blue and Appling thumped long flies, but they were caught. Seeds followed with a double to the center field flag, Hayes stopping at third. The impressive getaway stopped with English rolling to Cronin.

Sox Act Dangerous.

Lyons took a hand in the batswinging in the fourth and a prodigal waste of base hits without a profitable return ceased. Grube doubled to right center after Kress had lined out, and Lyons drove the run home by singling to center. Lyons, however, didn't get any help from Funk or Hayes. Only one more safe tap was notched against Coffman in his two remaining innings. That was Seeds' third hit after two were out in the fifth. And it also was the last Chicago hit.

Lyons invited himself to a little excitement in the sixth by walking Spencer, the first batter. Reynolds batted for Coffman and fouled to Grube. Rice singled to right and was forced by Myer. This put Spencer on third, whence he scored on Manush's single.

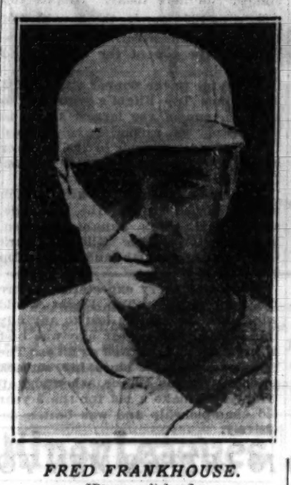
Then Trouble Starts.

The parade of three runs that blasted Lyons' ambitions in the seventh started with Kuhel's double to the right field wall. West bunted toward third and Lyons tried to field the ball, but West beat it out for a hit and Kuhel took third. Bluege bounced one to English, who let the ball roll up his sleeve for a fluke hit, loading the bases. Spencer singled to center on the first ball pitched scoring Kuhel and West and moving Bluege to third. Brown slammed a foul ball down into the Sox bull pen territory. The bull pen occupants didn't think to tell Kress not to catch it. So he caught it and Bluege scored the last run after the catch.

Panama Al Brown Stops Roland Lecuyer in Sixth

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Panama Al Brown, world's bantamweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Roland Lecuyer of Holyoke, Mass., in the sixth round of a ten round nontitle bout tonight.

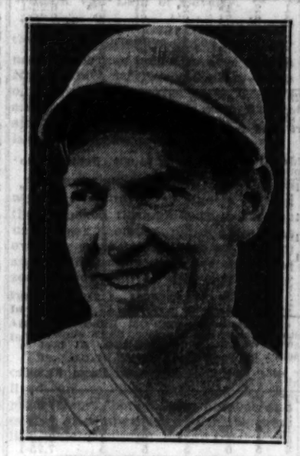
STARS WHO MADE CUBS-BRAVES 19 INNING BATTLE SPARKLE



FRED FRANKHOUSE.
[Braves pitcher.]
Pitched 11 2-3 innings, allowing only ten hits and keeping the Cubs away from the plate until the 19th inning, when he filled the bases and was relieved by Pruett. Struck out four and gave four bases on balls.

BAXTER JORDAN.
[Braves first baseman.]
Scored the first run and tied the Cubs in the sixth inning with a home run. At bat eight times, made four hits, including a double. Had 22 putouts and two assists without an error.

BUD TINNING.
[Cubs pitcher.]
Pitched 12 2-3 innings, with only ten men reaching base, seven on hits, three on bases on balls. Struck out four. Lost chance to gain victory when he gave way for pinch hitter in 18th.



WOODY ENGLISH.
[Cubs third baseman.]
Drove in tying run in the seventh inning with a single. Handled seven chances without an error, making one putout and six assists. Figured in the 19th inning rally, being hit by a pitched ball.

BILL JURGES.
[Cubs shortstop.]
Drove in first run of game in fourth inning with single. At bat seven times with two hits. Made seven putouts and seven assists without an error. Took part in two double plays.

Cub-Brave Game 7 Innings Short of Major Record

The Cubs and Boston Braves in their 19 inning game yesterday fell seven innings short of equalling the record for the longest major league game. The Brooklyn Dodgers, winners of the National league pennant in 1920, met Boston on May 1 of that year and played 26 innings to a 1 to 1 tie.

The Brooklyn-Boston game broke the mark set by the Philadelphia Athletics and the Boston Red Sox, who played 24 innings on Sept. 1, 1906. Philadelphia won, 4 to 1.

Root and Betts Meet Today in 3d of Series

Charley Root, held over from yesterday, will hook up with the able Huck Betts this afternoon in the third game of the Cub-Braves series.

Manager Grimm has his pitcher schedule made out for four days, he announced yesterday: Malone, Friday; Bush, Saturday, and Warneke Sunday.

The longest game of the season at Wrigley field prior to yesterday was the 12 inning affair in which Warneke beat Cincinnati, 2 to 1, early in the season.

The season series between the Braves and Cubs now stands 11 to 4 in favor of the Cubs.

For a time it seemed Brown would duplicate his performance of July 7. On that date he beat the Cubs, 2 to 1. Brown yielded the Cubs only three hits in the 6 2-3 innings he pitched. However, he walked seven and hit one.

Apparently many had to go back to their jobs, if any, after celebrating Charley Grimm day Tuesday. The crowd fell off from 32,000 to 10,000.

Frankhouse got a big hand when he came to bat in the sixteenth. He responded by sending J. Moore to the center field screen for his fly.

JUST TRY TO KEEP BUD TINNING IN BULL PEN NOW!

Bud Tinning's part in yesterday's epochal 19 inning battle between the Cubs and Braves not only made the young Western league right hander the day's outstanding baseball hero, but established him as one of the most effective pitchers in the major leagues.

Tinning came to the Cubs last winter, after he had won 24 games and lost only 2 for Des Moines in the Western league. He made an impressive showing in the spring training drills at Catalina island and was assigned to a place in the bull pen when the season opened.

Gets Starting Chance.

He has been one of the more or less regular relief pitchers for the greater part of the year. Finally Rogers Hornsby gave the young fellow a chance to start against Brooklyn on July 6. He lost the game, 6 to 4. Two errors by Hornsby figured in the defeat.

Tinning did relief work again for a spell. Then in New York on the last trip east Manager Charley Grimm gave him another starting chance. He defeated the Giants, 4 to 3, yielding only seven hits.

No spot was found for Bud as a starting pitcher in the next week or so, but last Tuesday, when the Cubs were celebrating Grimm Day at Wrigley Field, Tinning was summoned in the first half of the eighth inning to relieve Lon Warneke, who had come to grief against the Braves. Tinning stopped the Braves' assault and was in there when the Cubs came back to win with four runs in the last half of the ninth. This was Tinning's third victory of the season, he having received credit for a victory in a relief role earlier in the year.

Grimm Sends Him Right Back.

His success against the Braves after Warneke failed Tuesday convinced Grimm that Tinning could hold them yesterday when occasion necessitated a change of pitchers. So he went in, presumably to finish the game. Three and two-thirds innings of regulation play remained. But it was 12 and 2-3 innings later before Grimm decided to use a pinch hitter for Bud. The pinch hitter, Mark Koenig, struck out on three pitched balls.

In the 12 2-3 innings, Tinning allowed only 7 hits. His performance was made more impressive by the fact that he held the Braves scoreless. In two days Tinning has pitched 14 and 1-3 innings of scoreless ball against the Braves, allowing only seven hits in that time.

Pitching? Well, if you don't think it is, grab yourself an arm full of record books and see how many other pitchers have that good an average.

Japanese Study Blueprints to Develop Swim Champions

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 17.—You know how the Japanese will take a wooden toy, or a piece of cotton, or a bit of European army tactics, concentrate a regiment of engineers on the proposition in question, analyze it, work on it for years, and finally end up by giving you back something which looks like the original, but either sells cheaper, works better, or in some other way exceeds your original. Well, that's what the Japanese did in the last twelve years with the proposition of competitive swimming.

At the time of the 1920 Olympic games in Antwerp Japan had no competitive swimmers. True enough, there were countless men and youths in Japan who swam, for swimming has been a heritage of the island kingdom, with its lakes, rivers, inlets, and encompassing surf. But nobody in Japan had paid the slightest attention to swimming races until after the games of 1920.

Capture Team Title.

The Antwerp games kindled their interest and last week, after a lapse of only twelve years, Japan showed up at the Olympic games in Los Angeles with a team of twenty-two swimmers who carried off the Olympic team title from under the startled eyes of the mermen of United States, Australia, and Hungary, who had been accustomed to dominate the water sports every four years.

Even more startling, the Japanese team was composed, in large majority, of boys 14, 15 and 16 years old, who swam in a new fashion which, for want of a name, the Caucasian coaches now dub the Japanese crawl.

And here is how this championship boys' team was recruited and developed:

After the Antwerp games Japanese engineers were instructed to examine the swimming styles of champion foreign natators and to work out what could be called a "blueprint 100 per cent crawl stroke."

Swimming pools were constructed by the hundreds. Where there were only two, the number in the country now exceeds 500.

They Teach 'Em Young.

Instruction for speed swimming was introduced in the schools. Swimming coaches were developed, and taking the little boys—yes, and girls, too—from the seaside, lakeside and river regions who had swum since before they learned to talk, the coaches began to help the youngsters to swim faster and faster.

Local, regional, and central swimming meets were scheduled. By the time of 1924 Olympic games, in Paris, the system had begun to function well enough to place Katouo Takaishi, now 25 year old champion and "grandfather" of Japan's aquatic team, in the finals of the 100 meter free style. But the banzais really began to rise when, at the Amsterdam game in 1928, Yoshioki Tsuruta won the 200 meter breast swim and set an Olympic record. Young Tsuruta, incidentally, repeated for another victory and an-

ATHLETES OF 15 NATIONS MEET IN POST-OLYMPICS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The members of the Italian Olympic team, the Czechoslovakian team and three of the German squad, all of whom will participate in the post-Olympic track meet tonight at Soldiers' field arrived in Chicago yesterday. With the last of the competitors, the others on the German team, expected to arrive this morning by plane from the west coast, the list is complete for the opening of the meet tonight at 8 o'clock.

Officials estimate that 40,000 will watch the games, the second of international importance which have been held at Chicago's stadium by the lake. In 1930, immediately following the British empire games at Hamilton, Ont., a picked team from the National A. A. U. meet, defeated the British.

Fifteen Nations Represented.

Even that meet cannot match the games tonight and it is unlikely Chicago will have an opportunity to see as many international stars until the Olympic games are again held in the United States.

Teams representing 15 countries will appear. The events listed include the high jump, broad jump, pole vault, hammer throw, javelin throw, discus throw, shot put, 1,500 and 5,000 meter races, the hurdle events and the sprints.

The race in the 5,000 meters between Lehtinen of Finland and Hill of the United States is likely to be the outstanding event tonight. Lehtinen defeated Hill by a matter of inches for the Olympic title but his victory was the result of one of the few disputes. It was alleged, unofficially, that the Finn crossed in front of Hill twice in the final sprint, preventing a possible American victory. Hill, however, did not protest. The race tonight is expected to decide which is the better runner.

Wilson Meets Edwards.

Alex Wilson, a Canadian who attended Notre Dame university and who finished second in the Olympic 800 meter race, will run against Phil Edwards. Edwards, a former New York university athlete, also competed for Canada.

Luigi Beccalli, winner of the Olympic 1,500 meter race, is the ace of the visiting Italian team. He failed to establish a world record for the distance at Los Angeles by a fifth of a second and he hopes to surpass the world mark tonight.

Five members of the Greek Olympic team will be at Soldiers' field. Evangelus Lambru, Christos Mandikas and Renos Frangudis will compete in the sprints against Ralph Metcalfe and Percy Williams.

Although Eddie Tolan, who won the 100 and 200 meter titles at Los Angeles has announced his retirement, he has consented to participate in tonight's meet. Tolan has picked a relay team of Negro athletes which will race in the 400 meter event. The team will be composed of Tolan, James Johnson of Illinois Normal, Metcalfe of Marquette university, and John Brooks of Chicago.

AUBURN FILLY FIRST IN TWO OF FOUR HEATS

4 Year Record Falls in Hambletonian.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The Marchioness, a bay filly which was bought at an auction sale as a yearling for $3,000, this afternoon won the seventh Hambletonian stakes over the lightning fast course of Good Time Park, and thereby won for her owner, Mrs. Ralph R. Keller of Auburn, N. Y., the first prize of $29,742.

The gross value of the stake for this classic trot was $48,339.26, not the largest in the history of the event, but by far the largest ever raced for by light harness horses in the world ouside of the Hambletonian stake.

The triumph, achieved before a crowd of nearly 25,000 which packed the stands, the lawn, and lined the rail on the infield, was gained only after four stirring heats, in one of which a new record for the stake was made and the fastest time for a trotting race this year was recorded. The Marchioness, a daughter of Guy Axworthy and born and bred at Walnut Hall farm, Donerail, Ky., was the favorite, backed from even money to 3 to 5, and she demonstrated her right to be so considered.

Favorite Wins First Heat.

The Marchioness won the first mile struggle against the other six star 3 year old colts, placed second in the next heat, then fourth in the third, but showed her courage and her speed when she matched strides with Hollyrood Dennis, which had stepped to record time to take the second heat, and Invader, which had dashed to the front to annex the third.

Second place in the Hambletonian went to Invader, whose share of the purse was $8,497.35. Third money was taken by Hollyrood Dennis. His share was $4,248.93. Hollyrood Dennis finished second to The Marchioness in the final heat, with Invader third, but Invader had finished second in the first heat, third in the second, and had captured the third. Hollyrood Dennis, breaking twice, finished seventh in the first, took the second, and was sixth in the third. Hollyrood Dennis broke in the first and third.

Only Three in Final.

In the fourth and final heat only these three were left. Brevere, Calumet Chuck, Calumet Crusader, and The Lad, the other starters, were ruled out. All but The Lad, however, won a share of the purse.

It was the first time in the history of the stake that four heats were required to select a winner. The time set by Hollyrood Dennis when he stepped the second heat in 2:01¼, was the fastest heat ever recorded in the stake and the fastest that any trotter has gone this season in this country. Hollyrood Dennis won his heat by half a length over The Marchioness.

The race had all the drama and excitement that any race could have. So did the Geers, the pacing event which is a companion race of the Hambletonian. The Hambletonian, being a futurity, had a gross of $53,339.26. From this was deducted $5,000 as the chief prize of the Geers.

Caton Drives the Winner.

The Marchioness was driven to her gallant victory by one of the veteran reinsmen of the game, Will Caton, who in his career was chief driver of the light harness horses of the late czar of Russia and has brought home winners which have won more than $2,000,000 in prize money.

To Caton must go a big part of the credit for the victory of the fleet filly. He nursed her through the two heats which she lost and then brought her back in the final one to make one of the most sensational stretch finishes in the history of the stake.

CHARLEIGH AND SISKIN! THERE'S A REAL PARLAY

Mystery Horse and Cripple Hawthorne Victors.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Charleigh, the mystery horse of the American turf, and Siskin, the brilliant but crippled son of Epinard, were the turf heroes at the Hawthorne races yesterday.

The mystery horse, which beats selling platers one day, shows his heels to handicap stars the next, and gets trimmed by the cheapest sort of a plug in between, captured the Eclipse handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. Siskin raced to victory in the Westgate purse, beating some of our proudest western sprinters.

The Eclipse, in which Charleigh led from start to finish to win by four and a half lengths, was sort of a consolation event for the horses beaten by My Dandy in the Illinois Owners' handicap last Saturday.

Nearly Ties Record.

In that race Charleigh finished fourth. But he ran a different race in the Eclipse, got to the front immediately and proceeded to display a brand of speed which bewildered those which were trying to catch him. Polydorus staggered home in second place and Fairbypair was third.

Charleigh had scorched the track all the way around running the mile and sixteenth in 1:43 4-5, only 1-5 of a second off the track record. He reeled off the three-quarters in 1:13 and the mile in 1:37 3-5. He seemed to be doing his job in the handiest fashion all the time.

Bill Schmidt, the undertaker who owns him, shouted with glee when he won. Then he cried. For if his mystery horse had run the same kind of a race in the Illinois Owners' handicap he would have won the $10,000 purse. Instead he saved his good race until yesterday and won exactly $1,400 for Owner Schmidt.

Polydorus Moves Up.

C. E. Allen was up on Charleigh and got the horse away flying. Fairbypair was right with him as they began skimming around the clubhouse bend. Charleigh didn't care about Fairbypair being so close, so he pulled out into a lead of two lengths, which he held all the way down the back stretch. Fairbypair was running second.

On the last turn Charleigh pulled out into a lead of three lengths and Polydorus raced on past Fairbypair. They came down the home stretch in that order, with Charleigh drawing out into a longer lead at every stride. The entry of Polydorus and Yonkel which Abraham Bartelstein sent to the post ruled as the odds-on favorite, so Charleigh paid $10.32 to win.

Siskin Has No Trouble.

Siskin's victory was easily achieved. He let Pancho Lopez make the pace until the stretch, then drove ahead in his old championship way to win by a length. He was going away at the finish.

This was a different race than Siskin ran only a little more than a week ago when he finished third in a similar sprint affair. But it was quite evident in that race that Jockey Richards did not give him a chance to run. Jockey Landolt was in the saddle yesterday and let Siskin go right along with the leaders until they had reached the turn.

He gave Siskin a slight breathing spell there, then took after Pancho Lopez in the stretch. It took Siskin only 20 strides to overtake the leader. Although conquered by Siskin, Pancho Lopez hung on with courage and saved second money from the fast finishing Sundot.

Stake Candidate Fail.

Siskin ran the six furlongs from the standing start in 1:12 1-5, it being the fastest race at the distance this season. His big army of backers stuck to their guns and made him the favorite at $5.72.

The Fox Valley purse, which engaged a lot of eligibles for Saturday's renewal of the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap, didn't turn out so well for the stake candidates. Old Hillside, paying $50.58 in the $2 mutuels, was the winner and he isn't eligible for the handicap. Neither is Our Justice, which finished second. Mr. Joe was third and he was going gamely near the end.

WOLFE DEFEATS SISK IN MILLS 10 ROUND BOUT

Eddie [Kid] Wolfe, Memphis, Tenn., junior welterweight boxer, won a ten round decision over Dick Sisk, Chicago, in the windup of the first O'Brill Athletic club professional show at Mills stadium last night. Paul Dazzo, Chicago, defeated Lou Vine, who substituted for Paul Dempsey in the six round semi-windup.

Billy Gladstone won from Phil McQuillan in another six round bout. Fred Langford stopped Bob Groshek in the fifth round, while Jack Ripp whipped Jack Tut in the four round opener.

20 Bike Riders to Race at Humboldt Park Sunday

Twenty of Chicago's leading amateur bike riders will compete Sunday in the seventh of a series of eight one hour team races at Humboldt park, sponsored by the Amateur Bicycle League of America. In the field will be Art Cumming, who paired with Frank Le Majeur to win the last race; Andy Cajet, winner of last week's 25 mile open event, and Jerry Rodman, south park titleholder. Cumming will ride with Al Smessaert, Cajet with Al Eisentraut, and Rodman with Stanley Olsen. An Australian pursuit race, a match race, and a three mile open event complete the program.

Erie Releases Chief Bender; McCorry Is New Manager

Erie, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Charles Albert (Chief) Bender, one time star pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, today was released as manager of the Erie club of the Central league. Bender will be succeeded by Bill McCorry, former pilot of the Albany team in the Eastern league. He will join the Erie squad tomorrow at Fort Wayne.

Watch Him's Victory Jolts Trainer Knapp

Big Bill Knapp, who trains the horses which race for Mrs. John Hertz, is beginning to wonder if he knows his horses so well after all. He saddled three for Mrs. Hertz at Hawthorne yesterday: Get Ready in the first, Fairbypair in the fifth, and Watch Him in the sixth. He thought Get Ready and Fairbypair both had royal chances. He didn't think much of Watch Him. Get Ready and Fairbypair were beaten. Watch Him ran a powerful race, won at a mile and a sixteenth, and paid $57.32 in the $2 mutuels.

Willie Crump's Head Play, a son of My Play, will have a lot to say about the distribution of Saturday's $10,000 purse for the Hawthorne juvenile handicap, if his training works this week mean anything.

The other way, with his stake weight of 120 pounds up, the colt worked the three-quarters in 1:13 3-5 pulled up. He was timed in 1:14 1-5, also pulled up, yesterday.

Esseff, the Dixiana filly, turned in the best work of the gentler sex nominated for the juvenile handicap when she reeled off a snappy six furlongs. She fairly flew over the first part of the distance when she passed the quarter in :22 3-5, half in :48, five furlongs in 1:00 3-5 and completed the juvenile route in 1:14 1-5.

Roy Carruthers, general manager of the Arlington Park Jockey club, was among the visitors at Hawthorne yesterday.

It appears that Brown Wisdom might be through as far as overnight handicaps and purses are concerned. He was badly beaten in the Westgate yesterday and didn't show any of his old time running ability at any stage of the battle.

Few horses have ever quit faster than Flag Time did in the second race yesterday. A dozen strides from the finish he was leading by a length. He seemed to stop in his tracks. Camp Boss and Outbound raced past him.

Favorite players put in a most uncomfortable afternoon. Siskin and Prince Volta were the only horses able to win for them.

HELEN JACOBS IN QUARTER-FINALS OF U. S. NET MEET

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Helen Jacobs moved another step toward her first national women's tennis championship today when she swept into the quarter final round by defeating Mrs. Frederick McBride, New York, 6-3, 6-3.

DODGERS MOVE TO WITHIN HALF GAME OF PIRATES

Pittsburgh Loses, 4-1, in Second Place Fight.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Brooklyn's Dodgers ripped into the second place Pittsburgh Pirates again today, trimmed them, 4 to 1, and cut the margin that separates the two in the National league race to a half game.

Tied one-all at the end of seven innings, with Bill Swift locked in a pitching duel with Lefty Heimach, the Dodgers fell upon the young Pirate right-hander in the eighth for four hits and three runs that sewed up the ball game and gave Brooklyn two victories so far in three games of the series.

Swift held the Dodgers to four hits until Heimach singled to start the eighth inning rally. Danny Taylor doubled, Stripp and O'Doul singled, and Hack Wilson's long fly completed the uprising. Score:

YANKS WIN TENTH IN ROW

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The New York Yankees ran a winning streak to 10 straight today, their best consecutive spurt of the season, as the Detroit Tigers were defeated, 8 to 3, by George Pipgras' pitching and the clouting of Babe Ruth.

Ruth and Lou Gehrig led the Yankee attack on Vic Sorrell. Gehrig drove in three runs and Ruth belted his 34th home run of the season into the right field stands in the fifth with no one on. Score:

DICK TRACY—Eyes That Do Not See

Cubs Battle 19 Innings to Beat Braves

had been wabbly and he was yanked after walking two with two down in the seventh. Frankhouse came in with a count of two balls and no strikes against English. After running it to 3 and 2 Woody drove home Tinning with the tying run. Then the tug of war began in earnest, with neither side having any great advantage until the blowoff.

The Cubs faded out on a swell scoring chance in the second inning. Stephenson pushed off with a single over second and stopped at second on J. Moore's single to left. The pair advanced on Grimm's sacrifice, held on while Brown was throwing out Hartnett, and died when Knothe threw out Jurges.

Grimes was hit on the left hand by a pitched ball to start the Cub third and went to second on Herman's sacrifice. English walked, after which Cuyler sent a high fly to R. Moore and Stephenson bounced out to Maranville.

Grimm Starts Scoring.

Manager Grimm scored the first run of the contest in the fourth. After J. Moore had sent a long fly to Holland, Grimm walked and went to second while Maranville was throwing out Hartnett. Jurges lined a single to center, driving home his boss.

It was in the sixth that Father Time paged old Burleigh. Rookie Jordan tied the score by leading off with a homer over the right field screen. Berger followed with a single to deep short, but was forced on Holland's attempted sacrifice.

R. Moore shot an apparent triple to right center, but the ball hopped into the bleachers, ground rules requiring that Randy stop at second and Holland at third. This break failed to encourage Grimes and he pitched one which Knothe slammed into right, Holland scoring and R. Moore pulling up at third. Tinning then came into the game. Spohrer grounded to English and R. Moore was out at the plate, English to Hartnett. Tinning threw out Brown.

Jordan a Pesky Gent.

Tinning got into some trouble on his own account in the seventh. After Jurges had made two fine plays to get Maranville and Urbanski. Jordan knocked his third hit, a double to right. Berger was given an intentional pass and Holland got a pass that wasn't intentional, filling the bases. R. Moore forced Holland, Jurges unassisted.

After getting rid of Brown without the aid of a base hit, the Cubs tied the score in the seventh. With two out Tinning walked and so did Herman. When Brown threw two wide ones to English he was replaced by Frankhouse. Frankhouse threw another ball to English and then two strikes. After fouling a couple Woody shot a single to left, Tinning scoring and Herman taking third. Cuyler was thrown out by Knothe.

J. Moore singled with one down in the eighth, but Grimm hit into a double play, Maranville to Urbanski to Jordan.

Sacrifice Fails in Ninth.

Jurges walked with one down in the ninth, but was forced on Tinning's attempted sacrifice. Maranville threw out Herman.

Holland opened the tenth with a single to center and was forced by R. Moore, Grimm to Jurges. Knothe flied to Cuyler and R. Moore was caught stealing.

With one down in the tenth Cuyler beat out a bunt towards third. Kl was caught stealing, Spohrer's fourth victim of the game, and Stephenson flied to R. Moore.

J. Moore ran the count to three balls and two strikes to start the Cub eleventh, then walked. Grimm again hit into a double play, Maranville to Urbanski to Jordan. Frankhouse threw out Hartnett.

In the twelfth Urbanski fanned, but Jordan smashed his fourth hit, a single to left. It was at this point that Stephenson made his magnificent catch of Berger's drive to the left field wall. Jordan had rounded second and Stephenson relayed the ball to Jurges, whose throw apparently doubled Jordan off first. Umpire Stark didn't think so.

Boston Pinch Hitter Flops.

R. Moore pushed off the 13th with a single to center. Knothe fanned. Hargrave batted for Spohrer and hit into a double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm.

Stephenson singled to left with two out in the 13th and J. Moore put him on third with his third hit, a single to right. Grimm was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Gudat batted for Hartnett and flied to Berger.

Herman singled with two out in the 14th, but the inning ended when English flied to R. Moore.

Berger singled to right center with one out in the 15th. Holland flied to J. Moore, and R. Moore forced Berger, Herman to Jurges. Cuyler, Stephenson and Moore went out in order in the Cub half of the 15th.

In the 16th Knothe, Hargrave and Frankhouse were retired in order. Jurges singled with two out in the Cub half, but Tinning was thrown out by Knothe.

Urbanski bounced a scratch single over Tinning's head with one out in the 17th. Jordan flied to Stephenson. Berger was called out on strikes.

Cuyler beat out an infield single with two out in the 17th. Stephenson was called out on strikes without taking a swing at any of Frankhouse's three fast ones.

Holland singled to right to get the 18th under way. R. Moore attempted to sacrifice and forced Holland, Grimm to Jurges. Knothe hit into a double play, Jurges to Herman to Grimm.

After J. Moore had flied to Holland to start the Cub 18th Grimm doubled to right. Hemsley was given an intentional pass. Jurges fouled to Hargrave. Koenig batted for Tinning and fanned on three pitches.

Bush took the pitching job at the start of the 19th. Spohrer flied to J. Moore. Frankhouse bounced to English. Maranville flied to Cuyler.

AT THE END OF THE CAMEL'S TRAIL

Participants in the Medinah Country club's annual Camel's Trail golf tournament contemplate with gustatory anticipation the piece de resistance of the tournament dinner in the club house dining room. It's a camel molded out of meat. Those admiring the chef's masterpiece are (left to right) Will H. Wade, past potentate of Medinah temple; Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, County Recorder Clayton F. Smith, L. K. McAlpin, building commissioner of Oak Park; and James Todd, past potentate of Medinah temple.

O'Brien Wins Old Boys Golf with 66 Card

M. J. O'Brien, with a score of 78—12—66, was the best old-young golfer among the 125 who competed in Exmoor's 13th annual Old Boys' tournament yesterday. The tournament is limited to golfers 55 years old and over.

The handicap for each player is obtained by adding one point for each year over 55 to the player's regular handicap. The prizes are awarded by classes based on the players' ages as follows: Class A—55 to 60; class B—60 to 65; class C—65 to 70; class D—70 and over.

E. L. Dawes of Exmoor, who is 79 years old, was the oldest player who took part in the 18 holes of play.

H. G. Mellum of Kenosha placed second to Mr. O'Brien in class A with 96—27—69. Other prize winners were: Class B—E. Haupt, Skokie, 90—29—61; E. Barrett, LaGrange, 81—19—62; class C—C. W. Nash, Kenosha, 94—41—53; W. Girling, Skokie, 97—37—60; class D—Dr. F. H. Martin, Exmoor, 93—44—49; F. T. Ness, Kenosha, 97—47—50.

M. E. Hone, a member, won low gross honors in Bunker Hill's annual Frolic yesterday with 39—36—75. Second honors went to R. A. Murray, also of the home club, with 41—37—78.

The individual low net prize went to J. R. Crowe with 75—5—70. Elmer Rich of Edgwater was second with 78—7—71. C. F. Westlen of Medinah won the mystery prize for high score with 59—68—127.

The winning low gross foursome consisted of W. W. McGhee, Bunker Hill; Elmer Rich, Edgewater; D. A. Matteson, Edgewater, and Chet Williams, Bob O'Link. Their score was 328. The low net foursome was M. E. Hone, Bunker Hill, Gordon Peterson, R. H. Crowe and J. R. Crowe. Their total was 297.

E. H. Kerber Jr. shot an 82 to win the low gross prize in the annual golf tournament of St. Hilary parish at the Columbian golf course yesterday. Second place went to C. L. Snyder with 84. The Rev. J. Stokes was third with 85.

Fred Hartman won low net with 92—18—74. Ed Ehlen was second with 107—33—74, and the Rev. Dan Frawley was third with 110—35—75. Father Charles, O. S. B., won the blind bogey with 90.

Helen Carroll had a score of 110 to win low gross in the women's division. Agnes O'Conner was second with 116. Esther Cleary won low net with 76, with Mary Murphy following in second place with 82.

Dr. A. L. Langhorst of Elgin shot an 84 to win low gross honors in the golf tournament staged by the medical societies of Kane and Du Page counties at St. Andrews yesterday. Dr. E. H. Oelke of Wheaton won low net with 94—22—72. H. W. Kinnie of West Chicago had 106 to win the blind bogey.

Tom Frainey Gets 153 to Beat Field in Silver Tassel

A forerunner of what the nation's leading golfers will encounter at the national open at the North Shore Country club next year was seen yesterday when 175 Chicago divot diggers struggled vainly against par in the club's eleventh annual Silver Tassel invitational.

Included in yesterday's large field were several of the district's leading golfers, and their difficulty in mastering the 18 hole layout indicates to what length Alex Cunningham, club professional, is extending himself to make the course a real test of championship golf.

Tom Frainey played the most consistent golf over the improved course, his 77—76—153 winning low gross honors for 36 holes. Par for the course is 72. The nearest approach to par was scored by Eldridge Robinson, who carded a 74 to win low gross for the morning round. Art Sweet had a 77 in the afternoon which gave him low gross for the second round. He carded an 82 in the morning.

Low net for the day was won by M. J. Buckbridge with 136—42—144. Second honors went to R. H. McElroy with 170—24—146, while third place was won by C. H. Jenkins with 179—33—147.

Other prize winners were:

Low gross, 36 holes—Frank Snow, 80—81—161; Harry Wolf, 80—82—162. Low gross, 18 holes—Eldridge Robinson, 74; M. L. Joslyn, 79; L. Ucilis, 81. Low net, 18 holes, morning—C. H. Andrews, 87—15—72; W. H. Harrison Jr., 87—15—72; D. S. Campbell, 90—18—72.

Low gross, 18 holes, afternoon—Art Sweet, 77; S. Dexter, 83; E. Plane, 84. Low net, 18 holes, afternoon—Dr. J. F. Oates, 86—8—72; M. Schneider, 82—10—72; Col. H. B. Hackett, 90—18—72. Low net foursome—C. H. Jenkins, E. Derning, J. Wunch, and H. Applegreen. Their total score was 611.

Armstrong Is Camel Trail Golf Winner

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Don Armstrong, Dave Adams, and Ed H. Heppner were the head riders of a golfing caravan of nearly a 1,000 in Medinah's fifth annual Camel Trail yesterday. Armstrong shot a 74 on the difficult No. 3 course, Adams a 75 on No. 1, and Heppner a 75 on No. 2. Adams won after a draw with William Van Lain of Beverly.

It was Armstrong who produced the best performance of the long journey, for he was only two over par on No. 3, which has become the nemesis of the district's experts, as seekers after the western junior and district amateur titles discovered within the last few weeks.

Shoots 35 on Home Nine.

The tall blond star from Aurora went around the first nine in 39 and then crashed through with a 35, one under par, coming home. He was over par on the third, seventh, eighth, and ninth, and scored birdies on the second and twelfth. His card:

Par—Out	434	454	534	—36
In	544	534	434	—36—72
Armstrong—Out	425	454	645	—39
In	543	534	434	—35—74

The Camel Trail, regarded as Chicago's biggest invitational tournament, lived up to the mark set by its predecessors, both in the number and caliber of competitors and in the prize list, which included 108 awards.

Sheriff Brings in Ace.

One of the prizes on the No. 3 course was carried home by Harry Radix, vice president of the Chicago District Golf association, who went over the hazardous new course in 81 for seventh low gross. He was also a member of the second low gross foursome together with Al Hale, treasurer of the association.

Sheriff John Hesterman of Du Page county came to the end of the trail with a hole in one in custody. He captured it at the 123 yard ninth on No. 1, a water hole.

MRS. MARSHALL DEFEATS TITLE HOLDER, 4 AND 3

Mrs. Rose Marshall of Cog Hill, who won the Cook county women's championship two weeks ago, apparently is bent on making it two titles within a month. Monday she won the qualifying medal in the Illinois state tournament over the Waveland avenue course of the Lincoln Park Golf club. Yesterday she advanced to the third round of play by defeating Mrs. Victor S. Cooper of Lincoln park, the defending title holder, 4 and 3.

Today Mrs. Marshall meets Mrs. Ruth Burke, unattached, who yesterday eliminated Mrs. C. L. Darr of Lincoln, runnerup in the county meet.

Yesterday's results:

Mrs. Rose Marshall, Cog Hill, defeated Mrs. V. S. Cooper, Lincoln, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Ruth Burke, unattached, defeated Mrs. C. L. Darr, Lincoln, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Thelma Kurrick, Jackson, defeated Mrs. G. Birkenstein, unattached, 4 and 2.

Mrs. R. Jamieson, Lincoln, defeated Miss Ann Conroy, Cog Hill, 6 and 5.

Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, Lincoln, defeated Miss Ella Johnson, Cog Hill, by default.

Mrs. Rose Long, Jackson, defeated Mrs. L. F. Johnson, Mid City, 6 and 4.

Mrs. Harry Langer, Lincoln, defeated Miss Evelyn Bailey, Cog Hill, 7 and 5.

Mrs. Isobel Meany, Cog Hill, defeated Mrs. Harry Hoffman, Lincoln, 5 and 4.

WESTERN GOLF TOURNEY LIST MOUNTS TO 163

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The field for the 33d Western Amateur golf tournament, which starts here Monday, reached 163 today. Another dozen entries are expected.

Eighty golfers from the Chicago district, including nine national amateur qualifiers, are listed.

Don Moe, defending champion, Portland, Ore., left last night for Rockford after qualifying for the national tournament.

Johnny Lehman, who shot a 144 to lead qualifying for the national amateur at Byrn Mawr, heads the Chicago list. Other qualifiers include George Dawson, Frank Justin, Art Sweet, Gust Fetz, Ira Couch, Chick Evans, John Van Nortwick Jr., and Allen Loeb.

Three former Trans-Mississippi champions, Keith Carter of Oklahoma City, Robert McCrary of Des Moines, and Arthur Bartlett of Ottumwa, Ia., are entered.

ROYAL LEAGUE HOLDS MEET.

The annual Royal League National Golf association's men's tournament will be played on the Bartlett Hills Country club course today, with a field of 150.

LEONARD AGREES TO M'LARNIN BATTLE OCT. 3

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Benny Leonard, former lightweight boxing champion, who ran up a string of 21 victories in his comeback campaign in the welterweight division, will get his greatest test at the Madison Square Garden bowl on Oct. 3. Leonard today agreed to meet Jimmy McLarnin, hard punching Vancouver boxer.

Here is the description of the Japanese swimming method provided by one Japanese here with his team:

"Swimming technique was studied scientifically, even to minute details. Of course, this is nothing more than an understanding of the human anatomy, plus water, plus certain physical laws. The stroke and the paddling that gives more speed were taught to young boys. One of the most important aids to the Japanese swimmers is the paddling of the feet. This is not an up-and-down motion, but a roll like that of a ship's propeller. This is made possible through flexible joints at the knees and ankles and has to be developed in the swimmer when he is young."

It should be explained that in the Japanese crawl the arms make approximately two strokes, compared to the one long over arm stroke of the American crawl. The Japanese shoot their arms quickly and straight in front of them with a snap.

Most of Them in Teens.

Our Japanese informant explained: "The contingent of 22 Japanese swimmers are still in their teens from the age of 14 years up, except for four or five. This does not imply that Japanese swimmers are 'burnt out' at an earlier age than Americans; the advantage is in our early start. Even women, whose place in Japan has always been in the home, have turned out for swimming. Yes, even in one piece bathing suits! That could not have been thought of, before 1920."

Many, but not by any means all, of the youthful Japanese world swimming champions come from four oceanside communities. The first of these is Shizuoka Ken (ken means prefecture or county) on the main island of Hondo, some 60 miles southeast of Tokio and

SLAIN "PRINCE" BARED AS FALLEN ANGEL OF RIVIERA

Belief Grows He Was Son of Austrian Emperor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Aug. 17.—Edgar Serge de Bourbon, who was killed by his Spanish mistress in Paris yesterday, was known along the Riviera as a princely fraud, but it is not at all certain that he was a fraudulent prince.

The 62 year old "prince" who claimed to be the natural son of the late Emperor Francis Josef of Austria-Hungary, was found dead in the room of his mistress with his throat slashed. Condelaria Brau-Soler, a maker and seller of beauty products, gave herself up to police and confessed committing the crime.

Believed a Hapsburg.

Despite the fact that his name does not figure in the Almanac de Gotha [European register of titled persons], and despite official denials of the Austrian legation in Paris and indignation in monarchist circles in Paris and Vienna, there is strong reason to believe that Hapsburg blood really flowed in the adventurer's veins. His technical right to use the title prince of Bourbon, however, is more than dubious.

De Bourbon was known as one of the fallen angels of the Riviera. The circumstances of his arrival here are strange. He was arrested for espionage in Italy in 1916, but was released on the recommendation of two influential friends at Nice. A Spanish embassy was also reported to have aided him.

Again two years ago, when De Bourbon received an order to leave France, some mysterious influence was brought to bear on the French foreign office, which caused the order to be revoked. These friends, whose identities are withheld, today declared that Edgar really was the illegitimate son of the Austrian emperor, and that during the earlier more brilliant and fantastic part of his career as an adventurer he was not a stranger to the Austrian court.

Had Powerful Protection.

Even before the war he had already had a number of brushes with various European police, chiefly for the misuse of various titles, it was said, but he seemed always to benefit by some powerful protection.

His greatest feat was to claim the throne of Albania, and, according to friends, his claim, though fantastic, had powerful unofficial backing. After his arrival here he went broke and gradually slipped lower in the social scale, dodging from one hotel to another, until his credit was destroyed. He tried his hand at the gigolo game with mediocre success.

Perhaps his single greatest claim to authentic Hapsburg descent was that he frequently pawned jewelry identified as genuine Hapsburg pieces in various Riviera hockshops. Little is known here about his relations with his American wife, Clare de Cosse Congor of Ohio, who died ten years ago.

Señora Brar-Soler, the confessed slayer, has been placed in Petite Roquette prison, house of detention for women in Paris.

F. W. FARWELL'S ESTATE IS $80,000, HIS WILL REVEALS

Brother and Sister Left Most of Property.

Francis W. Farwell, pioneer Chicagoan, left an estate of $80,000 it was disclosed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. Mr. Farwell left most of his property to his sister, Mrs. Catherine F. Steele, 4530 Lake Park avenue.

The will directed that Mr. Farwell's personal belongings be divided between his brothers, Arthur Burrage Farwell, head of the Chicago Law and Order league, however, will be given all this estate since George G. Farwell, the third brother, died last June 2. The will also directed that $36,400 be divided between two nieces and eight friends. The residual estate was given to Mrs. Steele.

Chicagoan 76 Years.

Mr. Farwell died in the Evanston hospital last July 28, after a week's illness. He was secretary of the Capital Freehold Land and Investment company for more than 40 years, retiring several years ago. Born in Massachusettes, Mr. Farwell came to Chicago in 1856 and was one of the officers of the Capitol Freehold company, representing the J. V. and C. B. Farwell families, when it acquired 3,000,000 acres of Texas land in return for building the Texas state capitol. He was 91 years old.

The late James A. Low, 5957 Nina avenue, real estate dealer, left $87,000 to the Chicago Unit of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children it was learned yesterday when his will also was approved by Caplan. He gave an additional $10,000 bequest to the Illinois Masonic hospital.

Daughter Given $10,000.

To his daughter, Mrs. Mae Belle Johnson, Mr. Low willed $10,000, and made bequests of $5,000 each to Mildred L. Edes of La Grange, Jessie Siever, 5117 North Ashland avenue, and James G. Lane, Pince Castle, Fla., two nieces and a nephew.

To Miss Tillie Ulmer, 132 North Park avenue, his stenographer he gave $10,000, and made gifts of $2,000 to John J. Thorsen, 5963 Nine avenue, and Laurel E. Foote, 5957 Nine avenue, friends. Mr. Low died last Aug. 13, in McHenry county.

The Rev. W. G. Schurman, 61, to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for the Rev. Wenford G. Schurman, 61 years old, who died Tuesday in the Washington Park hospital, will be held tomorrow from the First Church of the Nazarene, 64th street and Eggleston avenue, of which he had been pastor for 14 years. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery. The Rev. Schurman was a former president of the Englewood Minister's association. Besides his widow, Mrs. Grace Schurman, 6100 Princeton avenue, he is survived by four sons and four daughters.

Koertgen, Postal Veteran, to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Jacob Koertgen, a letter carrier in the loop for 40 years, who died on Monday at his home, 2104 Berwyn avenue. He was 65 years old and had been ill nearly a year, following his retirement two years ago. Three sons and six daughters survive. Services will be held at the chapel at 6200 North Clark street, with burial in St. Boniface cemetery.

MRS. YOUMANS, WAUKESHA CLUB LEADER, IS DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Death came suddenly today to Mrs. Theodora W. Youmans, 69, 337 Carroll street, widely known suffrage worker and club woman and the widow of Henry M. Youmans, former editor of the Waukesha Freeman, who died a year and a half ago.

Mrs. Youmans had been ill in her home for two weeks, but her condition was not believed serious. Death was due to heart disease.

Mrs. Youmans was assistant editor of the Freeman during the editorship of her husband.

She served ten years as a member of the state board of normal school regents.

HOLD RITES FOR ALFRED PARKER, PARK ZOO CHIEF

In tribute to the memory of Alfred E. Parker, director of the Lincoln park zoo, who died Monday, the Lincoln park chimes yesterday intoned Chopin's funeral march as the cortege of the famous animal trainer skirted the park en route to Graceland cemetery. There the body was to be cremated and his ashes returned to Philadelphia, his former home. The funeral services were held at the Parker residence at 4632 Kenmore avenue.

Mr. Parker was 56 years old and had been in charge of the zoo since 1918. Besides his widow, Hanna, he is survived by his mother, a brother, and a sister in Philadelphia.

NEWS-INDEX OF EVANSTON LET TO PEORIA MAN

It was announced yesterday that the Evanston News-Index, a daily newspaper with a job printing office in conjunction, has been leased, with an option to buy, by its present owners to Merle Slayne, publisher of the Peoria Journal-Transcript. Mr. Slayne will take over the operation of the paper on Sept. 15. Nearly ten years ago the News-Index was taken over by a group of north shore residents, headed by George B. Dryden, to insure continued publication. Besides Mr. Dryden, Charles G. Dawes, Albert D. Lasker, Louis Eckstein, and others were in the syndicate group.

Funeral Services Today for Albert Fishell, 88

Funeral services for Albert Fischell, 88 years old, will be held today at the chapel in Rosehill cemetery. He died Tuesday in Terre Haute, Ind., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. I. L. Liberman. Mr. Fishell formerly was in the real estate business and lived for many years at 1380 Hyde Park boulevard. He was a former president of the Chicago Sinai congregation and a life trustee of the Emil G. Hirsch social center. Besides Mrs. Liberman, his surviving children are Dr. Elkan W. Fishell, L. K. Fishell, and Mrs. Felix A. Norden.

Asks Price of Funeral, and Then Ends His Life

August Weidinger, 45 years old, 3155 Abbott court, entered the Bentley undertaking rooms at 2701 North Clark street yesterday morning and inquired about prices of a funeral for a deceased friend. He left, saying he favored cremation. He returned in the afternoon and ended his life by taking poison in front of the undertaking rooms. In his pocket was a note directing that his body be disposed of in accordance with his discussion in the morning. He requested that his sister, Mrs. William D Hoare, 753 Junior terrace, be notified as she had an insurance policy, which would meet the expense.

Unhurt in Train Crash, He Then Commits Suicide

Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Charles Keyser, 67, farmer near Twin Lakes, south of here, killed himself with a shotgun today. Last night his car crashed into a train in Plymouth as he drove to meet his daughter arriving from South Bend, but he was unhurt. He had been despondent several weeks. His widow and three children, Mrs. Earl Garn, South Bend, Mrs. Forrest Holem, Gary, and Raymond C. Keyser, Madison, Wis., survive.

HATTER ARTHUR LEASES STORE AT 131 MADISON

Bond Deposit Asked on 3 St. Louis Buildings.

A downtown lease was closed yesterday when Arthur Feilchenfeld, operating a chain of hat stores under the name Arthur the Hatter, rented the store at 131 West Madison street—in the Roanoke building—from the L. J. McCormick estate. The lease was for an undisclosed term of years.

The rental is on a minimum guaranty and percentage basis. This will be the fifth store in Mr. Feilchenfeld's chain. Mr. Feilchenfeld has been retailing men's hats in the downtown district for more than thirty years. G. B. Chase of L. L. Sachs & Co. was the only broker.

GREENEBAUM PLAN

M. E. Greenebaum Jr., vice president of Greenebaum Sons Investment company, yesterday announced that reorganization plans for three St. Louis apartment house properties have been mailed to owners of bonds secured by the properties. The defaulted bonds were originally underwritten by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company.

The properties involved are on the Branscome apartments, the Congress and Senate apartments and the Embassy apartments. The original amount of the issue on the first named was $600,000, since reduced to $525,000. On the second it was $1,950,000, since reduced to $1,795,000 and on the Embassy it was $610,000, later reduced to $544,000.

Sam Koplar, president of the Koplar company, is owner of all three properties and is at present in charge of their operation.

When Defaults Occurred.

In the case of the Branscome interest on the issue was paid until April 1, 1932, save for a default in the installment of principal under the terms of the trust deed on April 1, 1931. The income for the property in 1931, after deduction for operating expenses and taxes, was $28,288, while principal and interest requirements were $51,682. There has been a further decline in income this year.

Interest on the Congress and Senate issue was paid until April 1, 1933. According to the owner the net cash income for 1931 available to pay interest, amortization and taxes was $171,203, while principal and interest requirements were $174,585. Income has declined this year.

The Embassy's principal and interest requirements were met regularly until Dec. 1, 1932, when there was a default in principal payment. An interest default occurred on June 1, 1932. The owner stated that the net cash income available for the payment of interest, amortization and taxes in 1931 was $51,851, while principal and interest requirements were $52,684. As in the other two cases income slumped sharply this year.

Placed in Receivership.

All three pieces of property were placed in receivership on April 14, 1932. Mr. Greenebaum explains that under the reorganization plan outlined, which is similar for all three holdings, it is proposed to take the properties out of receivership and to continue them under the present management.

It is proposed to extend all the bond issues to Oct. 1, 1944, and to exchange the bonds par for par for other bonds of principal amounts equal to the present bonds dated on or about their date of issue and to be secured by a deed of trust on the same lands, premises, buildings and improvements and by a chattel mortgage on personal property owned by the Koplar company.

Interest on the new bonds will be payable out of income semi-annually at not to exceed 6 per cent for any one year, provided, however, that only three-fourths of such income in each year shall be used to pay interest on the bonds. Mr. Greenebaum asks bondholders to deposit their securities with the Central Republic Bank and Trust company as depositary to make the plan effective.

U. S. HOME LOAN BOARD WILL SELL STOCK IN BANKS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A stock selling campaign will be started by the Home Loan bank board to get initial capital for the eight to twelve lending institutions to be set up throughout the country. Three board members will visit different sections of the nation this week to sound out sentiment of financial groups towards subscribing for stock of the new federal bank system.

Their plan is to determine how much of the stock can be disposed of in the districts to be formed. The amounts of prospective subscriptions are expected to go a long way toward determining the geographical location of the districts and probably the cities in which the institutions themselves are to be established.

The law provides that as soon as the board decides on the location of the banks, books shall be opened for thirty days for the subscription of stock, and all institutions becoming members shall purchase an amount equal to one per cent of the aggregate of the unpaid principal of their home mortgage loans.

Postal Telegrpah and Cable.

I hold seventeen shares of Postal Telegraph and Cable 7 per cent preferred. Will you kindly give me some information regarding present operations, etc.?—M. H.

The common stock of Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation is owned by International Telephone and Telegraph corporation. Securities in the hands of the public are the collateral trust 5s, due 1953, and the 7 per cent preferred stock.

The company operates a land telegraph system in the United States and has 37,000 nautical miles of submarine cable from the United States and Canada to Europe, Asia, and, through its affiliate, All-America Cables, Inc., to Central and South America.

The volume of business done by a company of this type is sensitive to business conditions. Operating revenues for the first five months of 1932 were $9,654,000, against $10,967,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. Net loss was $1,253,000, against loss of $1,172,000 for the first five months of 1931.

Revenues from operations in 1931 were $32,484,000, against $36,136,000 for 1930 and $38,557,000 for 1929.

Net loss in 1931 was $1,764,000. Only about one-third of fixed charges were earned. After reserves for losses in foreign exchange, deficit for the year was $1,975,000.

In 1930 the company earned $97,000, or 32 cents per preferred share. Fixed charges were barely covered (1.03 times). Net income in 1929 was $2,973,000, or $9.74 per preferred share.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $11,332,000 and current liabilities were $6,456,000. Cash was $4,943,000, against cash and marketable securities of $13,881,000 the year before. Notes payable were $2,686,000, against $2,050,000 on Dec. 31, 1930. Working capital at the close of last year was $4,876,000, against $15,720,000 on Dec. 31, 1930.

Funded debt totals $51,720,000 and there is $1,387,000 due to affiliated companies. There are outstanding 305,295 shares of 7 per cent preferred (par $100). This stock is not cumulative.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since the $1.75 payment of Jan. 1, 1931. It is just a speculation.

Libby, McNeill & Libby.

How do you regard Libby, McNeill & Libby 5s, due 1942?—R. B.

Libby, McNeill & Libby, large canners, reported net loss of $4,982,000 for the year ended Feb. 27, 1932, net income of $2,130,000 for the preceding year, and net income of $2,823,000 for the March 1, 1930, year. On Feb. 27, 1932, current assets were $34,575,000 and current liabilities were $14,699,000. Cash was $2,715,000 and notes payable were $12,851,000. The $11,250,000 first 5s, due 1942, are somewhat speculative.

PAUSE IN STOCK MARKET IS HELD TO BE HEALTHY

Gains Largely Based on Sentiment.

While the stock market was taking a breathing spell yesterday bonds continued to gain ground. At the close the TRIBUNE'S bond averages were fractionally higher. There were other signs of business improvement during the day, notably favorable reports from a number of railroads and the announcement by the United States bureau of labor statistics that wholesale commodity prices last month had scored the best July advance in three years.

A pause in the advance of stock prices is regarded in conservative quarters as a healthy development. Inasmuch as the upturn to date has been based on improvement, sentiment and expectations of better earnings in the future rather than on actual fattening of present income, the hope is that the stock market will not get too far in advance of tangible business development.

A Constructive Factor.

The advance in bond prices is considered a highly constructive factor. It indicates a return of public confidence in the ability of corporations to meet their obligations. But, more important still, it means strengthening of the financial position of banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions of the nation.

Gains in railroad car loadings are being reported throughout the country. The most spectacular upturn so far reported for last week has been that of the Great Northern which enjoyed an eleven per cent rise as a result of the heavy crop movements in the northwest. New York Central and Pennsylvania did from one to three per cent more business last week than the preceding week.

From St. Louis comes word that the combined carloadings in that city of St. Louis Terminal, St. Louis-San Francisco, Wabash and Missouri-Kansas-Texas were slightly higher last week.

Shows an Improvement.

The U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics index number for wholesale prices includes 784 commodities, weighted according to importance. The average for July was 64.5 per cent of the 1926 average, compared with 63.9 for June.

During the last three years this index has advanced on only two other occasions, neither of which was as substantial as the improvement in July of this year.

The steel industry is confident of a change for the better this fall. The Iron Age reported yesterday that although steel ingot output had not risen above 14 per cent of the nation's capacity, the delay in improvement was due partly to the shutting down of the Ford automobile plant until Sept. 6.—This has slowed down steel making in the valleys at Cleveland and Detroit.

In Chicago, however, there has been a distinct upturn, current operations being about 13 per cent, compared with a recent rate of less than 10 per cent.

Evidence of greater stability in the power production of the country was found in the report covering the week ended Aug. 13. Total output receded slightly from that of the preceding week and was still considerably below that of a year ago, but the decrease reflected in the latest figures was the same as that recorded for the week of Aug. 6.

For the Chicago district the deficiency was even less. Here the output for the week ended Aug. 13 was only 13.1 per cent below the 1932 level, compared with 14.2 per cent during the preceding week.

One La Salle St. Building Receiver Is Asked in Suit

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted in the United States District court against the Illinois Improvement and Building corporation, owners of the One La Salle Street building. The petition was filed by Attorney Mitchell Zelens on behalf of James V. Kouglas and two other stockholders with claims aggregating more than $5,000. No estimate of assets or liabilities was given in the petition.

Illinois Coal Plays for 60 Million Stake

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Illinois coal mining industry is playing for a stake of upwards of $60,000,000 a year in increased revenue through the recent readjustment of wage scales and reopening of many mines This amount is about what has been lost through the influx in recent years of cheaply produced coal from the eastern fields, chiefly West Virginia, and from Kentucky into Illinois and adjacent states that are natural markets for Illinois coal.

Moreover, as the result of the severe decline in Illinois coal production for the last thirteen years, the industry is fighting for its existence. It is one of the major industries in the state, with an investment of nearly $175,000,000, normally employing about 70,000 men and paying around $75,000,000 in wages. In addition, Illinois mines each year purchase supplies and materials costing around $10,000,000.

If users of coal in Illinois and adjacent states can be induced to use Illinois coal a vast additional sum can be turned into the buying of products of the middle west instead of being diverted to the eastern and Kentucky coal companies and miners. Under recent conditions, which kept the price of Illinois coal relatively high, more eastern coal was shipped into territory west of the Illinois-Indiana line than the total of Illinois coal produced.

Employment Declines.

"Had Illinois been equipped in 1931 with a wage scale that would permit it to secure its fair share of business in midwestern markets, as measured by the tonnage produced in 1923, when eastern districts began to adjust their wage scales in accord with the trend of values, there would have been employment in Illinois mines last year for nearly 70,000 men working approximately 200 days each," the Illinois Coal Operators association says. As it was, only 49,100 men were employed for an average of 155 days last year.

In normal times, Chicago and the rest of Illinois require about 82,000,000 tons of coal a year, including that taken by the railroads. Chicago is the largest coal market in the world and requires more than 36,000,000 tons a year. In addition, back in the heyday of Illinois mining, more than 21,000,000 tons were shipped out of the state each year.

Illinois coal production in 1929 was 58,837,000 tons and only about 8,600,000 tons were shipped out of the state. Therefore, about 50,200,000 tons of local coal were consumed within the state.

Outside Coal Consumed.

"There is an excess of 31,000,000 tons of coal produced outside of Illinois consumed in this state annually for which Illinois industries and householders are paying in excess of $60,000,000 every year," the Illinois Coal Operators Labor association says. "The outside coal shipped into Illinois will aggregate more than 50 per cent of Illinois coal production."

Other data reveal how eastern coal has supplanted the Illinois product in Chicago and the middle west. In 1928 the Chicago district bought two-thirds of its coal from Illinois mines and only one-third from outside. But last year this ratio was reversed, with Chicago buying only one-third of its coal at home and two-thirds from outside mines. Moreover, back in 1923 Illinois mines shipped 21,670,000 tons of coal to adjacent states, while in 1931 only 9,336,000 tons were shipped. If Illinois could regain its former place as a coal exporter this would mean probably $20,000,000 of additional revenue a year.

The troubles of the Illinois coal industry go back to 1920. Previous to that time Illinois coal production rose steadily from 25,152,929 tons in 1900 to 89,979,469 tons in 1918. The 1921 depression period, coupled with a six months' strike in 1922, caused some letdown, but in 1923 the output still was 75,514,095 tons from 371 mines employing 99,081 men. Since then output and employment have declined rapidly. Only 42,902,944 tons were produced in 1931 and only 170 mines were operated, employing only 49,100 men.

Disparity in Wages.

This decline has resulted chiefly from the disparity of wages paid in the Illinois mines, which are practically unionized, and the non-union mines of West Virginia and Kentucky. Back in 1917 and 1918, when wage scales and costs of producing coal in the major competitive districts were relatively uniform, Illinois and West Virginia produced about the same amount of coal, while Kentucky produced only about one-third as much. But in 1931 West Virginia produced more than twice as much coal as Illinois and Kentucky produced almost as much as Illinois.

Before the new wage scale was put into effect last week, making the basic rate $5 a day, Illinois coal miners were paid on a basic rate of $6.10 a day, while the basic rate in West Virginia and Kentucky mines ranged from $2.88 to $3.60 a day, according to the Illinois Coal Operators association. This disparity in mining costs was too great to be overcome by any diffential in freight rates and the cheaply mined eastern and Kentucky coal largely supplanted the Illinois products in its natural markets.

A. T. & T. VOTES ITS DIVIDEND AT REGULAR RATE

Board Acts According to Forecast.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph company at their noon meeting today, declared the quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share on the capital stock, thus maintaining the $9 annual rate which has been uninterrupted for ten years.

This action followed Wall street's general view that full payment would be made. The company, however, has been hard hit by a shrinkage in telephone business in the last few months. In the first half of this year the excess of telephones disconnected over those added was 735,000.

Earnings Are Smaller.

Also in the first half of this year the company's earnings dropped about $20,000,000 below those in the comparable 1931 period. That largely was due to the nonpayment of dividends by the Western Electric company, which is the manufacturing unit for the system.

In the first six months of the year net earnings dropped to $67,746,316. That, after interest charges, was equal to only $4.02 a share on the stock. The company at the end of last year had total current assets of more than $428,000,000. Of that sum, cash and its equivalent alone amounted to $290,000,000; total current liabilities were $206,000,000.

Directors of the Van Raalte company today failed to declare the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock due at this time.

Sugar Dividend Declared.

Directors of the America Sugar Refining company today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock and the regular $1.75 quarterly disbursement on the preferred, but payable Oct. 3 to stock of record Sept. 5.

The 50 cent payment on the common is the same as the payment declared three months ago, when the rate was cut in half.

General American Investors directors today resumed regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock and a disbursement of $1.50 a share on account of the one quarterly payment which was omitted.

Directors of the Vortex Cup company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. This places the issue on a $1 annual basis against $1.50 formerly. The usual payment of 62½ cents on the A stock was authorized.

The Electric Bond and Share company today declared the regular quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks, $1.25 on the 5 per cent preferred, $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred, and 1½ per cent in stock on the common. The preferred dividends are payable Nov. 1 to stockholders of record Oct. 5, the common dividend is payable Oct. 15 to stock of record Sept. 6.

MYTH, BULLET, KREUGER REPLY TO STOCK QUERY

Broker Tells Last Days of Wizard.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—The day before Ivar Kreuger shot himself in Paris last March he was asked by cable to give "real and complete information" to his New York brokers, Eastman, Dillon & Co., as to European selling pressure which had been increasingly pronounced in Kreuger securities during the three previous days.

Herbert L. Dillon, senior partner of the brokerage firm, explained today at a Kreuger & Toll bankruptcy hearing before Referee Henry K. Davis why he was concerned. He cited the fact that Eastman, Dillon & Co., as told on another day, had made a loan of $1,000,000 to Kreuger two months previously for the purpose of taking up large blocks of Kreuger & Toll stock which Kreuger said he knew to be overhanging the market. The collateral behind that loan was itself Kreuger & Toll stock to the number of 650,000 shares, later increased to 705,000.

Kreuger's Money Magic.

The independent attempts of the American brokers to discover the source of the European selling, the amount still to come, and at what price, "in order to combat it intelligently," yielded an explanation which, Mr. Dillon said on the stand, "sounds like a fairy story now."

"We were informed there was a crowd of stock operators in Paris apparently selling the stock short heavily," he said. "They were short upward of 200,000 or 300,000 shares which they were borrowing from a large stockholder in a reprehensible manner. The stockholder was a Swedish financier, Hoegman, who had made a loan on 300,000 shares of this stock in Paris from a rich French count. While the count was on a vacation on the Riviera, he left his affairs in the hands of a secretary, who was bribed to lend the Hoegman stock."

Suicide Quickly Follows.

When Kreuger, without further explanation, shot himself, Eastman, Dillon & Co. exercised their right to liquidate this position and completed the major operation within two days, recovering half of the one million dollar loan.

When the question was raised today Mr. Dillon admitted that he did not know in whose name the securities were registered. The question was asked by Jacob K. Javits of counsel for the Kreuger & Toll creditors and was "whether the collateral sold actually belonged to Kreuger personally or was taken by him from Kreuger & Toll."

Will to Buy Reviving Now, Stories Show

BY HOWARD WOOD.

There's a lot in the way you look at it, as people are beginning to discover.

The fellow who didn't trust the best banks is now laying his gold on the broker's counter and picking up his shares of stock. Afraid of Steel at 22, or American Telephone at 70, General Motors at 8, he is now convinced that they're worth twice those prices.

The answer can be summed up in one word, "confidence." In June the public had no confidence. Today the public is convinced that recovery is under way.

An improved frame of mind will not only boost prices, but it will move merchandise.

A Parable of LaSalle Street.

To illustrate. On July 1 a leading LaSalle street investment house cut salaries 33 1-3 per cent. This with previous reductions brought employés down to about half the 1929 level.

Great was the gloom among salesmen. This house had always followed the policy of paying rather large salaries and small commissions. No bonds were moving. Sales were hard to make and the salesmen were discouraged.

Two weeks ago the house altered its system of compensation. Smaller salaries and considerably larger commissions were ordered. Almost immediately bonds began to move. Market conditions had improved, but the increase in sales was due to more than the market.

Several of the firm's salesmen during the first two weeks of August sold from $100,000 to $125,000 worth of bonds.

"A few of the salesmen," a representative of the investment house said yesterday, "have made more money in the last six weeks than they made in the preceding year and a half.

"Up to the time the change was made most of the salesmen were licked before they started. They thought they couldn't sell bonds and they didn't. But with the prospect of making good money by hard work they began trying. They came down early in the morning and some of them still were around here at ten o'clock at night planning out their sales barrages. You'd never know this was the same place. There's some pep here now."

Fox Pelts Prove Fleet.

Then there is the story of a loop furrier who two months ago conceded defeat.

"What's the use," he was saying. "I've got some money laid away. I can let the creditors take over this business and still get along comfortably. With things as they are I can't make any money and I'm just wearing myself down attempting the impossible."

Then things began to pick up a little. Word came to this furrier of some good fox pelts that could be bought in New York for $18 apiece. This looked like too good a bargain to pass up, so after a few days, he wired his eastern representative to buy a large quantity of those pelts.

In the meantime, however, other furriers also had eyed that bargain with favor. The eastern representative wired back to Chicago that the price had moved up to $35 and was going higher. Within thirty minutes he had an answer from his employer ordering him to buy immediately. And so the creditors aren't going into the fur business after all. "Things look better," says the lately discouraged furrier.

BEST OF THIS YEAR'S TRADE BALANCES IS MADE IN JULY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The largest favorable trade balance for the year was reported by the commerce department today for July. Exports exceeded imports by $28,000,000. The favorable balance in June was $3,000,000, and in July, 1931, was $6,000,000.

Exports for July, 1932, totaled $107,000,000, as against $79,000,000 imports. In the same month last year exports were valued at $108,772,000 and imports $174,460,000.

A favorable trade balance of $121,153,000 was registered for the seven months ended with July. Exports totaled $948,043,000, as against imports of $826,890,000. In 1931 during the same period exports totaled $1,496,739,000, while imports were valued at $1,231,611,000.

Gold exports in July totaled $23,474,000; imports, $16,334,000, showing an export excess of $7,140,000. In 1931 July exports of gold were $1,009,000 and imports totaled $20,512,000, imports exceeding exports by $19,503,000.

Total gold exports for the seven months ended with July, 1932, were $791,312,000, while imports were $164,184,000. Exports exceeded imports of gold by $627,128,000.

For the same period in 1931 gold exports were $1,798,000, while imports totaled $260,453,000, or excess of imports totaled $258,655,000.

Silver exports last July were $828,000 and imports $1,288,000, an import excess of $460,000. In July, 1931, silver exports were $2,305,000 and imports $1,663,000, an export excess of $642,000.

For the first seven months of 1932 silver valued at $9,098,000 was exported, while imports totaled $12,041,000, imports exceeding exports by $2,943,000. During the same period last year silver exports were $17,080,000, and imports, $15,696,000, or an export excess of $1,384,000.

ROCHESTER GAS BONDS OFFERED TO PUBLIC TODAY

Chase Harris Forbes corporation, Guaranty Company of New York and Harris Trust and Savings bank will offer today a new issue of $8,478,000 Rochester Gas and Electric corporation general mortgage five per cent gold bonds, due 1962, series E, priced at 92¾ and interest, yielding 5.50 per cent. One of the long established operating utilities in the state, the Rochester Gas and Electric corporation has enjoyed a growth comparable to that of the section served. Net earnings were $7,124,599 in 1931 against $2,528,439 in 1920, an increase of about 180 per cent. Net earnings at the current rate, after depreciation, are more than four times annual interest charges on the company's entire funded debt, including this issue. This financing will be applied toward the payment of loans made to the corporation with which a July 15, 1932 note maturity was paid off.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—The close today found market leaders from 1 to more than 3 points below their previous levels.

While some of the selling undoubtedly represented profit taking, a large proportion of it plainly was speculative selling for short account. There have been rumors for several days that some of the big bears were ready to fall upon the list at the first excuse. Their chance came today with the good news of American Telephone's regular dividend declaration.

Wave of Selling Follows.

The announcement was followed by an outburst of selling of sufficient force and breadth to break the leaders anywhere from 2 to 4 points and distance the high speed ticker by several minutes. Some fresh buying appeared in the last thirty minutes, however, and closing prices were generally above the lows of the early afternoon.

Some of the more active pivotals succeeded in making up a good half of their early declines. American Telephone, which had been driven down from its forenoon peak of 115 to 103¾, recovered to 110¼, giving it a net loss of 3¾ points on the day.

United States Steel regained nearly a point to close at 40¾, off 2⅜. American Can, which had been driven down to 51⅛, rebounded to 53¾, off 1⅝; Atchison, which had taken a nose dive from 50⅝ to 46½, came back to 47⅝, off 2½. Allied Chemical made up a good half of its early loss and such trading favorites as Union Pacific, Eastman Kodak, and Westinghouse recovered from 1 to 3 points.

Strong Rally by J. I. Case.

J. I. Case, which has been one of the most active stocks on the board since the push got under way back in the second week of July, outdid them all by jumping from 48 to 52. At that final price it showed a loss of 4 points for the day. At one time during the early afternoon that farm implement group leader was nearly 7 points below its close of last night.

The fresh reaction in wheat, following its early upturn in the Chicago pit and a slump of a dollar or so a bale in cotton helped to unsettle the stock market, once the selling got under way.

Westinghouse was a feature in the early trading registering a new high of 40¼ on a runup of nearly 5 points. A run of "stop loss" orders placed by shorts to protect their profits was touched off around the opening and to this was ascribed the burst of activity in the issue.

CHILE FORSAKES SOCIALIST IDEA IN TRADE CRISIS

Adopts New Debt and Export Plans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 17.—Efforts to stand Socialist Chile on its financial feet again took a more conservative turn today as Ernesto Barros Jarpa, new finance minister, went into action.

Jarpa in his first public statement announced he would quash at once plans which his predecessor, Enrique Zanartu, had launched, to the accompaniment of great protest from banking and commercial circles.

Zanartu, who is known as the "king of debtors," had devised a scheme whereby $84,000,000 worth of mortgage bonds issued to farmers by the Mortgage bank, basic credit institution, which handles all Chilean agricultural business, would have been replaced by note issues rediscountable at the Central bank. The plan was regarded as one of dangerous inflation by its critics. They argued that it was tantamount to issuing paper money, without land guarantees, and would help only the debtors.

Opposition to his scheme was the eventual cause for Zanartu's resignation and Jarpa's appointment.

Expects Better Conditions.

Jarpa, in announcing the end of Zanartu's scheme, pointed out that dividends soon to be paid by mortgage institutes, savings banks and old age pension banks would place debtors in better condition. He declared that Chile's public works program will be pushed to keep down unemployment, adding that the government is trying to obtain loans from foreign banks to finance the program. Jarpa also mentioned that the government is counting on aid from private fortunes and excess deposits in the Central bank to assist in the nation's reconstruction, without being forced to resort to additional taxation.

Under Zanartu Chile had started up printing presses as a means of helping the debtor class. A three months' moratorium was declared on commercial debts and payment of home and land mortgages was postponed.

Basis for Revolts.

An explanation of the economic causes that lie at the back of the recent crop of Chilean revolutions is contained in the Chilean Central bank review, just issued. It stated that recent statistics showed there was a 43 per cent slump in the total value of the foreign trade of 48 countries from June, 1929, to June, 1932. Chile figuring among the heaviest losers, being second only to Bolivia.

The Central bank said that if these countries were listed according to the intensity of the decline in their international trade, Chile would reveal a loss of 61 per cent. Limiting the comparison to the movement in exports, the drop for Chile was 64 per cent. Bolivia was the only country to surpass this. Its exports, nearly all tin, fell by 67 per cent.

Shorn of its normal exports, Chile has turned its attention to new lines and during July experimental shipments were made in products ranging from lobsters and eggs to timber and footwear.

The government has sent out a circular to merchants asking their cooperation in "building up new lines of national wealth."

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The bond market hesitated for a while today under a barrage of profit taking, but managed to end the session on fairly firm ground. There were a few soft spots among the domestic categories and the majority of the more active loans were unable to retain their best gains. The list as a whole, however, showed considerable resistance to realizing.

The speculative rails again attracted the largest following. Gains of 1 point or more were held by some issues of Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Central Pacific, Chesapeake corporation, Burlington, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Colorado and Southern, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson and Manhattan, Kansas City Southern, Louisville and Nashville, M., K. & T., Missouri Pacific, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Père Marquette, Frisco, Southern Pacific, and Southern.

Amusement company bonds led the industrials, advances of 1 point to around 3 points being registered by issues of Loews, Paramount, and Warner Bros. The oils were steady.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 12,000.

Hog prices dipped sharply again yesterday and finished the session at the lowest level in almost two months. Larger supplies, sultry weather, and sluggish trade for fresh pork were the factors bearing down hardest on the market. Buying on eastern account here also fell off when relatively lower quotations were found at other places in the middle west. Sellers were unable to halt the headlong retreat.

Buyers found the best bargains at the close, citing instances where it was possible to make a saving of as much as 30@40c compared with early in the week. The extreme top of the price list registered a break of 20c at $4.80, while the general average for the whole day also went down 20c to $4.15. Numerous cases of 25c losses were cited during the closing rounds compared with Tuesday. While receipts have been increasing this week, shipping demand has dropped off. During the first three days outsiders bought only 9 per cent of Chicago receipts. A week ago they took 15 per cent and a year ago 24 per cent sold to shippers. Only 1,000 sold for shipment east yesterday. Hog receipts at 20,000 were largest for Wednesday since May 25 and 26 per cent above the average of the last eight Wednesday totals. During the first 17 days of this month Chicago has handled 288,000 hogs, against 223,000 during the same period in 1931, showing an increase of 24 per cent over a year ago. This total compares with 211,700 for the first 17 days of July and with 263,900 for the first 17 days of June.

Top Grade Cattle Strong.

Top grades of steers maintained a firm position against the bear raid on cattle prices, but all other classes were swept irregularly lower, the brunt of the price slashing converging in medium grades of beef steers. The latter predominated in yesterday's offerings and crashed 25@40c. There was still enough eastern demand for top weighty beeves to take care of the scant supply of these at the highest prices of the season. One shipment averaging 1,385 lbs went to order buyers for New York trade at $9.85, equaling the season's top mark. Few others passed $9.50 and the bulk sank down to $7.25@9.15. Receipts of cattle at 10,000 were largest for Wednesday, with one exception, since March 23. Cattle supplies have been gradually increasing, but bulk of the increases is in common to medium grades. During the first 17 days of August Chicago handled 88,000 head, this total comparing with 66,000 for the first 17 days of last month and with 86,000 in June. The 17 day total, however, is still 15,000 head or 14 per cent smaller than the supply for corresponding days in 1931. With the exception of a few yearling heifers butcher stock showed losses of mostly 25c yesterday. Calves slumped fully 25c also.

Lamb Trade Erratic.

The lamb market fluctuated nervously at the opening yesterday, when reports of lower cattle and hog prices came in. Occasional sales of top natives shot sharply higher at the start, while prices in the same class later were considered as much as 25c lower. The range lambs, 27 carloads of them, were carried through the first part of the erratic trade and released late in the afternoon on a mostly 25c lower basis. The latter sold largely at $5.75@6.00, shippers paying up to $6.10 for the tops. City butchers bought a few natives at $6.60, while one lot of "stick-outs" sold to a packer at $6.75. The bulk cashed at $5.75@6.00. Sheep receipts at Chicago have been increasing. The 17 day total at 177,000 compares with 113,000 a month ago and with 168,000 for the corresponding period in 1931.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 4,350 cattle, 19,817 hogs and 14,003 sheep, the previous Thursday and 7,143 cattle, 17,931 hogs and 15,946 sheep, a year ago.

PRICE OF WHEAT SUFFERS LOSS IN PIT HERE

Stock Market Trend Has Its Effect.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices declined sharply yesterday after showing fair early strength. The lowest figures since Aug. 4 were reached as the result of scattered liquidation by longs disclosed a lack of leadership on the bull side. In some quarters the recession in stocks was given as one of the main factors in causing the break of 1⅝@1⅞c from the early high for wheat. On the other hand stock houses attributed the weakness in securities to the weakness in grain.

Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered in wheat on the way down, and the market broke through the resistance level of 54¾@55c for the December. The latter sold down 53¾c, or 6⅝c under the high of last week, with buying against bids checking the decline. Final trades were on a fair rally from the inside with net losses of ½@⅝c. September was 50¾@ 51c, December 54¼@54⅝c, and May 59@ 59⅛c at the last.

Liverpool Wheat Firm.

Unexpected firmness in Liverpool which failed to fully reflect the decline in American markets late Tuesday was partly responsible for an early upturn of ¾c here. The English market closed ⅝@1c lower with the December at 56⅝c or 1⅜c over Chicago at the time. In less than a week Liverpool has gone from a discount of ¾c under to Chicago to as much as 1⅞c over, which to some extent reflects spreading operations between the two markets.

Increased hedging pressure was in evidence at Winnipeg and wheat in the Canadian market closed ⅝@⅞c lower with December at 59⅛c in Canadian funds.

World's Import Requirements.

Bullish sentiment was somewhat tempered during the day by Broomhall's tentative estimate that world's import requirements of wheat for the 1932-'33 season would be around 705,000,000 bu. This was a decrease of 64,000,000 bu from the previous year and the smallest in over 8 years with the exception of 1925-'26 when they were 671,000,000 bu. The average in recent years has been around 785,000,000 bu.

As North America alone has an indicated exportable surplus of 735,000,000 to 750,000,000 bu wheat, the traders feel that there is no shortage of grain in sight for the current season. Owing to the smaller surplus in Russia and Danubian countries, North America and the southern hemisphere are expected to be forced to supply around 639,000,000 bu compared with 623,000,000 bu in 1931-'32. The foreign demand for cash wheat yesterday was limited to scattered lots of Manitobas, with nothing claimed in hard winters. No. 1 hard at the gulf continues to be held at 4c over Chicago September for August loading.

Corn Closes Easy.

Scattered liquidation developed in September corn yesterday and it went to 1¾c under the December, against 1½c on Tuesday. Trade was not large and the market was influenced to a considerable extent by the action of wheat. Closing trades were ⅛@⅞c lower with September 31½c, December 32¾@32⅞c, and May 37½c. Country offerings were generally held above buyers' views, while the eastern demand was slow. Little attention was paid to the Kansas weekly report indicating that heavy damage had been done to the new crop in the western part of that state.

All deliveries of oats sold at a new low for the season and the close was at the bottom with net losses of ⅝@⅞c. September finished at 16¼c, December 13⅛@13¼c, and May 21c. Hedging pressure had a depressing effect. Rye was ⅜@⅝c lower with wheat. September was 31c at the last, with December 34½c and May 39c.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

No important export business in North American cash wheat was reported yesterday, sales being confined to small lots of Manitobas with Germany taking a little No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern spring, presumably for mixing purposes late Tuesday. Basis on hard winter at the gulf was steady with No. 1 hard winter 4c over Chicago September for August loading.

LOANS.

Personal, Property, and Salary.

Commonwealth Customers—Pay LESS—for LOANS

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the reduced rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more Than Household's low rate?

Cash loans up to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates. Loans above $100 up to $300 made at a rate less than the usual small loan rate.

If you are keeping house and can make regular monthly payments, you have all the security needed for a Household loan. Quick service. Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. 20 months to pay.
